

from the mouth of the River Saguenay, where he remained for two days, and held Divine Service and preached each evening, to a Congregation of twenty persons, in the house of his host, Mr. Blair, the Chief Agent of Mr. Price's Establishment. From thence, Mr. Ross proceeded to Rivière du Moulin, and remained there for the space of ten days, as the guest of Mr. D. Price. Here he celebrated Divine Service and preached upon five occasions, to a Congregation of about twenty-five persons, distributed French and English Tracts, read portions of Scripture and the Service of the Church of England, in the French language, to a few French-Canadian Protestants, and having visited Chicoutimi and its neighbourhood, returned on 17th September, to Grande Baie. Here, on the evening of his return, he read Prayers and preached; and next day went on board a Schooner, with the intention of visiting the Establishment at Petit Saguenay: but, in consequence of the roughness of the weather, the Schooner was unable to put in, and therefore proceeded direct to L'anse-à-l'Eau, at the mouth of the Saguenay. Mr. Ross celebrated Divine Service here, and preached to a small Congregation, consisting chiefly of the family of Mr. Radford, the Chief Agent. Circumstances, over which he had no control, prevented Mr. Ross from visiting the Settlement at Rivière aux Canards on the opposite shore of the Saguenay; and on September 22nd, he sailed from L'anse-à-l'Eau for Rivière-du-Loup, which he reached after a passage of six hours.

The Rev. P. S. Williams, in his Report of missionary duties performed at River David, states that he celebrated Divine Service on Sundays at that Station upon eleven occasions during the past year: upon ten of which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.
