Mr. Marshall's yard has been delivering bricks steadily since the beginning of the year. The winter stock has now been almost sold out, and this is the case with other yards also.

Brickmaking will again become active when the weather grows season-able and all danger of exceptional cold is over.

Building Prospects.

While building in Mount Dennis has been somewhat backward since the outbreak of the war, Goddard & Marshall report good prospects and pre-dict a very healthy tone this spring Seven or eight brick residences are now in course of erection and ten or a dozen more are projected. More houses have also been rented during this last week than all winter, and only a few vacant houses remain in the district.
