Catarrah.

VEGETINE has restored thousands to health who have been long and painful sufferers.

Dyspepsia.
If VEGETINE is taken regularly, according to directions, certain and speedy cure will follow its use.

VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts on the secretive organs and allays inflammation.

General Debility.
In this complaint the good effects of the VEGETINE are realized immediately after commencing to take it; as debility denotes deficiency of the blood, and VEGETINE acts directly upon the blood.

Rotting in Rome.
DISGRACEFUL SCENES AT THE REMOVAL OF THE BODY OF THE LATE POPE PIUS IX.

The despatches from Rome the past few days have contained references to a disturbance in that city upon the occasion of the removal of the body of the late Pope Pius IX. The particulars of the affair are stated in the following special to the New York World:

The translation of the body of Pope Pius IX. from its resting place in the Basilica of St. Peter to the tomb provided for it in the Church of San Lorenzo was accomplished last night and this morning, the removal beginning at midnight and the whole ceremony being ended before daylight.

The ceremony was attended and disapproved by some of the most influential scenes ever seen in Rome. Immediately after his death and his obsequies, it will be remembered that the body of the late Pope, encased in several coffins, one within the other, was elevated in a niche prepared for it high up on the walls of one of the Chapels of St. Peter's where it remained until yesterday. Meanwhile, in accordance with the order given in his will, a simple and inexpensive tomb had been prepared as its last resting place, under the altar of the Church of San Lorenzo, which is some distance from the Vatican. The late Pope had certain tender reminiscences connected with this church and for this reason wished his body to repose there.

Moreover, it is said that the profound humility of spirit had induced him to mortify his pride in life by directing that his body should not have the honor of permanent sepulture in the grandest church of the world and near the remains of the apostles Peter and Paul.

The tomb of the Church of San Lorenzo has been completed for some time, but for reasons satisfactory to his executors the translation of the body was postponed until last night. A careful watch was preserved over it until all the arrangements were complete. At midnight the coffin was removed from the chapel, and surrounded and followed by a large body of priests and Catholic laymen, the mortuary procession set forth. The coffin was placed upon a bier drawn by horses, and the priests and laymen carried lighted candles. The scene was solemn and sombre in the extreme, but scarcely had the procession left the steps of St. Peter's than an unruly mob of the roughs of the city swarmed around it, hustling and intercepting the priests, endeavoring to extinguish the candles and to overturn the bier and shouting "Long live Italy!" "Down with the Pope!" "Away with the black gowns!" and so on.

The disturbance became so great and the fear of a terrible scandal was so imminent that the city authorities were compelled to intervene. The police force proving inadequate, some companies of soldiers were hurriedly sent for. On arriving they dispersed the mob, order was restored, the procession moved on to the church and the ceremonies of placing the body in the tomb were completed.

commandments, I will send my plague upon him, his children and his cattle. And those that shall have a copy of this letter written with my own hand, and keep it in their houses, nothing shall hurt them; neither pestilence, lightning nor thunder shall do them any hurt—and if a woman be with child and in labor, and a copy of this letter be about her, and she firmly put her trust in me, she shall safely be delivered of her birth. You shall have no news of me but by my Holy Spirit, till the day of Judgment. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found.

Canada's Militia Discipline.
PLAIN TALK FROM GEN. LUARD.
At a recent inspection of Militia at Quebec, General Luard addressed the officers as follows: "Gentlemen, I have collected you here in order to say a few words to you. I wish you to tell your men how pleased I am with their appearance as regards their physique, and with the reports of their conduct which have been made to me. Colonel Duchesnay informs me that he has had no trouble whatever in this respect, and had no one in the guard room. So far as regards the men. But, gentlemen, I have to find fault with you in not looking to the correct call out of your men. It is impossible for Colonels to see personally to the equipment of every man in their battalions. Captains of companies are the stand-bys of their Colonels, and must see to the correct turn-out of the men. When all these camps were to take place, I thought me of what was wanted, and issued orders on the 12th May last, of which I will read a few." The General then read the first of the orders laying down the duty of obedience to orders, and added: "I thought when you read this you would read on and obey the following orders. I also laid down, not as an imperative order, but for the convenience of the men, a list of articles which they should provide themselves with, for I have had experience in camp and know what is useful. I advised that captains should see that all their men had their hair cut, and were provided with a comb, soap, clothes-brush and broad-soled boots without heels. These I understand were the boots to which most of the men were used, and the wearing of them would suit them better than the purchase of new and more fashionable cut boots, which are much less comfortable. The fourth order was most imperative, and provided that all battalions must parade at least once a day in heavy marching order. This, I fear, has not been thoroughly observed. No soldier is fit for work who cannot carry with him his food and water, an extra coat for wearing at night. You all know who has not the appliances for these and who has not. Some of you have haversacks, but very few water bottles have I seen. The Battery, which I examined just now, is fit to turn out without any notice upon a ten mile march, and fight. I am sorry I cannot say as much for you. Now that we have found out these shortcomings, let us seek for the remedy. I want all captains of companies to prepare a statement of what accoutrements they have, what they require, and what they have applied for without obtaining, so that we can see where the blame rests for the lack of them. When I shall have the pleasure next year of meeting you all again, I trust we shall find all these defects remedied. I will now detain you no longer."

