FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"To think," said Trevor softly "that I was actually jealous of that chap Davon, when I saw you with him the other night!"

"It-it was an accident—I didn't expect to meet him," broke in Betty hurriedly. "Although she had her own opinion of April's conduct on that occasion, her generous little heart shrunk from giving another girl away."

"It was April that Mr. Davon cared for, and not for me."

"She had flushed up to her pretty eyes, and Trevor, momentarily puzzled, noticed her embarrassment. Was there—had there been—more in that chance meeting with Davon than he thought? He dismissed such questionings as unworthy. Davon have each

There were green reflections in them, sometimes, if she stood in the shadow of the trees, he solemnly replied, investigating.

"They're going to, sweetheart," whispered Trevor, "if I've got anything to do with it."

"Shadows were lengthening around them, and only an occasional sleepy twitter came from the branches overhead. Even the pink and white anemones that carpeted the ground were closing sleepy petals.

Stooping, Trevor, plucked a little sprig.

"It's very much like you, sweetheart," he said, "beautiful and fresh and young and pink and white. You're just as natural and sweet and simple as this little bit of anemone. And I can picture you falling asleep at night just as it does."

"I couldn't, Betty—you're incapable of being asleep," she laughed. "I'm dreadfully human, Jack."

"Don't put me up on a pedestal, my dear."

"But I can't help doing so," she whispered, still more softly.

"Ah, sweetheart, when I'm close to you I feel like this. I love you with all my heart, and I want to be with you all the time. A faint sound, gradually growing into a loud cry, broke into the silence that ensued."

Then the sharp tinkle of a bicycle bell rang out. Round a corner, a young man, wearing a white shirt and a dark tie, came riding along. He was looking at his watch, and he was looking at the girl who was sitting on the bicycle. He was looking at her with a look of admiration and love.

"This is for you, sir," he panted. This telegram came for you about half an hour ago. Mother and I were waiting for it, for fear it might be important."

He handed the yellow envelope to Trevor.

"Thanks, sonny," Trevor slipped a coin into the grubby, hot little hand. "This is important, my boy. It means that I must leave you immediately on business—and go back to town tonight."

Tomorrow—"I'll Never Forget."

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

It is heaven upon earth to have a man's mind more in charity, rest in Providence, and upon the poles of truth.—Bacon.

Wants Patterns.

Dear Miss Grey—Kindly address my inclosed envelope to H. N. D., who so kindly offers the loan of several ready-made patterns, also find a self-addressed, stamped envelope for creper and child sleeper patterns, thanking you, also the Mail-Box friend who sent in above pattern. I remain,

A SOUTHERN ROSE.
P. S.—Dime inclosed is for S. C. H. Ans.—Have forwarded your letter to H. N. D. The patterns you ask for are not in Mail-Box at present. If they are sent in I shall forward them. Many thanks for hospital time.

Requests and Mites.

Dear Cynthia—Excuse the familiarity with which I address you, but you are my "sister" friend to us poor Boxes when we are in need of assistance.

When you please send me the two sleeper patterns for my boy, aged 4. I believe Chestnut and Mone were the best. Inclosed please find 25 cents for S. C. H. fund and self-addressed envelope. Wishing you and all the Boxes every success, and thanking you in advance for patterns, I will sign myself, Ans.—If Chestnut and Mone see your request, I am quite sure they will send patterns. Thank you for hospital gift.

Dear Miss Grey—This is my first visit to your much-enjoyed page, as I always look for your letters as soon as the paper is in the house, and like all other people, have come for some help. I saw in Saturday night's paper that Anchor had quilt patches, and wanted to give them in aid of the S. C. H. Now, if I'm not too late, I would certainly like to have them, and will forward money as soon as I receive same.

I inclose 25 cents for S. C. H. and wish you all success.

LOVER OF LITTLE FOLKS.
P. S.—Will pay all postage on the patches.

Ans.—Possibly Anchor will see your letter and send patches.

Dear Miss Grey—How are you all this fine weather? It has been raining nearly all day, and looks like a spring break-up, but hope it will not be one. Just saw in the paper today where Anchor had sent in some mixed seeds, so am sending for some, and I do hope I will not be too late for a package, also a sachet bag. Please excuse this paper, as I just discovered that I was out of notepaper, and was in such a hurry to get the seeds. Say, but there are some lovely letters in the Mail-Box lately. Sorry I cannot help anyone this time, but will try and do better next time.

PINE LIMB.

Ans.—Am mailing you seeds, Pine Limb.

Dear Miss Grey—Well, how are you enjoying this beautiful weather we are having now? I think it is more like not want to stay long, so I'll make it short. I see where Lella wants the words of "Golden Gate"; I have it and will copy it for her. I am about her own age (17), and would like to correspond with her, if she will write first. I will sure answer her. What color do you think would become me? I am tall, have a fair skin and fair hair, and grey-blue eyes. Do you think mauve or green would look all right? I am fond of these two colors. Could I get one of those much-wanted sachet bags if there are any left? I will inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for same. If Lella cares to write, would you please forward her letter to my address? I wish all the Boxes and yours a very happy Easter. remain as before. BLUE TRILLIUM.

Ans.—Yes. Can't you tell by trying them? Am mailing you a sachet.

Buttlin.

Lately a number of letters have come to the Mail-Box not having sufficient postage, and the difference has to be paid at this end. Would the Boxes kindly see that the postage is covered before mailing their letters? For instance, if a letter contains a number of inclosures it generally takes more than a three cent stamp. Also please remember to inclose a stamped, addressed envelope when requesting seeds, sachets, etc. And "let me forget" please write on note paper and of one side only. If you comply with these rules I will assure you it will be greatly appreciated.

CYNTHIA GREY.

Around the Gate Fire.

Dear Miss Grey—Here is a tried remedy for vermin in the hair.

If there are any mothers, who have children with this trouble I would advise:

Get fifteen cents worth stovecleaner from any leading druggist, soak in about a quart of vinegar over night, next morning wash the hair, and wash the head in ordinary way. Will remove all nits, and one application will do. Be sure and keep out of reach of children. It will soon be time again.

I wonder if I could have some of the flower seeds? Any kind mixed will do. Would like some hollyhock, or marigold. Am sending an addressed envelope, also mite for hospital fund.

WILLING TO HELP.

Ans.—There are no seeds at present, but I am mailing hollyhock. Many thanks for remedy and hospital mite.

Dear Miss Grey—I read in the Mail-Box recently that the original Mystery has aster seeds and many seeds for those who will contribute to the S. C. H. Fund, started by her. Please forward the inclosed letter to the Beauty Mystery, as I would like some of the seeds. It will be time again to plant these wonderful little seeds that are realizing so much, bit by bit, for the S. C. H. Fund and for other things.

I will sign as before GARNET.

Ans.—I have forwarded your letter to Mrs. Grey. It is on the way.

Dear Miss Grey—I have been a regular subscriber for several years and I am coming to you for a little help. I wonder if any of you could give me a warm dress for a little girl 10 years old, to wear to school. There are six in this family of children and most of them badly in need of warm garments, but I am a dress for the little girl of 10 would be gratefully received.

I will sign wishing GRANDMA.

Ans.—Anyone wishing to contribute to the S. C. H. Fund, may have her address from the Mail-Box.
