

Serjeant-at-arms—continued.

gencies ; carries the mace, 160 ; appointed by commission under the great seal for the Commons, 175 ; his duties, in the Commons, 175-176 ; maintains order in galleries and lobbies, 176 ; takes into custody persons guilty of misconduct, 177 ; summons persons ordered to attend house, 200, 202 ; or may take them into custody on speaker's warrant, 200, n., 203 ; attends the speaker with the mace, 228.

Session ; question, once decided, not again offered in same session, 339 ; private bills taken up and rapidly proceeded with in a subsequent session, 239.

Sessional orders ; their effect, 216.

Shorthand writers ; before committees, how paid, 441.

Simultaneous polling at a general election, 112.

Sittings. See Commons, House of.

SPEAKER :

I. Of the Senate : Appointed by commission under the great seal 157 ; his duties, 158 ; proceedings in case of absence, 157 ; salary, 147 ; new appointment, 222, 223 ; reports his excellency's speech, 223 ; commands usher of the black rod to proceed to Commons chamber, 222, 236 ; informs Commons that causes of summoning parliament will not be announced until a speaker is elected, 226 ; acknowledges Commons' privileges on behalf of his excellency, 229 ; his duties at prorogation, 236-237 ; may address the house ; explains points of orders, when called upon, 158 ; Senate adjourns on announcement of death of a former speaker, 243 ; his duties in absence of quorum, 247 ; may present a petition, 262 ; decision of a speaker as to money petition, 268 n., signs addresses to the queen or her representative, 295 ; votes on questions, 390-391.

SPEAKER—continued.II. Of the House of Commons :

Reports of judges respecting controverted elections made to him by law, 120, 121 ; orders issue of writs for elections, 124 ; informs the house of the issue of warrants, 124 ; issues warrant on resignation of members, 138 ; on acceptance of office, or on vacancy by death, Ib. ; 139 ; new members, on introduction, pay their respects to him, 142-143 ; his salary, 147 ; admonishes or reprimands members, 153 ; provisions of B. N. A. act respecting election, 162-164 ; provision for his temporary absence from chair 164 ; serjeant with mace precedes him, on his entering or leaving house, 165-166 ; his duties, 166-168 ; takes no part in debate whilst in the chair, 168 ; but may speak in committee of the whole, 168 ; only votes in cases of equality of votes, 168 ; signs votes and proceedings, 170 ; his right of appointing certain officers and servants ; his control over the same, 171, 172-173 ; informs house of changes at the table, 173 ; may suspend or dismiss employées, 174, 193 ; appoints accountant, 174, 184 ; may order withdrawal of strangers, 177 ; acts as chairman of board of commissioners of internal economy, 183 ; claims privileges at opening of new parliament, 186 ; is examined in the chair, in cases of inquiry by the house, 202 ; his duty on examination of witnesses at the bar, 202-203 ; is chairman of committee for revision of rules, 213 ; calls attention to certain quasi standing orders, 217 ; reads motions in the two languages, when possible, 218 ; elected at commencement of new parliament, 224-228 ; proceedings after his election, 228 ; reads prayers, 229, 235, 249, 250 ; proceeds to the Senate chamber, 229 ; his duty on returning, 231 ; at a prorogation, 236-237 ; leaves the chair at six o'clock, p.m. ; resumes at half past seven, 246 ; his duty in absence of a quorum,