A STORY IN SECTIONS

Demonstrating What a Hot Sun Can Do With Fruitful Eggs.

"Some five years ago," said Black, "I was aboard a river steamer on the Rio Grande. Among other freight exposed to the sun was a crate of eggs. About noon the purser, passing the crate, heard a peculiar sound. He pulled off a board to investigate, when out hopped an army of chicks. They sported over the deck like penguins on an icefield. The sun had been the incubator, sir."

Blue leisurely removed the ashes from his pipe and said:

"Did you see me, Mr. Black?"

"No, sir! Were you aboard?"

"I was, and I saw you when you went ashore."

"Well, what became of the chickens, Mr. Blue?"

"They flourished, sir—just sprang up in the Texas sun like mushrooms in a damp cellar. Never saw anything like it, sir. You could stand there and almost see them grow. It isn't exaggerating to say that we had chicken on the table the second day out. When I got off at a lower landing, one of the young cocks crowed a parting salute."

Brown, who had been silently picking his nails with a toothpick, now spoke.

"Mr. Blue, do you remember seeing me on the main deck when you got off?"

"No, sir; were you there?"

"I was, sir."

"Well, I suppose you can take up the thread of those remarkable fowls?"

"I can. You say one of the cocks crowed a salute as you went ashore?"

Well, sir, that was just the beginning. Before sundown every cock in the lot was crowing in concert. By 10 o'clock the next morning the pullets were laying eggs among the anchor chains. The original eggs had been consigned to the main landing. The pullets kept on laying until this landing was in sight. Then the purser had the fresh eggs gathered up and put in the crate. The board was replaced, and you couldn't tell that the crate had been tampered with. One hundred and two fowls, deducting the six that had gone to the table, also two dozen fresh eggs over. Quite profitable eh, Mr. Blue? More so than "human fares."

Harvesting.

A little girl and her aunt went for a walk on Union street the other day, and as they walked the aunt caught her skirt on the sharp edge of her shoe heel and tore off several inches of lace.

"Won't you tear it off for me, dear?" she asked. "I cannot mend it now."

The accommodating little girl dropped on her knee and for several minutes there was a sound as of tearing goods—really much more tearing than was necessary to remove a piece of lace only half an inch wide.

"Haven't you finished yet?" finally asked the aunt.

"Yes," said the little girl, rising wearily. "I was taking all this off. I wanted enough for my doll's skirt while I was at it, and the rest for you tore wouldn't do."

A Cinch.

"I should think your mother would punish you for that," said the neighbor's little girl to the one who had disobeyed.

"She can't," was the confident reply.

"I've been sick, and I'm not well enough to be spanked yet, and she can't keep me in the house, because the doctor says I must have fresh air and exercise. Oh, I'm having a bully time."—Chicago Post.

Two Veterans.

"Yes, it's true," boasted Colonel Bragg.

"I've been in innumerable engagements, and yet I never lost my head."

"And I've been in hundreds of them," replied the summer girl, "and never lost my heart."—Philadelphia Press.
