The Tortuous Advocate.

Our esteemed friend the general and honorable editor of the Advocate is much more at home in the realms of sugar than he appears to be capable of treating the regular tariff rates, plus all the surtaxes, supertaxes and sales taxes imposed by the Government, which he is compelled to support and defend. Let the Advocate man tell the fishermen all about his blunderings in the sugar market, two years ago, and show them just how they are being mulcted of a sum in payment of duty of over the cost of this article in New York. Had it not been for the ignorance of the Chairman of the Sugar Board, the same man who in the Advocate talks about the low rate on fishermen's supplies, and who promised, but failed, to publish an itemised list of a planter's account showing that he but paid duty on fishery outfit at the rate of twelve per cent., the people of this colony would not now be called upon to be paying through the nose a sum in excess of the value of every pound of sugar they consume. But then, the Advocate does not wish that the commonality should use sugar. Molasses—black strap—in his estimation is good enough to sweeten the tea of the "underdogs." Yet for his egregious blunder, fishermen are now being forced to pay a rate of duty on sugar equal to five cents per pound. As an adopt at making up duty entries for this article of import the know-it-all of the Advocate can beat any Customs broker.

In attempting to put the fishermen right on the amount of duties that they really pay, our sugar expert contents himself with the use of the rate per centum. He does not understand dollars and cents in proof of which look up the records of his sugar transactions. The Telegram has shown the actual sums paid out in duty on every article that the "Sum Cuique" organ published in its list of necessities a few days ago, and which he now claims that no person understood. How verdant those people must be. The policy of the "organ" is to play music according to the tune set by the "Wordy President," but the people have become accustomed to that tune so long that they now do not heed it. A change of air would be welcomed. For instance switch off from other duties and tell the whole story about sugar. This should be a congenial task for the man who is responsible for the exorbitant rate now being paid on that domestic commodity. Or if sugar is a distasteful subject, can we not recommend that brawny Newfoundlanders, who direct the editorial destinies of the Advocate, to write the biography of that other patriotic Terra Novan, the Minister of Agriculture and Mines, another, to use the Advocate's own expression, "foreign interloper." The fishermen of the North have been kept in the dark as to the birthplace of the gentleman who is actual premier of the Colony today. He has been drawn on the easel of the Advocate as one of our foremost Newfoundland-ers, yet he claims Prince Edward Island as his birth place. Some twenty years ago this "foreign interloper" migrated to the West Coast from the "garden of the Gulf," and since then he has practically dictated the policy of the party with which he is associated, so much so, that he is now bossing the counting and spending the sugar and other duties lavishly. "Foreign interlopers" and "Sugar" are two terms which the Advocate would do well to eschew, but the truth is that that paper and its controllers are so scared over the turn matters have taken North, that they are prepared to use any kind of old cry in an effort to bolster up the tottering political fortunes of William F. Coaker, the whilom Moses of the fishermen, and the man who said that "the price of fish is what he makes it." Let him have a try at making that price today.

Bluenose Win Protested

TRIVIAL TECHNICALITIES ALLEGED.

It was scarcely to be expected that the decisive win of the Bluenose over the Gloucester challenger Henry Ford, in yesterday's final race for the International Fishing Schooner Trophy, would be allowed to go unopposed by the American Race Committee, and to-day's press dispatches advise that two protests have been entered. They are so trivial as to be ludicrous, but trust our sporting cousins to discover the minor technicalities and make all that they can out of them. The fact that Bluenose sailed without an observer may or may not be an offence against the rules governing the contest. That the absence of such an official had any effect on the result of the race need not be considered. According to Capt. Walters the official observer did not report to him for yesterday's race, and it could not be expected that the Bluenose should wait on the convenience of the observer, and thus lose time at the official start. The charge of leading a larger stave than that carried in the previous races by Bluenose is set aside by the statement of the master of the victor. The second protest that the Nova Scotia vessel used sails of finer quality than ordinary duck appears to be too ridiculously absurd for consideration. If this were so why was it not protested at the beginning. There is a tremendous difference between cheap sport and real sport, as there is always between the genuine sportsman and the artificial kind. Last year in the race of Halifax between Bluenose and Elsie, the latter broke her foremast, which put her foremast top-sail out of commission. Walters on the Lunenburg promptly clewed down his corresponding sail, in order that he might not have any undue advantage over his opponent, Marty Welch, who also possessed the "real" calibre of a true sport. Walters need not have shortened sail at all, but with that sporting instinct characteristic of your real sailor, he furled canvas to conform to the spread of sail carried by his rival. Such chivalry might have lost Bluenose the race. The spirit, therefore, is all the more commendable. Our American friends doubtless conveniently forgot this incident. That their protest will be disallowed is the hope of all who have been sincerely interested in this year's International series.

