The interest in the royal visit is becoming intense. This is shown by the activity of municipal bodies and in the generous rivalry between individ-uals, but perhaps the best indication of a widespread interest is the extra-ordinary demand that has sprung up for the Royal Welcome Number of the Montreal Star, which is to be published as a national souvenir on the arrival of the royal party. # STORY TOLD BY CZOLGOSZ

The Would-Be Murderer of President McKinley

Declares He Planned the Shooting Several Days in Advance.

Was "Burning To Do Something for Anarchy"-Denies That He Had Any Accomplices—Was Well Known in Cleveland as a Socialist.

Chicago, Sept. 7 .- A special to the Daily News from Buffalo says: The statement of Leon Czolgosz, to the police, signed by the prisoner, is as follows:

"I was born in Detroit nearly tweny-nine years ago. My parents were Russian Poles. They came here fortytwo years ago. I got my education in the public schools of Detroit, and then went to Cleveland, where I got work. In Cleveland I read books on socialism, and met a great many socialists. I was in the west. After being in Cleveland for several years I went to Chicago, where I remained several months, after which I went to Newburg, on the outskirts of Cleveland, and went to work in the Newburg wire mills.

Cleveland, Detroit and other western cities, and I suppose I became more or less bitter. Yes, I know I was bitter. I never had much luck at anything, and this preyed upon me; but what started the craze to kill was a lecture I heard some little time ago by Emma Goldman. She was in Cleveland, and I and other anarchists went to hear her. She set me on fire.

"Her doctrine that all rulers should be exterminated was what set me to thinking, so that my head nearly split with the pain. Miss Goldman's words went right through me, and when I left the lecture I had made up my mind that I would have to do something heroic for the cause I loved.

HIS ARRIVAL IN BUFFALO. "Eight days ago, while I was in Chicago, I read in a Chicago newspaper of President McKinley's visit to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo. That day I bought a ticket for Buffalo, and got there with the determination to do something, but I did not know just what. I thought of shooting the president, but I had not formed a plan.

"I went to live at 1,078 Broadway, which is a saloon and hotel. John Nowak, a Pole, a sort of politician, who has led his people here for years, owns it. I told Nowak that I came to see the fair. He knew nothing about what was setting me crazy. I went to the exposition grounds couple of times a day.

"Not until Tuesday morning did the resolution to shoot the president take hold of me. It was in my heart—there was no escape for me. I could not have escaped it if my life was staked. There were thousands of people in town on Tuesday. I heard it was President's Day. All those people seemed bowing to the great ruler. I made up my mind to kill that ruler bought a 32-calibre revolver and loaded it.

"On Tuesday night I went to the fair grounds and was near the railroad gate when the presidential party arrived. I tried to get near him, but the police forced me back. They forced everybody back so that the great ruler could pass. I was close to the president when he got into the grounds, but was afraid to attempt the assassination, because there were so many men in the bodyguard that watched them. I was not afraid of them or that I should get hurt, but afraid I might be seized and that my chance would be gone forever.

WAS LOSING HOPE. "Well, he went away that time, and The President Touched His Wound and I went home. On Wednesday I went to the grounds and stood right near the president, right under him, near the stand from which he spoke. "I thought half a dozen times of shooting while he was speaking, but could not get close enough. I was afraid I might miss and then the great crowd was always jostling, and I was afraid lest my aim fail. I waited until yesterday, and the president got into his carriage again, and a lot of men were about him and formed a cordon that I could not get through. was tossed about by the crowd, and my spirits were getting pretty low. was almost hopeless that night as I went home. "Yesterday morning I went again to the exposition grounds. Emma Goldman's speech was still burning me up. I waited near the central entrance for the president, who was to board his special train from that gate, but the police allowed nobody but the president's party to pass where the train waited. So I stayed at the grounds all day waiting.

"During yesterday I first thought of hiding my pistol under my handker-chief. I was afraid if I had to draw it from my pocket I would be seen and seized by the guards. I got to the Temple of Music the first one, and and they bore him to the floor. Czolwaited at the spot where the reception

THE SHOOTING.

