(San Francisco Chronicle.) A Chinese hauled into court for selling lottery tickets a few weeks since, testified that his ocupation was "solicitor for an undertaker." It raised a laugh in court at the time, but the Oriental's statement of his vocation was correct. He is literally the drummer for the largest undertaking firm in Chinatown. His methods are the corner of Pine and Kearney som two or three years ago. He advertised original. He has a list, to which he is himself as "comedian," and in face he did have the comic gift developed in no common degree. He pretended to sell only a small book of his own seladding constantly of the sick and ailing people in the Chinese quarter. He keeps his eyes on them and when one is likely to die he tackles the victim while he is still of sound and disposing mind, sets before him the advantages of his firm, in price, respectability and strictly up-to-date funeral acce and gets his order before it is too late. The business has paid this man so well that the other Chinese firms have followed the lead, and competition with a medley of the latest songs."

among the sick of Chinatown is especially keen. The process is not un-known among Caucasian undertakers, but they are usually more guarded about it, and this is probably the first time that it has ever been registered nealthy man believe that he was as a profession.

The incident recalls the. fact that there are dozens of curious vocations being carried on in San Francisco, occupations that are nevertheless in the city directory and that only bob up now and then through just such an incident as this of the arrest of the undertaker's drummer. The names of most of the professions and trades comprised under this head would cover but little meaning to the average reader. Here are some of them, just for example: Bride carrier, mourner, widow consoler, schadehan, tenth man, razor swapper, steerer for quack doctors and prayer seller. All these are now being conducted in San Francisco, and all are making some one a living.

Of course, the most singular of Or course, the most singular of these are Chinese, and of these per-haps the queerest is the trade of the bride carrier. There are three women following the occupation in Chinatown and making a comfortable, if dic, income. The excuse for the trade is the Chinese custom of mak-ing the bride an idler on her wedding y, forbidding her either to walk or and and requiring her to be carried om her household to that of her husday, for from her ho band by some one of her own sex. It would perhaps be permitted that the bride's mother or some of her female relations should perform this delicate attention, but of late this is consider-ottom of the business. As every sha-No Argument Needed ver knows, razors sometimes act in the most unaccountable manner. Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults. Mr. C. R. Rembrandt of Rochester,
