A Teutonic Tale.

A German clergyman, while travelling, stopped at a hotel much frequented by wags and jokers. During dinner these worthies opened fire on the clergyman, who, however, stood their jibes and sneers with a calm indefference. At length a fellow diner said to him, "Well, I wonder at your patience. Have you not heard all that has been said to you?"

"Oh, yes, but I am used to it," replied the clergyman. "I am chaplain of a lunatic asylum; such remarks have no effect upon me."

To A Celebrity. A small girl interested in snakes and eager to know what John Burroughs thought of them, wrote to the famous naturalist, and showed herself more connaturalist, and showed herself more considerate than many of his correspondents by concluding her letter as follows:—"Inclosed you will find a stamp, for I know it must be fearfully expensive and inconvenient to be a celebrity."
