Kemp, be-cause he was out and out against reciprocity from the drop of the hat to the bitter end. The artisan who was voting for this treaty was voting away his bread and butter. The claim that reciprocity would remove the middle-man was an absurdity, as it was impossible for the producer and the con-sumer-at-large to deal directly between each other.

The reciprocity pact was in direct antagonism to the sawlog policy of Ontarlo, which was first proposed by Mr. Whitney when in opposition and adopted by the Liberals. That policy caused the sawlogs to be manufactur-ed in Ontario, to the great benefit of the workingmen of this province.

The pact is so arranged that it is a of a future the splendor of which we can but dimly realize. meeting was held here to-night in the interests of Mr. Armstrong, the Liberal Conservative candidate. Alex W. Wright and D. C. Hossack of Toronto discussed at some length the issues heattendance, including many ladies. F. G. Tremayne acted as chairman.
D. C. Hossack discussed the position of the three prairie provinces in regard to the administration of public lands, mines, minerals, and other natural resources within their bounds, contending that Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta should receive the recognition of their rights.

Regarding the building of the Hudson Bay Railway, he supported the position taken by Mr. Borden, and contended that public ownership would in proper bounds be in the interest of the proper bounds be in the interest of the people of Canada, as it would operate as a check upon the high rates and prices charged by privately owned en-terprises of a similar character. To the charge that the building of the Hudson Bay Railroad would mean an increased debt, it was shown that the country would have against that debt a large and profitable asset.

In dealing with the subject of reciprocity, the speaker pointed out that the home market in Canada had during the last few years rapidly improved and that it now consumes about 80 p.c. of the produce from the farm. The British market will never be closed to Canadian farmers.

There are some conditions which cannot well be improved. The condition of Canada at present is one of them. It is not well that Canada should enter into any treaty unless she is able to do so with self-respect.

Mr. Hossack concluded elequently: We live in a great and goodly world. Its forests, farms, orchards and prairies stretching in unbroken line from sea to sea. In the midst of abounding prosperity dwells this great and spreading nation. The country is rapidly becoming a home for people from other lands and climes, which seek a rotuge and a place of abiding which will give them a better home and a the world. "If it passes, it will certainly boost the twin cities, St. Paul and Minne-apolis, a whole lot. They are already taiking of a new line of railways from Winnipeg to the Guif of Mexico. Edwin Hawley is back- of it. Maybe you never heard of him, but he is one of the small frogs in the railroad puddle. He owns two or three little roads up here, and by building from here to Winnipeg and making a couple of connections between some of the lines he controls, he will have a line clear thru. or he can contract with the Canadian Northern, about 160 miles from here, and the result will be the same. They are talking new factories, new depots, new freight depots, and all kinds of business to be here if reciproc-

He goes on to say in his letter that times are full and the railways are reducing their staffs tremendously, so much so that he declares that he will return in all probability to Canada as seen as the fall grain trade is over.

He Likens Many Prominent Canadians to Mercenary Camp Followers, at Maguire Meeting.

It was a cosmopolitan audience that gathered to hear Alfred Maguire, Liberal candidate in Centre Toronto, lest night in St. George's Hall. J. W. Curry, K.C., who has just returned from a campaign tour in northern Ontario, told of the work in the northern constituencies. When he referred to Bourassa and his campaign in Queuec, a voice from the audience shouted "We don't want him." "You may not want him," replied the speaker, "but the Conservative party are wilding to accept any aid. They are willing to accept any aid. They would even shake hands with the deutle if they thought they they could gain anything by it. (Laughter.)

"The Liberals who have deserted the party are like the camp followers who hang at the heels of an army, prepared to partake of its victory, or, if beak. There has never been, in the positical history of Canada, such a cames agn of lying and vilification.

"Why does Taft want reciprocity?" demanded an elector.
"Because he knows the people there are being taxed on food products as they are in Canada, and he knows that if food is taxed it must be dearer."

"Next!" shouted the crowd.

Arguing that the manufacturers who were fighting reciprocity were not giving the workingment a square deal, Mr. Curry was interrupted by an angered man in the gallery, who asked, "Don't they get their wages?"

"But they don't get enough," cried another auditor. "Any manufacturer who makes $750,-000 profit per year." responded Mr. Curry, "and does not take into account the laber that has helped him make his dividends, is not doing his duty to those under him. A man should be just before he tries to be seperous. He should ponder a little on the sermon on the mount before he spends his money building churches."
