REGARDING DRESS.—

To those who desire to dress well without being extravagant, who want to have stylish clothes without paying exorbitant prices, and at the same time secure what is thoroughly reliable.

R. J. HUNTER
offers these special considerations:

- 1st. Long experience. Having been in the Woolen Trade from my youth, I take a foremost place in the selection of goods.
- 2nd. I keep the most extensive variety in the trade.
- 3rd. The best talent is employed both in the cutting and making of all clothing.
- 4th. Constant supervision of my business.
- 5th. Gentlemen from a distance should visit my establishment when in the city, the clergy and students. A liberal allowance of this paper may be returned to, should reference be required.
