A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigor, tone.

The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure.

A Kind Farewell

During the residence in Athens of Mr. C. H. Smith he had been closely identified with the work of the Methodist Sunday-school, and in recognition of his services he was presented with the following address, to which he made a fitting reply:

Mr. C. H. Smith,
Dear Brother and Fellow Worker,—

It is with feelings of deep regret that we have learned of your intended departure from our midst, and before your going so we beg to inform you of our high appreciation of your help and counsel in our Sabbath school. We have always regarded you as one of the pillars of our school in helping on the glorious work of training our young people in spiritual things. We have looked on you as an efficient teacher in the different classes which have been assigned to you. We have been also pleased to note that you have been the means of helping a number of your pupils to have decided for Christ. Eternity alone will reveal the results of the seed you have sown. We shall miss your counsel and help, and your genial and courteous greetings as we have met you on our streets, but we earnestly hope that as the wheels of time roll on you may return to us again, when you will always receive a hearty welcome.

We shall also miss Mrs. Smith, your esteemed helpmate. Her presence in our school, when she was able to be with us, was always an inspiration. We felt we had her sympathy in our work. The bright faces of your children will also be missed among us. Our prayer for you and yours is that wherever your lot may be cast you may show the same faithfulness and zeal in our noble work as you have shown since you have come to Athens. Signed in behalf of the Athens Sunday school of the Methodist church,
D. FISHER, Supt.

SPRINGTIME IN ALBERTA

Caron, Feb. 28th, 1905.

Dear Editor,—To ye who are wading through banks of snow and afflicted with the grip of Jack Frost, I would say, come to the promised land of warm sunshine, bright clear days, and balmy air. It is a pleasure to have mere animal existence this weather, for it appeals to all the creatures of nature, and well it might. The snow has disappeared and the beautiful prairie is becoming dry and loose from King Frost. A few eager farmers have started to harrow their land, but no one has started seeding as yet. Truly this is a wonderful climate in which the thermometer can soar in a few weeks from 45° below zero to the same number above.

Water is rather a scarce article, as the ground being so dry and cracked by the frost, the water quickly disappeared out of sight; but we have enough for present needs, which is sufficient. Cattle and horses thrive well on the native grass, which was well cured last year.

The nights are clear and bright, a pleasure to the young man whose thoughts will lightly turn to love on the approach of spring. Judging from present appearance, King Cupid has marked several victims as his own. But why is it there are yet so many so indifferent to the claims of cupid? I realize the Eastern people are away beyond us in choosing partners, but the cage is needed before the bird.

It has been a very favorable winter for most business, though the mild weather must have been a sore spot to the coal dealers. This spring will be a very busy one in railroad circles, for all the different lines contemplate the building of branches, while the G.T.R. Pacific is already being surveyed. It will probably run between seventy and eighty miles north of this place. We have the country and we can reap no harvest until we sow the seed, so our government is alive to the benefit of investing in it.

All young men without farms of their own in the East would do well to give this vast country a trial, but, remember, the gold can only be secured by digging.

Of all the lands so fair to see, This is the one that best suits me.

WESTERN.

R. M. Arnold, Addison, is offering by private sale 7 head of cattle, 2 work horses, and all his implements, vehicles, etc. Terms to suit purchasers.

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Robert Horton, Brockville

(NEE MAGGIE YOUNG)

To that home where changes never come
Nor pain, nor sorrow, toll nor care,
There's one more of our loved ones gone
With God her eternal rest to share.
She leaves a husband, kind and true,
To mourn the loss of one so dear—
We know he will feel lone and sad,
And shed for him the heart-felt tear.

Her friends and brothers are bereft
Of one they felt they could not spare,
Yet while we labor here and mourn,
We know she's happy over there,
Where tears and deaths are all unknown,
To realms of perfect, endless day,
Christ is but gathering home his own—
Why should we wish her longer stay?

In yonder palace of her King,
In yonder glorious home of light,
We know she has a fadeless crown
And wears a robe of purest white:
And in those hands we loved so well
She tightly clasps a harp of gold,
With him who doeth all things well,
She's singing now of joys untold.

And tho' our hearts feel very lone,
We'll think of one who reigns on high,
Who promised when we meet again
That we shall never say good-bye.
Our life work may seem hard and dull,
Our hearts seem wrapt in deep despair,
Our crosses only make more dear
Joys that await us over there.

When our hearts feel crushed and broken
God will wipe the tears away,
He will gladly be our comfort,
Let him guide us day by day,
He is willing for to help us,
Let us not forget his word:
"Is thy cross too great and heavy,
Cast thy burden on the Lord."

To that happy land of sunshine,
God will lead the heavenly way,
Let us clasp His hand and follow
To that land of perfect day,
Where our loved one waits to greet us,
Jesus swings the pearly gate,
And till this weary life is ended
She will watch for us and wait.
Delta. Mrs. W. J.

Mrs. Robert Wood, Lyndhurst

(NEE JENNET TENNANT)

She has gone, yes, dear Jennet has left us,
She has flown to her home in the skies,
Where no more she will know this earth's sorrows.

And where there will be no good-byes,
Where no parting words will be spoken,
Where no tear-drops ere dim the eye,
God hath whispered "your labors are finished,
And your soul is now wanted on high."

She is gone, oh! God knows we will miss her,
Our home will seem empty and lone,
It will make us all think less of this earth,
And more of our heavenly home.

Friend after friend here must leave us,
In lonely grief for them we weep,
One more of our loved ones is sleeping
On God's bosom, her last blessed sleep.

And why should we wish her to tarry,
When such joy is awaiting her there,
In that wonderful heavenly city,
Free from all sorrow and care?

Where the harps of the Angels are ringing,
And there's gladness and grandeur untold,
We feel she is there with her Savior
In that beautiful city of gold.

Yet her friends cannot help but feel lonely,
For on this earth we'll see her no more—
But think, what a happy reunion,
When we meet on that beautiful shore!

When the toil and the turmoil is over,
And all of earth's sorrows are past,
And Jesus shall say "All is ready,
We shall greet our loved one at last."

Oh, how sweet when our warfare is over,
And we pass from the scene of earth's strife,
It will be in that land to discover
Hearts we knew to be true in this life!

There no tender ties will be broken,
But all will be gladness and joy,
There, we feel she is waiting to welcome
Us home in that sweet by-and-by.
Delta. Mrs. W. J.

Zutoo

The New York Times and several magazines have been pitching into the drug cures and people are rather quitting them.

First Man: I remember myself seeing a despatch in the city papers stating that a woman had died of heart failure after taking an overdose of one of them, but don't all this apply as well to Zutoo?

Second Man: Not a bit; Zutoo is a vegetable remedy that the Japs have used for hundreds of years. It has never been known to hurt anybody yet, not even the little kids.

First Man: Does it do the business?

Second Man: Well, I guess. Your head'll be as clear as a whistle in less than 20 minutes after taking it.

First Man: Where'll I find them?
Second Man: At all medicine dealers. 25c. for twenty-four tablets, or by mail from the manufacturers, B. N. Robinson & Co., Coaticook, Que. Better get two boxes. I carry one in my pocket and my wife keeps one at home. She says they are especially good for woman's aches and pains.