"Then he came-the president-the uler-and I got in line and trembled until I got right up to him, and then I shot twice through my white hand-kerchief. I would have fired more, but I was stunned by a blow in the face—a frightful blow that knocked me down-and then everybody jumped on me. I thought I would be killed, and was surprised the way they treated Czolgosz ended his story in utter exhaustion. When he had about conclded he was asked: "Did you really mean to kill the president?" "I did." was the cold-blooded reply.

"What was your motive? What good could it do?" he was asked.
"I am an anarchist. I am a disciple of Emma Goldman. Her words set me on fire," he replied, with not the slightest tremor.

"I deny that I have had an accomplice at any time." Czolgosz told District Attorney Penney. "I don't regret my act, because I was doing what I could for the great cause. I am not connected with the Paterson group, or confidents; no one to help me. I was | paled again at the sight of the blood, NO CLUE TO A PLOT.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 7. — Detective Sergeant James Doran, of the Cleveland police department, stated tonight that rigid examination of a couple of that rigid examination of a couple of friends of Czolgosz today failed to re-vetl any indication of a plot to kill the president. Sergeant Doran said that he is still working hard on the case, and has two more men on the list to make a searching investigation.

A RED-HOT SOCIALIST. Several years ago Czolgosz was em-ployed in a Newburg mill. Among his fellow-workmen there he was known as Fred Neiman. He is a member of Forest City Castle Lodge, No. 22, of the Golden Eagle.

His former associates in the mill describe him as a German Pole of about 26 years of age. They says that he was a queer acting man, but was known to have a most violent temper. It is said that the would-be assassin is a strong infidel and a red-hot Socialist.

Has No Remorse.

SO HE TELLS THE POLICE. Buffalo, Sept. 7.—Leon Czolgosz, who shot President McKinley, insists that he alone is responsible for his crime. He says that he talked the matter over in advance in a general way with his friends, but that he was not advised by them, and that there was no plot or conspiracy to take the life of the president in which anyone else had a part. He declined to furnish the names of the men with whom he discussed the crime of Friday.

QUESTIONED FOR SIX HOURS. Czolgosz submitted to six hours of examination and questioning at the hands of the police officials today, and was tired out when they locked him up for the night. The lengthy examination of the prisoner was fruitless in so far as his own individual fate is concerned, for while he told nothing that would implicate anyone else in his crime, he went over the scene at the Temple of Music when he shot the president again and again, completing a confession as ample as the law ever exacted. He even went to "During the last five years I have the extent of illustrating to the offihad as friends anarchists in Chicago, cials the manner in which he shot the president, and told with manifest pride how he deceived the president and his protectors with the bandaged hand that held the revolver.

The admission that he had discussed the crime in advance with friends was finally drawn from him, but there he stopped and could not be moved. He was in the hands of a group of shrewd examiners, and they set trap upon trap to snare him, but the effort to break him down failed. The police say that in the end, when he comes to a true appreciation of his position, he will break down and fully confess. In addition to the examination to which the prisoner was subjected, city and federal detectives spent the day in scouring the city for some trace of possible confederates. They did not succeed in connecting the prisoner with any of the socialists who make their home here, and by nightfall had abandoned the theory that he was assisted by anyone here. They also showed an inclination to give up the belief that a confederate preceded the prisoner in the line leading up to the president.

The general theory now held by the detectives is that a circle of Czolgosz's associates plotted the murder of President McKinley and that he was picked by lot or induced by persuasion to carry out the conspiracy. They say that he lacks the shrewdness to have planned and executed the crime as he DOESN'T WANT A LAWYER. Czolgosz's trial has been taken up at Cleveland, and it is expected the inquiry there will let in some valuable light as to his companions and possible fellow-conspirators. The prisoner is kept secluded, and as a result of a suggestion from Secretary Root, the police inquiry will be made as secretly as possible. The prisoner has not retained counsel, and when the subect was mentioned to him today he said that he did not desire a lawyer to defend him. The police said that when he got over the idea that he was a great hero among his fellow-anarchists he would very likely resort to the usual means to avoid punishment for his crime. It is stated that Czolgosz is a native of Alpena, Mich., in 1881 or 1882.