Going into the Woods to Die.
THE EFFECTS OF A MOTHER'S HARSH WORDS ON A DELICATE AND SENSITIVE CHILD.
Rondout, July 13.—On Monday forenoon, for four continuous hours, the rain poured down in this neighborhood. Just before the storm broke Mrs. Anna Belyea of Sleightburgh, seeing her twelve-year-old adopted daughter Alice sitting languidly in the room, screamed to the child: "Get out of this room, you little wretch. Why don't you go somewhere else to lie around! Get out of my sight!"

The pale, delicate child looked meekly into her mother's eyes, and her sad and suppliant gaze would have turned a heart of stone. For a few moments she stood in a dazed kind of way, and then, with a long sigh of resignation, went into an adjoining room and threw herself on a lounge. A short time afterward the mother went into the room, but the child was not there, she did not see her again until afternoon, when she was borne senseless into the house by a number of boys. The boys had found her lying insensible on a rock in the woods. When they first saw her they supposed she was a tramp, and began to pelt her with stones.

On advancing toward her, however, they discovered who she was, and seeing her unconscious and blue, they thought she was dead. The boys were very much. They went for a crowd of larger boys, and they carried the apparently lifeless form to her home.

It was nightfall before, by rubbing and baths and the administering of proper stimulants, the child was restored to consciousness, and it was many hours before she could either speak or walk. When she was enabled to speak she said that feeling sad and almost forsaken, with no one to love her, she determined to go into the woods and lie down to die. When she arose from the sofa the rain had not begun to fall, but the sun was shining its brightest. Wandering on through the woods, she at length, tired and worn out, lay down on a rock, and gradually became unconscious, probably from weakness. There she had lain in the drenching rain for four hours, until found by the boys. When her mother asked her why it was she had gone away, she answered, with tears in her swollen eyes: "I thought mamma and papa didn't love me any more, and I went into the woods, where God looked down on me, and where the birds sang me to sleep."

Historical.
Plato died at 81—pen in hand. The needle-gun was patented in 1881. The history of iron ships dates from 1787. The first pharmacopoeia was published in Nuremberg in 1542. The oldest note in the possession of the Bank of England is dated 1698. Photography was known to Leonardo de Vinci in the fifteenth century. Coal gas, for the purpose of lighting, was known ages ago to the Chinese. The idea of fertilizing land with salt was conceived by John Napier in 1598. Archimedes, born in Sicily 287 B. C., was the author of over forty mechanical inventions. Silk first came from China, and the Chinese still have many important secrets connected with it unknown to Europeans. The only existing manuscript of Caedmon, the first Anglo-Saxon poet, who died in 680, is in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. In 1855 the planet Neptune was discovered, by which the solar system was extended 2,000,000 miles beyond its former limits. According to common accounts tea was first brought into England from Holland in 1666, and a pound then sold for sixty shillings. Rome was captured four times in sixteen years, and during that time 15,000,000 human beings perished by sword, pestilence and famine. The Arabs established in Bagdad in the eighth century, the first public apothecaries' hall, and in the ninth century the first legal dispensaries. The idea of the kaleido scope first occurred to David Brewster, in 1814, when he was engaged in experiments on the polarization of light by reflection from plates of glass. In the time of Herodotus there was on the Ægean sea a community of "lake dwellers," who lived upon piles driven into the bottom of the lake, and connected only by narrow bridge with the land.

