TUESDAY Dec. 1, 1914.

Recruiting for Second Contingent.

There can be no question of the enthusiasm which prevails for recruiting for the second contingent of Newfoundland Volunteers. The ardor which prevailed at the C.L.B. Armoury last night is conclusive proof of that. But many young men who are anxious to offer themselves are in a quandary, and the training suggested for recruits does not fill the bill. There are clerks who are most anxious to offer themselves, but they are faced with a difficulty. These men are working every night and if they volunteer they are unable to get to the Armoury before half-past nine. If they give up their work, they are without means of support, and even if they did so, what amount of training is it possible for a recruit to get by three drills a week? What drill will they know and what skill will they have acquired with the rifle by the end of December, after say twelve drills? There is again the cases of young men from the nearby outports, who will have to come in and stay here during the part of the week, covered by Monday night, Tuesday night, and Thursday night. It will not be possible for a young man of Pouch Cove to walk to town for Monday night's drill, return home that night, and walk in again for Tuesday night's drill. He will have to pay board and lodging. Again, he will not be in a fit condition to get the full benefit of the drill instructor, nor will the clerk be in better fettle who is working every day and every night, to take full advantage of these drills. The situation demands that these recruits be put on the pay roll immediately after enlistment, and that they devote their full time to drill instruction and rifle practice. There is no time to be lost. Men are wanted as soon as possible, and the men wanted are trained men, men who have been endured to marching, who are practised in rifle fire and who have passed through recruits drill and are able to take their place in the platoon, company and battalion. What applies with so much force to our young men in the city, applies with greater force to our out-

LONDON, To-day.
The Danish steamer Mary, was sunk by a mine in the North Sea on Sunday. The crew took to boats.

INVASION OF CANADA.
LONDON, To-day.
Mr. Taft's view that the landing of German troops in Canada would not constitute a violation of the Monroe Doctrine might permit of the ex-President of the United States, observes the Globe; but it does not occur to him that if Germany were strong enough to invade Canada and exact a war indemnity, she might also be too strong for the United States to turn her out again, so that what the Monroe Doctrine might permit or forbid would be a matter of secondary importance.

MINE ADRIFF NEAR NEW YORK.
NEW YORK, To-day.
A mine with five triggers extending from it, is about six miles west of Fire Island Light, according to Capt. Davies, of the steamship Etonian in to-day from London. The captain said he passed the mine about ten o'clock yesterday morning, while his ship was bound in. At the spot where the mine is said to be adrift, lies in the pathway travelled by all trans-Atlantic vessels leaving and entering New York Harbor.

GALLANT WORK OF COOKS WITH THE RIFLE.

LONDON, To-day.
Details of operations of British troops at the front from Nov. 25 to 28 are given in a report from the Military Observer, attached to the British headquarters. The repulse of the famous Prussian Guards is dwelt upon. After the enemy had broken through our front line, the situation became most serious, the report continues, for there were only field companies at the moment as a reserve, in this quarter of the field, on the right front of the German attack. Firing through open spaces in the woods were heavy batteries and field batteries, which dealt havoc among the attackers both before and after they reached our lines, but the Germans continued to come almost up to our guns. Some bodies were picked up only several yards from the guns. Realizing that all might be lost unless firing could be established, the battery officers managed to form a line of gunners of regimental cooks and details of various descriptions. Their men stood firm and kept up a steady rifle fire. They checked the assault at the most critical moment, thus enabling other troops to come up to repel it more completely.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A London cable to the Herald this morning, says the danger is over, but there is plenty of hard fighting to be done. This is the message from Field Marshal Sir John French, brought by British officers who are here from the front on a few days stop to see their families and friends. The officers are back for a glimpse of civilization, and society is alive and lionizing them; dinner parties with khaki clad officers at many tables enlivened leading hotels and clubs in London yesterday. The officers look splendidly fit and have gained weight. They say the best food London can provide is not as good as the fine "Bacon" and other things they receive daily. The officers without exception say Lord Kitchener's strict censorship and no war correspondent policy has saved thousands of lives. They say the Russian method of announcing news after it is all over is the best mode. This also explains they believe, why so little is said about the victorious Russian operations in Poland. The authorities, it is stated, are not absolutely satisfied that the disaster to the battleship Bulwark was due to an accident. According to a Daily Express, just about the time the ship was blown up a man of military bearing was seen on the bank of the Medway near the scene of the calamity. A description of him has been sent to the police throughout the country. A heavy southwest gale is raging in the English Channel and great waves are breaking over ships and breakwater, at Admiralty Pier extension at Dover.

BATTLE OF FLANDERS DEAD.
LONDON, To-day.
A Paris correspondent of the Times who has been allowed to inspect the battlefront in Belgium, wires that the Battle of Flanders is dead. The German dash for the coast made with four cavalry and 15 infantry corps and opposed at first only by war-worn Belgians and a thin line of Allied troops has all worn itself to extinction.

CARGO OF COALS.—The Norwegian steamer Anna, 8 days from Philadelphia, arrived in port this morning with a cargo of coals to the St. John's Gas Co.
