THORN PAYS THE PENALTY.

The Murderer of William Guldensuppe Electrocuted at Sing Sing.

Electrical Apparatus Worked Without a Hitch and Death Was Instantaneous—Condemned Man Displays Remarkable Nerve, Smiling as He Enters the Execution Room.

Sing Sing, N.Y., Aug. 1.—Martin Thorn was executed at 11:17 o'clock this forenoon.

Thorn slept soundly until nearly 6 o'clock this morning. Then he put on the new set of clothing provided by the State to meet his death. Thorn eyed it carefully and inspected the slit in the leg, where the electrode was to be applied. At 8 o'clock Warden Sage went into the death house. The warden talked with Thorn for a little time, and when he came out said: "Thorn told me he was not nervous, and would die bravely. He said he was perfectly reconciled to his fate, and that he had made his peace with God. He slept well and had no fear of death. There is not the slightest change in his actions. He is the same cool man who came to the prison six months ago. His nerve is stronger than any other murderer who has been in the death house."

When Thorn rose this morning he told one of his keepers that his only dread was the wait from the time he awoke until he was summoned to the chair. Rev. Father Hanselman of Brooklyn, a spiritual adviser of the murderer, called at the prison shortly after 8 o'clock, and remained with Thorn until the 10 o'clock execution.

Thorn was dressed in a white robe, and the Bible when the priest entered the death house. He greeted the priest affectionately. Father Hanselman heard his confession, after which the last sacraments of the church were administered to Thorn.

Thorn then read his prayer book and prayed until he was summoned to the death house.
