BROADWAY SCANDALS IN "MISS MANHATTAN."

A packed house greeted the Broadway Scandals in their opening performance at the Casino Theatre last evening when, under the management of Messrs. Murphy and Kitz, a three scene comedy entitled "Miss Manhattan" was presented. The cast was as follows:—Mona: Bordoni Jack LeRoy; The Groom: Lynn Hallbert; Icky Cohen, Sam Goldman; Smoke Green, Cal West; The Preacher, Lou Berne; The Bride, Miss Bonnie Mack; Miss Manhattan, Miss Edna Richards; The Dancer, Miss Harriett Bandler; An Entertainer, Miss Pauline Travis.

Music, singing, dancing and jokes constituted the major part of the programme. The presentation occupied two hours without a break except for the changing of drop screens. The specialty acts and singing evoked considerable applause, and encores were demanded to many of the selections. Judging by last night's reception the Broadway Scandals have every reason to anticipate a successful season. "Miss Manhattan" will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night with an entire change of bill for Friday night when "Fun at the Races" will be presented.

NEW YORK FOUND SIKI FAR FROM IMPRESSIVE IN BOUT WITH NORFOLK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—After Georges Carpentier had been knocked out by Battling Siki he complained that the latter had forgotten his part in a previously rehearsed little plot.

Most of the 12,000 who saw the American debut of Siki in Madison Square Garden last night were inclined to believe that Carpentier might have been right in his complaint.

In losing a fifteen-round decision to Kid Norfolk, who votes as Willie Ward, of Baltimore, Siki showed no qualification to beat even a second-rater.

Only three rounds went to Siki and in the other twelve he was so soundly beaten that the crowd did not have to wait for the official decision.

Siki made such a hit with the gallery that the dollar-tens set up a demand for "draw" at the end of the bout, however.

The only things that Siki showed were strength, a certain cat-like speed and grace of movement, and that stout heart, under punishment, that one would have expected of a soldier who had been decorated four times for gallantry in the trenches.

As a first-class fighter Siki has nothing. He gave the impression that he had never seen a left hand before. He pawed his punches and snapped back as if he had claws on his hands with which he wanted to tear.

He seemed to act on the theory that his face was the best blocker of punches.

Poor Fighter

Like all other European fighters Siki knows absolutely nothing about fighting and he foolishly tried to stay in close with Norfolk, a heavy fighter who pounded such a drumming to the body that Siki complained to the referee in the last rounds of the fight although the blows were landing no place near the belt.

Norfolk is not a renowned puncher, and if he had any force behind his blows he would have stopped Siki in less than ten rounds. He was content with cutting up the latter's face with a stinging straight left and a right hook to the body.

Both Siki's eyes were closed at the end of the bout, his lips were cut and swollen, his body was sore and he was tired all over. But with all his steps were always forward.

Siki is a good card and he has a lot of color and an appealing personality. In a rough and tumble fight he would be a bear, but with gloves on his hands and rules to follow he has so much to learn that he will never be near any championship in this country.

AUSTRIA WILL NOT COMPETE IN FRENCH OLYMPICS.

The French Olympic Committee have received formal notice that Austria as a nation has decided not to participate in the 1924 games. The Austrian committee gives lack of funds as the official reason for its failure to accept the invitation extended to it.

The Olympic authorities in that country, however, have given entire liberty to the large athletic organizations and clubs to send representatives to Paris if they are financially able to do so, and thus the French officials have not yet given up hope of welcoming Austrian athletes next year.

It is understood that the real cause behind Austria's failure to accept are

ENGLAND STILL FIRM ON AMATEUR RULING.

Soccer Body Refuses to Head Plea That It Should Complete Its Olympics.

Attempts are being made in some of the daily papers in England to induce the Football Association to reverse its definition of an amateur in order to bring itself into line with associations on the Continent. It is argued that if the Football Association holds to its present definition of an amateur, and declines to send a team to take part in the Olympic games next year, continental people will say that Englishmen are afraid to enter.

Happily, the Football Association has never yet been "afraid" of what other people may say, and there is no reason to suppose that the present occasion will be any exception. It is notorious that in many parts of the Continent a so-called amateur is nothing more or less than a thinly-veiled professional. For this reason the Rugby Union will not enter a team unless Continental nations undertake to play real amateurs. To suggest that if other people play professionals we ought to do the same thing, is unworthy of a sportsman. The London Field comments.

