Build Bungalows.

Several bungalows are built by the Government. These bungalows are decorated by the birds and flowers and other bright objects. Sometimes one bird will move a flower placed in position by a fellow bird. The result is a free fight, for none of the birds will tolerate interference or competition.

There are several different kinds of bungalows, and each is built by a different bird. These bungalows have nothing whatever to do with the birds' nests. There is a great deal of attention paid to keeping these bungalows in good order. Some of the birds prefer shells and garden decorations; others use colored bottles and other things. While one bird lays out a lawn of grass, which it decorates with all kinds of old ends. As soon as the grass of the garden becomes faded, some leaves, or flowers are carried to a rubbish heap behind the bungalow.

Working Girls Home.

The working girls home, which was opened on Monday morning on a charge of disorderly conduct, has been taken into the working girls home until room can be found for her in the Rescue Home.

Saturday's Cricket Revival.

FEILDANS WIN.

The first cricket match for some time, was played on St. George's Field on Saturday afternoon, when the Feildans defeated the Nondescripts by 9 runs. The game was quite an exciting one although, owing to the state of the wicket, there was no big scoring. Tait's 22 in the second innings was the best individual score for the game. The Feildans won the toss and Hayward elected to go to bat. Against the bowling of Reid and Cliff, the Feildans were only able to obtain a total of 55 runs. The Nondescripts were even less successful, and all their wickets were taken for only 36 runs thanks to the excellence of the bowling of Jerrett and Tait, and the smart fielding of the College boys. In their second innings the Feildans did much better and had obtained 77 runs before their last wicket fell. With 97 required to win the Nondescripts again went in and made a great attempt. Cliff and T. A. Winter making a splendid stand, whilst Berrigan, Jeffery and Power managed to knock the bowling about a bit. The tail refused to wag, however, and the last wicket went down with the score 9 runs short of the required total. The scoring was:—

Chair of Solid Gold.

The Shah of Persia is the owner of the costliest chair in the world. The chair is of solid gold metal, and it is incrustated with precious stones of all kinds. The task of "night-watching" this piece of furniture fell upon the keeper of the palace, who took pains to see that it was carefully guarded. One night, however, someone broke through the guards unseen and made away with some of the gems from the egg of the chair. The Shah, when he discovered the theft, was furious. He at once commanded the arrest of several servants. Since the keeper of the palace was responsible for the act, he was also arraigned before the Shah. The ruler announced that unless he found the guilty party at once he would be beheaded. This placed the keeper in a rather uncomfortable position, but by a shrewd move he detected the thief and saved his own life. The thief was beheaded, and the head was carried on a pole by the royal bodyguard through the streets of Teheran. No other attempt to steal the royal jewels ever materialized.

Postal Officials Determined.

On last Monday evening the postal officials formed themselves into an Association and presented several strong resolutions to the Minister of Posts decrying against the recent cut in salaries, and pointing out the discrimination that had been most unjustly made between them and the Postal Telegraph branch of the Department. On Saturday a reply was received from the Government asserting that as an insufficient number of the Executive Council attended the Council meeting on Friday evening to form a quorum, the Postal Association's grievance could not be handled. To-night the Postal Association is holding another meeting, when the reply of the Government will be dealt with, and as the body is most determined to have their demands agreed to, it is expected that a step will be taken that will mean an ultimatum to the Government. From several sources have come public commendation, backing up the officials, and they feel—and rightly so—that the people are with them in any decisive step that may be taken.

PATROLLING AT BADGER.—There are now six constables patrolling the Badger Road on which 2500 men are at work. So far, however, there has been no trouble of any kind to engage their attention, though rumor says that serious disturbances have occurred there recently.
