

TO MY BROTHER.

Who held the tempting apple nigh,
And always tried to make me cry,
And stuck the scissors in my eye?
My brother.

Who left us all on Christmas Day,
And to the cupboard made his way,
And of the tree left not a spray?
My brother.

Who threw my playthings on the floor,
And broke my doll behind the door,
And my best ribbons always tore?
My brother.

Who pinch'd my kitten's ear or tail,
And duck'd her in the water-pail,
And laugh'd at me for turning pale?
My brother.

Who spill'd his coffee in my lap,
And tore his mother's new lace cap,
And blurr'd with ink my atlas-map?
My brother.

Who's glad he is at school now,
And not at home to raise a row?
I know who's happy anyhow—
His sister.

THE PROGRESS OF YEARS.—They do not go from us, but we from them, stepping from the old into the new, and always leaving behind us some baggage, no longer serviceable on the march. Look back along the way we have trodden; there they stand, every one in his place, holding fast all that was left in trust with them. Some keep our childhood, some our youth, and all have something of ours which they will give up for neither bribe nor prayer; the opinions cast away, the hopes that went with us, no farther, the cares that have had successors, and the follies outgrown, to be reviewed by memory, and called up for evidence some day.

ERRORS ON THE SAFE SIDE.—As there are some faults that have been termed faults on the right side, so there are some errors that might be denominated errors on the safe side. Thus, we seldom regret having been too mild, too cautious, too humble; but we often repent having been too violent, too precipitate, or too proud.—Colton.

THE GO-BETWEEN.—There is, perhaps, not a more odious character in the world than that of a go-between—by which we mean that creature who carries to the ears of one neighbour every injurious observation that happens to drop from another. Such a person is the slanderer's herald, and is altogether more odious than the slanderer himself. By his vile officiousness he makes that poison effective which else were inert; for three-fourths of the slanders in the world would never injure their object, except by the malice of go-betweens, who, under the mask of double friendship, act the part of double traitors.

PRETTY GOOD.—A man in Ohio, well-mounted, was urging on a drove of fat hogs towards Detroit, when he met a charming lot of little girls, as they were returning from school, when one of them, as she passed the "swinish multitude," made a very pretty courtesy.
"Why, my little gal," said the man, "do you courtesy to a whole drove of hogs?"
"No, sir," said she, with a most provoking smile, "only to the one on horse-back."

A LADY asked a sailor why a ship was called "she." The son of Neptune ungallantly replied that it was "because the rigging cost so much."

MRS. PARTINGTON expresses her apprehensions that the people of the gold regions will bleed to death, as papers are constantly announcing the opening of another vein.

PLEASURE.—A country dentist advertises that "he spares no pains" to render his operations satisfactory.