It is a marked feature of this race that following her victory over the Delaware in 1920, the Esperanto was lost, and the Gloucester defender Elsie, after her defeat by Bluenose last year came to grief on the fatal sand bars of Sable Island. Alas! once again.

The Story of the Race.

Tomorrow the Telegram will begin the publication of the story of the International Fishing Schooner Race, sailed off Gloucester on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday of the present week. Between the Lunenburg defender Bluenose, winner of the cup last year from Elsie, and Henry Ford, Gloucester's swift and speedy challenger, which, however, failed to demonstrate her superiority over the trim and staunch Nova Scotian. The story of the race is most vividly written by H. W. Jones, staff correspondent of the Halifax Morning Chronicle, from one board the C.G.S. Tyrone. Don't miss this series of marine pictures. They are incomparable.

Notice to Fishermen.

In connection with the Fishermen's movement for higher prices, I shall be obliged if the skippers of craft now in this port, or arriving from time to time with unsold cargoes of fish, will call at my office for consultation and united action.

A Question Unanswered.

"What does the parent suggest to make St. John's a better city for boys?" This is a question on the cards used by the Rotary Club in making their Boy Life Survey. A certain amount of difference has been apparent on the part of parents who are asked to answer this question, and in a great many cases, this difference is only natural. What time has the labourer, deprived of education by the need of earning his daily bread, deprived now of any comforts, because he must slave to support his family, to take any interest in civic conditions, or think of improvements which might be inaugurated? They might suggest improved housing conditions, better streets, a better sewerage system, but of what avail are such suggestions until the money is found to make use of them. Such things would naturally come to the minds of parents as being immediate necessities, but with an apathy, encouraged by years of wretchedness without a sign of attempted improvement, it is not natural that they should prove diffident, when such a question is asked them. There is no need to ask the parents among the poorer classes in our city to-day for suggested improvements, for the conditions in which they live make a more moving and powerful suggestion than any words could express.

Committed to Supreme Court.

WO FEN GAME TO ANSWER TWO CHARGES.

Wo Fen Game was committed by Judge Morris yesterday afternoon to trial by the Supreme Court on two counts, namely the murder of three of his countrymen and the attempted murder of another one, Hop Wing. The preliminary hearing occupied the attention of the Court during the past few weeks and concluded yesterday afternoon. In all 35 witnesses have been examined and the case will come before the Grand Jury on Thursday next.

G. W. V. A. Explains.

NAVAL PRIZE MONEY FORMS.

The protest made by non-members of the G.W.V.A. against having to pay for forms in connection with requests for Naval Prize Money, has caused the G.W.V.A. to issue an explanation. This is briefly, that the expenses incurred by the maintenance of the larger staff, which would be necessary if all our service men were looked after, would be very much larger, and in any case, it was unfair to paid up members to make out similar treatment to those whose subscriptions have not been paid. The alternative for those who are unable or who have no desire to become participating members of the G.W.V.A. is to write the Accountant General for the Navy, Prize and Medal Branch, Cornwall House, Stamford Street, London, S.E. 1, England, requesting that their forms be sent them direct.

Unfortunate Family.

LIVING UNDER CANVAS AND CANT GET HOUSE.

Since they were turned out of the basement of the Custom's House where they lived for two years, the family of nine of Patrick Walsh have been living under a tarpaulin, rigged up outside the building. They have been lying there now for two months under undecidable conditions. Walsh told the Telegram today that he has spared no efforts to obtain the lease of a house, for which he is able to pay, but he has been completely unsuccessful. The family consists of several small children. While Mrs. Walsh has been in a delicate state of health for some time. A small oil stove, stored in a corner of the tarpaulin which covers them, serves for cooking and heating, while there are absolutely no facilities for washing clothes. With the winter coming on, the Walsh family is in a serious predicament, and some means of relief should be found for them. Walsh, who is a longshoreman, says that he has applied to various public officials for assistance in obtaining a house, without any success.