Poetical Paragraphs.
The man who does not love wine, women and song, may not have as good a time, but he'll live five times as long.
There was a young woman in Cairo, who won her husband at Faro. He played but an hour, when she took his left bowler, and marched him off to the Mayor. O! No cards, and tried to blow it out. The paper states that Mary went right up the golden spout. Full many a maid has toyed with keroseene, and sailed to glory in a gorgeous glare, full many a man has poked at glycerine, and flown promiscuous through the desert air. "Define a gentleman?" you ask. "Well, yes, I think I can, he's as gentle as a woman and as manly as a man."
A little kiss, a little bliss, a little ring, it's ended; a little jaw, a little law, and lo! the bonds are ended.
Oh bang! the terrible bang! how over the forehead they dangle and hang; or, plastered with paste, with molasses and grease, how the curly-curles stick like a door-mat's increase; if God made the forehead a temple of thought, the devil made bangs to set it at naught.
Once upon an evening dismal, I gave her a kiss proximal, and called her name baptismal—precious name I loved, of yore. Ah! she was a darling creature, part of speech and fair of feature; but, egad, you couldn't teach her, for she had been there before, and only murmured, "Buss me more."
The fly, the fly, the irrepresible fly! up a man's nose and in a man's eye; following one savagely wherever one goes, and disturbing most terribly a man's morning doze. Shoo fly!

A healthy man never thinks of his stomach. The digestive function of nothing else. Indigestion is a constant reminder. The wise man who finds himself suffering will spend a few cents for a bottle of Zepos, from Brazil, the new and remarkable compound for cleansing and toning the system, for assisting the Digestive apparatus and the Liver to properly perform their duties in assimilating the food. Get a 50 cent sample of Zepos, the new remedy of your druggist, 5, Lee Street. A few doses will surprise you.

Letter from Jesus Christ.
FOUND UNDER A GREAT STONE SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AFTER HIS CRUCIFIXION.
A copy of a letter written by our Blessed Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, and found under a great stone, sixty-five years after his crucifixion—printed at Boston in 1801. This letter was found eight miles from Iconium translated from the holy city by a converted Jew, faithfully translated from the original Hebrew copy, now in the possession of the Lady Cuby's family at Mesopotamia. The stone under which this letter was found was both round and large—at the foot of the Cross, near the village of Mesopotamia. Upon this stone was written and engraved, Blessed is he that shall turn me over. All persons who saw it prayed to God earnestly, and desired He would make known to them the meaning of this writing, that they might not attempt in vain to turn it over. In the mean time, there came a little child about six or seven years old, and turned it over without help, to the admiration of all the people that stood by. And under this stone was found a letter written by JESUS CHRIST, which was carried to the city of Iconium, and there published by a person belonging to the Lady Cuby, and on the letter was written these commandments, signed by the Angel Gabriel, ninety-eight years after our Saviour's birth.

A LETTER WRITTEN BY JESUS CHRIST.
Whoever worketh on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church, and keep the Lord's day holy, without doing any manner of work. You shall not idly misspend your time in bedecking yourselves with superfluities of costly apparel and vain dresses, for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have that day kept, that your sins may be forgiven you. You shall not break my commandments, but observe them written in your hearts, and steadfastly observe this was written by my own hand, and spoken by my own mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man-servants and maid-servants, and observe my words, and learn my commandments. You shall finish your labor every Saturday in the afternoon by six o'clock, at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five Fridays in every year, beginning with Good Friday, and to continue the four Fridays immediately following, in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for all mankind. You shall diligently and peaceably labor in your respective vocations wherein it hath pleased God to call you. You shall love one another with brotherly love, and cause them that are not baptized to come to church Baptism, and be made members thereof. In so doing, I will give you many blessings, and your land shall replenish and bring forth abundance. I will give you many blessings, and comfort you in the greatest temptations. Surely he that death to the contrary shall be cursed and unprofitable. I will also send hardness of heart upon them till I have destroyed them—but especially upon hardened and impenitent unbelievers. He that hath given to the poor shall not be unprofitable. Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken to rest myself. He that hath a copy of this letter written with my own hand and spoken with my own mouth, and keeps it without publishing it to others shall not prosper; but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed and, and though his sine be in number as the stars in the sky, and he believe this, he shall be pardoned—and if he believe not this writing, and my
