MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

His Face Was Covered With Pimples.

Pimples are not a serious trouble, but they are very unsightly.

Pimples are caused wholly by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to purify the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters has made many remarkable cures; the pimples have all disappeared, and a bright, clean, complexion left behind.

Mr. Leonard D. Cooke, Indian Path, N.S., writes: "I am writing you a few lines to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Last winter my face was covered with pimples. I tried different kinds of medicine, and all seemed to fail. I was one day to a friend's house, and there they advised me to use B.B.B., so I purchased two bottles, and before I had them taken I found I was getting better. I got two more, and when they were finished I was completely cured. I find it is a great blood purifier, and I recommend it to all."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past forty years, and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SUMMER TOURIST TRAVEL.

The United States railway authorities are expecting a big tourist travel to New England resorts this year, and advance many reasons for their optimism in this respect. They cite the facts that war conditions have closed the door to European resorts that the San Francisco Exposition which last year led thousands to spend their vacation on the Pacific Coast, is over, and that the extraordinary prosperity in the United States has provided many people with ready money for extended trips. Another indication is the large number of requests received for summer literature. The numerous enquiries received by the Canadian Government Railways is a sure index that great interest is being taken in the summer resorts of the Maritime Provinces, and all its principal passenger representatives in the United States and Canada have been provided with a large supply of 1916 descriptive literature.

With the unlimited possibilities that Maritime Canada possesses for summer enjoyment as those in the most favoured part of the world that may be chosen for comparison—sunny skies, delightful temperature, invigorating air, an endless variety of picturesque beauty—nature evidently intended the "provinces by the sea" to be a land for recreation.

The value of summer tourist business to the New England States is estimated in the millions. Now is the time for our Maritime people having accommodation for summer visitors to put their houses in order, advertise the fact at home and abroad, welcome the stranger and reap the golden harvest.

The Audibly Devout.

"Real fervor is prayer in so rare a grace," the sapient Abbot Smaragdus once observed, "that those who have merited it should in all charity and lowliness conceal their good fortune from their less happy neighbors. For when cold-hearted, worldly-minded men, who go to church merely from a low sense of duty, are forced, while there, to be ear-witnesses of a fellow-Catholic's tender devotion, such a throng of wicked, envious thoughts surge up in the hearts of these graceless wights that the audible fervor of the worshipper actually becomes to his weaker brethren a proximate occasion of sin."

Thus far Smaragdus; and how just the cenobite's observation is let those patient thousands judge on whom the audibly devout have unwittingly inflicted suffering. For who has not encountered at Mass and Benediction the noisily fervent Catholic? She is equipped as a rule with a rosary bearing divers unmelodious medals that rattle in her nervous fingers. She is so fond of emphasizing the S's in the words of the prayers she repeats that the sound of sibilation suggests serpents being driven out of Eden by her strong petitions. Or perhaps our audibly devout neighbor, out of a praiseworthy ambition to accompany the sacrificing priest, feverously turns over the crisp pages of her Missal in a mad search for the Collect or the Secret of the day, and when she at last finds it, widespread is the congregation's rejoicing.

Greatest Event of Life.

A happy death is the seal of our earthly career, and no event of our life can equal it. If you were to inherit a million, yea, untold millions; if you had the fulfillment of all your desires; if you could live to be as old as Methusalem and pass all these years in undisturbed happiness, in the enjoyment of perfect health, without the least adversity of any kind, you would say that life were worth living. And just what would all this amount to if you should not die a happy death? A happy death is therefore the greatest event of your life, to which you must look forward with intense attention. It is the great prize you must obtain: "So run," says St Paul, "that you may obtain it." (1. Cor. ix, 24.)

Who will guarantee this prize? Who will assure you a seat in the heavenly kingdom, a dwelling in the eternal mansions?

If there were a place in the world where insurance for a happy death and tickets of admission into the kingdom of God were sold, people would hurry there from the extremities of the world and pay fabulous sums to obtain them.

And yet the golden key to heaven is within the reach of everybody, the poor as well as the rich, the ignorant as well as the learned. This golden key is the Crucifix, for the Crucified is the fountain head of salvation.

If, therefore, you dread the coming judgment; if your sins fill you with terror and despair, look up to the Crucified on Calvary. There is your Judge, His arms stretched out embrace you, His heart opened to receive you. Yet He is in your hands. Appease His anger now, settle your accounts and crave forgiveness of your sins. Love Him who has loved you with exceeding great love. Make the vision of Calvary your daily practice, the vision of Christ's Calvary and of your own.

Ancient Remedy For Social Ills.

At the Catholic League of South London, England, Prior McNabb, O. P., gave a very striking address to the members on "Catholics and Some Social Reforms." He said that he desired some form of Catholic social action, and the first new form of social reform he would advocate would be the Ten Commandments. He considered they had never received a chance. They had a very unsatisfactory past. Today in London if anyone undertook to keep the Ten Commandments he thought he would be interned. The whole of the social difficulty at the present time was contained in the words, "Thou shalt not steal," and another phrase, "Thou shalt not commit adultery." That was of the gravest importance to members of eugenic societies and other persons who were on the committee of the self-elect. One of the first ways of bringing about social reform was by a study of the great virtues of justice. He advised people to read what Pope Leo XIII. wrote about the social difficulty. When he read some of the words of the late Pope at Catholic meetings he was denounced as a Socialist. One phase of the social difficulty was the necessity of a living wage. The pressing question of the hour was the condition of the working classes, said Pope Leo XIII. What was the remedy he suggested? In addition to keeping the Ten Commandments, it was necessary to pay a living wage. The late Pope laid it down that everybody had a right to the living wage, and it was to be such that the worker and his family should live in reasonable comfort, and have something to put by for a rainy day. The living wage should be the first charge on industry. The lecturer urged that social education should be given to the children in elementary schools. He should like them to learn by heart some of the telling phrases used in his famous Encyclical by Pope Leo XIII.

Anti-Treating Pledge.

Seumas McManus, in an interview at Olean, N. Y., where he lectured some time ago, said "drinking in Ireland is rapidly on the decrease since the spread of the temperance anti-treating movement. British statistics show that the Irishman never drank as much as either of his neighbors, the Englishman or the Scotsman. The Irishman may appear to drink more because," says McManus, "when a Scotsman drinks it sinks to his heels and steadies him—When an Englishman takes a drink, it goes to his stomach and he sits down in his parlor, pleased with himself and the world, and dreams of carrying the blessings of civilization, to the unfortunate heathen in remote corners of the world. But when an Irishman takes a sip of whiskey, he thinks himself selfish if he doesn't instantly go out and take the street into his confidence."
