=AFTER MARRIAGE=

The extravagance of the day is largely responsible for the fact that many a young man fights shy of marriage.

He may admire a young woman heartily, believe that he could be as happy as a king on his throne as her husband, but is deterred from proposing by the harrowing proposition of how she would have to be supported after marriage, harrowing proposition of how she would have to be supported after marriage. Upon the girl who he knows would have to be supported after marriage is the sort of girl who he knows would prefer boarding to housekeeping. She puts marriage further away when she tells him that she just dotes on hotel life. When a man raises himself to the dignity of becoming a husband he feels that he should be a home-maker and should have earned the ability to stretch out his legs under his own table and enjoy a good, hearty, rollicking laugh without a score or more of beliboys running to his door to find out if there's anything stails. He longs for a homely dish of corned beef and cabbage or a steak smothered in onlons, such as he was wont to find on his old-fashioned mother's table.

HE LIKES THE DOMESTIC.

HE LIKES THE DOMESTIC.

If business chances do go wrong with him he may not feel in the mood of business chances do go wrong with him he may not feel in the mood of many ling before curious-eyed strangers. Then, again, the hotel harbors many sets to whom he must bow if introduced and be agregable. Down deep in his art he knows that they are the people he would give much to avoid were it his nower.

Then, again, the young wife who insists upon boarding at a hotel he knows has not imbued with the Rooseveltian ideas. "Its gilded walls and marble halls are hardly domestic enough for a family."

Then, too, one cannot be as hospitule within its walls as a man might desire unless he has a fair bank account. He loses prestige with acquaint-ances made who might have been valued friend under the influence genial hospitality. It has its comic as well-are that she would rather have a home of her own than board is the one that is more than likely to get a proposal. Own than board is the one that is more than likely to get a proposal. Own than board is the one that is more than likely to get a proposal. The man who boards after marriage is usually like the rolling stone: "He gathers no moss." It is man who is a home-maker who accumulates. He gathers no moss." It is man who is a home-maker who accumulates. He will be a proposal to the man who is a home-maker who accumulates. He will be a proposal to the man who is a home-maker who accumulates. He will be a proposal to the man who is a home-maker will be only in the man who is a home-maker be confusited in a delightfully cogy. I want to have a proposal to the home end its own furnishing.

Even boarding with a bride or bridegroom's family has its disadvantages, which needs in guite another matter.

Again there may be extenuating circumstances to warrant their cleaving to the home nest; but, when it is not an absolute impossibility, every young couple should settle down to housekeeping in their own home.

FOR THE INVALIDS

Consistent use of Farisian.

Great scalp and hair tonic.

The cause of dandruff is a germ. Parisian Sage will kill these pests in a few days, and thereby remove the cause of baldness.

Falling hair is caused by the dandruff germ. By killing these, Parisian Sage at once restores vitality to the hair roots and commences a vigorous growth.

When planning your holiday gifts don't forget the invalids. Make a bag of dainty flowered silk or cretonne running inch wide satin ribbon in the top for a draw string and lining it with delicately scented silk. Have the draw strings very long so it can be hung on the bedpost in easy reach of the invalid's hand, without the necessity of her raising herself in bed. In the bag is a small paper pad, pencil, handkerchief and anything she may need that otherwise would have to be handed to her by an attendant. Sometimes a little surprise can be slipped in the bag that will give much happiness and help to pass the weary hours of suffering.

UNWELCOME CANDOR

It is all very well to be candid and outspoken, but there is a limit to all things; and often the girl who prides herself on being candid finds that after a little her friends resent her can dor, and let her know it, too.

And if she were to think it over, she would not be very astonished, as really some of her candid remarks bordered very much on the personally rude.

rude.

And she would not be very delighted if her dearest friend, who did not boast of being candid, were to make some of the remarks to her that she had made to others.

How can anyone be benefited by being told that her nose is a snub? Perhaps she has not realized that it is that dreadful thing, and has imagined it to be just a little bit toq small, till her candid friend came along and told her so point blank. It is not to be wondered at that she has always an antagonistic feeling towards her.

Sagging or Hanging Cheeks or Chin

[From Woman's Magazine.]
Flabbiness of cheeks, chin or neck, has been considered very difficult to correct, until the recent discovery of a veritable wonder-worker for such conditions. The preparation is so simple and harmless any woman can easily make and apply it. It is all the more remarkable in that its beneficial effects are apparent even after the first application, both as to appearances and the feeling of comfort produced.

The formula is: Powdered saxolite, or, dissolved in 1 pt. witch hazel. Use daily as a wash lotion. The solution tends to contract and solidify the loosened, baggy tissue, smoothing out the folds, creases, and wrinkles, besides having a refining influence on skin of coarse texture and large pores. As witch hazel and saxolite can be had at any drug store at little cost, many will doubtless be glad to have this successful recipe. [From Woman's Magazine.]

Thereafter the judge went through the land with an eye out for wash-lines. "I'm looking for a chance of linen for the boy, Solomon," he said. "Let me bring you a garment or two. Eh-how few men you'll find of my build; those last shirts I got were tight around the armholes, and had no more tail than a rabbit!"

Two nights later Mr. Mahaffy accepted a complete change of under-linen, but without visibile sign of gratitude. A night later the judge disappeared from camp, and after a prolonged absence returned putting and panting with three watermedons, which proved to be green, since his activity had been much in advance of the season.

"I don't suppose there is any greater tax on human ingenuity than to carry three watermelons!" he remarked.