REPORTER'S STORY OF THE TRAGEDY!

Paled When He Saw Blood on His Fingers.

Buffalo, Sept. 7.-A newspaper reporter, who stood just behind the president when the shooting occurred, gave one of the clearest accounts related so far. He said: "I stood about ten feet from the president, and saw Czolgosz approach him. The latter had his right hand drawn up close to his breast, and a white linen handkerchief wrapped about it, which bore the appearance of a bandage. He extended his left hand, and I am quite sure the president thought he was injured, for he leaned forward and looked at him in a sympathetic way. THE DASTARDLY DEED.

"When directly in front of the president, Czolgosz threw his right hand forward and fired. I saw the flash and smoke, followed by the report, and then heard the second shot. Instantly John Parker, the colored man, and Secret Agent Foster were upon Czelgosz, gosz, lying prostrate, still retained a hold on his revolver, and seemed to be trying to get his arm free to fire again.

"The president did not fall. raised his right hand and felt of his breast and seemed to be maintaining his upright position only by wonderful effort. I am sure he did not speak at that moment. He gazed fixedly at his assailant with a look which I cannot describe, but which I shall never forget, and in a moment reeled back into the arms of Secretary Cortelyou. Czolgosz's revolver had by that time been knocked from his hand, and someone had picked up the burning handkerchief which lay at his feet. Czolgosz was picked up, forced back and again knocked down.

PALED AT SIGHT OF BLOOD. "Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Milburn supported the president and led him to a chair. I heard him ask that the news be kept from his wife, and a moment later when Secretary Cortelyou asked him if he felt much pain he said: 'This wound hurts me very much.' seemed to be fairly easy as he rested in the chair and some of the fading color came back to his face. He reached his right hand inside of his with those anarchists who sent Bresci shirt, and when he withdrew it his to Italy to kill Humbert. I had no fingers were tipped with blood. He and I think he fainted Senor Aspiroz, Mexican minister. broke through the crowd and, rushing up to the president, cried: 'My God, Mr. President, are you shot?" The minister seemed about to throw himself at the feet of the president, but was restrained. The president's answer came very slowly, and in a halting, subdued voice. He said: 'Yes, I believe I am.' THE PRESIDENT'S SUPERB COUR-

AGE. "The president was attracted by the scuffle of the officers who were dragging the would-be murderer away, but he did not speak. His head rested on the arm of Mr. Milburn, and he seemed only partly conscious. His courage was superb, and while he was conscious he was the master of the pain which he suffered. When the ambulance came and a stretcher was brought in he started forward and partially regained his feet unassisted. I heard not a word from the assailant of the president. He was struck down the moment he fired the second shot, and if he did speak it probably was in exclamation at the very rough treatment he was receiving."

Washington, Sept. 7 .- Vice-President Roosevelt reached the Milburn residence shortly after 1 o'clock to- No matter how violent or excruciating day after traveling continuously since 7 o'clock last night, when he left Burlington, Vt. He was escorted to the station as far as Hotel Iroquois by squad of mounted police and the re-mainder of the way by a squad of bike police. He expressed his deep distress at the tragedy, but beyond that declined to make any statement. He remained at the residence about half an hour and then went to the nearby home of Ansley Wilcox, whose guest he will be during his stay. All the members of the cabinet will remain until the result of the wound is determined. Informally, they have discussed the possibility of Vice-President Rosevelt being called upon to act as chief magistrate during the disability of the president.But all precedents are against such a course while the president lives. Vice-President Arthur did not assume the reins of the government until after President Garfield's death, and the contingency of Vice-President Roosevelt being called upon to serve temporarily except in the case of unlooked-for and very serious foreign complications is

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—In front of one of the builetin boards last night an unknown man yelled: "Hurrah for the man who shot McKinley!"

In an instant he was knocked down, and with a hundred men trying to get a kick at him he was in a fair way to be killed. Somehow during the excitement he managed to get through the crowd and ran through Diamond alley with a mob at his heels.
