

Magna Charta Day.

WEDNESDAY WAS 706TH ANNIVERSARY.

The International Magna Charta Association, which has practically worldwide representation, has for its representative in Newfoundland, Mr. J. Wood, Principal of Bishop Field College. We understand that a Dominion Committee is being formed, and that the Excellency the Governor has signified his willingness to quote the following from the association's pamphlet:

RECOGNITION OF GREAT PRINCIPLES OF FREEDOM.

This movement is not for the sake of a race, but for the recognition of certain great principles of the carrying out of which are essential to the peace of the world. The movement is bigger than any one race has done more than other people to give us the civil liberties which we enjoy.

The INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA DAY Movement is developing plans which will in time make a greater observance of the law and the development of responsibility for our liberties.

While this movement will naturally be confined very largely to the English Speaking Nations, we believe that the freedom of every nation will in a few years recognize the greatness of the idea, and join in heart and soul. It is possible that out of this movement there will come in a few years a support for International Arbitration, which will be of definite and positive value to the league of nations, for the movement is primarily for World Peace, which hinges almost wholly on the closest and most cordial cooperation among THE SEVEN NATIONS.

The fact is, the plans of the INTERNATIONAL MAGNA CHARTA Association have caught the imagination literally of millions of people in the English speaking nations and of a large and increasing number of our people in foreign countries; and it is not too much to say that as our efforts develop, the movement will continue in many ways just as our National Holidays observed.

Clothing Caught Fire.

JAMES OF BRIGUS DIES FROM BURNS.

As a result of burns received on Wednesday, when her clothing caught fire, Mrs. Wm. James, of Georges, passed away at her home yesterday forenoon. On Wednesday Mrs. James slit a fire in the kitchen at the rear of her house for the purpose of heating some water, and having around her dress caught fire. She ran towards the front of her house, but was followed by her brother-in-law, James James, who lived some distance away. Before reaching, however, she collapsed. When neighbors came to her assistance they found the unfortunate woman in a heap on the sidewalk with practically all her clothing burned. Dr. Gill, who was summoned, found the woman too badly injured to have sent on to hospital. Mrs. James was a woman of about fifty years of age, and is survived by her husband and an adopted son.

Band Concerts.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I quite agree with a correspondent of yours in his protests regarding the encroachments on the free rights of the public to our city parks brought about by the collecting methods at Band Concerts. I would not wish by any means to discourage our bands, but then I think the City Council should not be putting stumbling blocks in the way of any man, hand stand, where anybody willing to their evenings in the park. Instead of collectors at the gate I would suggest that iron boxes be fastened there instead, into which anybody who felt so disposed could drop a coin, or let the collectors keep their boxes near the stand, where anybody willing to contribute could go and offer their donation. The Council should not infringe too much on the plain people's rights, and I think it is about time now to call a halt on tagging people so to speak who have no other way of enjoying the free evening air of the summer than by visiting our city parks. We could live without Band Concerts, but it is necessary to the ordinary man's health that he should have free access to the pure air the parks afford. Then don't tax this last remaining untaxed necessity of existence.

Yours truly,
WORKINGMAN.
