the welcome news received this morning by R. P. Rithet & Co. In a telegram from San Francisco to the local agents last evening the Pacific Coast Steamship Company said: "Last information we have of the steamer City of Puebla was that she was spoken in tow of the steam schooner Chehalis on Sunday at 8.30 p. m., twenty miles southwest by west off the Columbia, all well. As the vessel with tow is not making over five miles an hour she is now near Cape Blanco. The weather tend to cause anxiety. It is impossible for the Chehalis and her tow to reach here before Friday morning. Expect reports from Eureka to-morrow. Will wire when we receive them.' That the Puebla has arrived at the Bay City by this time there is no doubt. The steamer has been out from Victoria since the 29th of last month. After breaking her shaft she was picked up by the steam schooner Chehalis, a vessel of 420 tons, a short distance south of Columbia, and then began a long and dreary tow. In the absence of news for a number of days much anxiety was felt for the disabled steamer. The Chehalis would prove a small tug in heavy weather large a steamer, and there was always the risk of a storm driving the Puebla ashore. But fortune stayed with the crippled ship after her mishap, and it is believed by this time all her passengers have been safely landed at the Golden Gate.

Safe in Port.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.-The belated steamer City of Puebla came limping into port this afternoon. A large crowd gathered at the dock to greet the delayed vessel.