A Vienna correspondent of the London Athletic News has sent a communication which the News says reveals an amazing condition of affairs. "I notice that England is fighting for her definition of amateurism to be adopted on the Continent," the correspondent writes. "I sincerely hope she succeeds, for the present condition of things is rotten in the extreme. Here in Vienna the governing authorities know that players are paid, and paid well for playing, and yet they will not take any action."

"You will be surprised to learn that the transfer fee is in full operation here and large sums are paid by way of transfer. If you were to examine the accounts of the leading clubs here you would find that enormous sums change hands in the shape of transfer fees and that larger sums are paid to players by way of recompense for playing. In everything except name the majority of the leading players are professionals, and yet the national association will not make the plunge and come out boldly on the side of honesty."

"There is an altogether absurd idea in some quarters that there is some disgrace attached to professionalism, and it would be well for that notion to be killed. There is plenty of money here for football, as it is not unusual for 30,000 or 40,000 to turn up at a big match, and the players do not make any secret of the fact that they intend to have a big share of the gate money."

"One of the chief complaints by those who are in club management is that they cannot satisfy the demands of players. They are always demanding larger and yet larger remuneration, and it would be a great advantage to clubs, and I am sure it would be better for players, if the payments for playing were put in a proper footing."

"What happens in Vienna is also happening in many other Continental centres. I have not the personal knowledge as to other cities, but from what I am told by those who do know Vienna is not peculiar in finding it impossible to get the best players unless considerable payments are made."

"If England will only throw in her lot with the F.I.F.A. again, and use her weight and tremendous influence to purify the sport and bring about the abolition of sham amateurism, she will be rendering a service of incalculable value to association football."

ball on the Continent. There is not any other country that can do this work, because they won't listen to anybody except England."

"Such a state of affairs makes it exceedingly difficult for England to participate in the Olympic games next year," declares The Athletic News.

A. A. A. SPORTS FRIDAY WEEK COMPETITORS RUNNING TO FORM-BASKETBALL PROM. ISSES TO BE INTERESTING EVENT.

A large number of our best-footed runners are now engaged nightly in the Prince's Park, getting in readiness for the A. A. A. Indoor Championships Meet, which takes place on Friday, Dec. 7th. The competitors are fast rounding into shape and exciting races promise to be a special feature of the programme. "Tommy" Liniger, who made such a creditable showing in the 3 mile turf race at the Guards Sports last summer, will be missing from the list of entrants. "Tom" has just recovered from an attack of influenza, and is not in fit condition to undergo training. He regrets that he will be unable to compete, but is looking forward to having a "go" with O'Toole and Bell next year. The latter pair are running to form and a closely contested race for the 5 mile championship is predicted. A feature of the meet will be the Basketball Series. Mr. Arthur Cohen, who undertook to look after this end has devoted all his spare time training the respective teams, and an entirely different brand of basketball will be witnessed than before. There will be a meeting of the A. A. A. on Saturday night when all arrangements in connection with the proposed sports will be finalized. Entries can be made with Mr. J. A. MacKenzie, Law Chambers, up to Wednesday next; but a fee of 25 cents must accompany each entry.

MARTIN DAY DANCES WALTER LEWIS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

To-night's attraction at the Crescent Theatre is of unusual interest inasmuch as it consists of the biggest challenge contest ever staged in a local theatre. On Monday last, as many have doubtless noticed in this paper, Mr. Walter Lewis of the sch. "Lunenburg" now lying in port issued a challenge to Martin Day, our own champion step-dancer to compete with him whenever and wherever Mr. Day would specify. Yesterday Mr. Day published an acceptance of this challenge and stated that it was to take place in the Crescent Theatre at 9 o'clock to-night. This contest promises to be very exciting as Mr. Lewis is an accomplished dancer and means do almost any step, and it means therefore that Mr. Day has to put up a hard fight to-night. Don't miss this attraction whatever you do.

You will also have the privilege of seeing the gigantic screen production, "Yellow Men and Gold." A tender love story threads its way through the flashing episodes. Helene Chadwick, Rosemary Theby, Richard Dix and Henry Bowers form the quartet of leading good and evil characters.

The little hat is permitted the very narrowest of turned-up brims.

They have been very popular and their departure is a loss to the theatre.
