

SKELTON OF INDIAN CHILD FOUND ON LAWSON FARM

FOUND BONES OF INDIAN CAMP

Scientists Unearth Further Discoveries in Excavation On Lawson Farm.

OLD TORTURE CAMP?

The supposed ancient Indian hut found yesterday by W. J. Wintemberg on the farm of Ray Lawson, in the course of excavations, north of the city, developed another interesting angle today. Upon inserting sticks of wood in places where soft black spots appeared, a passageway 45 feet long was mapped out. At the foot of the inclosure, two human jawbones, the skeleton of a child, and several bones were unearthed.

Yesterday, Wintemberg discovered soft black spots in the ground at intervals of two feet. Upon examining these it was found that a stick of wood, when inserted, would enter into them. After twenty had been erected, a series of parallel passages and inclosures were marked off. Mr. Wintemberg thought possibly the black spots were formed from rotted stumps used by the Indians as a foundation for a home. Upon continuing the work, the ground wherever black spots occurred, a passageway 45 feet in length was mapped out. At the foot of the inclosure, the bones of a child, and human bones and skeleton was made.

In Burial Posture.

The skeleton was lying backwards, in a doubled-up position. This is the attitude in which the Indians buried their dead. The bones were small and delicate, and although several were intact, the majority were broken. A large thigh bone of an adult was found alongside of the child, and at the head, a jawbone, probably that of a female, was found. Another jawbone was unearthed a few feet below the shinbones of the child. Several teeth were fastened to the bone, and according to Mr. Wintemberg it probably belonged to a male. That the Indian was old, as he did not appear from the condition of the three eye-teeth, and the absence of teeth in the upper part of the jaw.

Photographs were taken of the exact position the bones were found, and by measuring and surveying, the spot can be reproduced on a map which Mr. Wintemberg is preparing. It is Mr. Wintemberg's belief that upon digging deeper some valuable finds will be made. "It is probable this may have been a cemetery," said Mr. Wintemberg.

Old Torture Camp.

Many advance the theory that the finding of the skeletons at the foot of the long, narrow inclosure is proof that this is the spot where the "torture camp" of the Attawandans stood. According to stories which have been written on the so-called "torture camps" the Indians used to put to death their enemies by hanging them from their own tree, who were not capable of working. This meant that all Indians of the Attawandans tribe, who were suffering from disease, were crippled, were led into the passageway, burned, and buried at the foot of the inclosure. This theory, according to Mr. Wintemberg, is true, but what the long passageway was used for he could not say.

LABOR MAN EXPLAINS POINT IN BURKE CASE

Why Trades and Labor Council Men Resent Secretary's Action.

John McGuire, president of the Trades and Labor Council, corrects a false impression respecting the controversy still raging among the delegates to that organization. He refers to the disputed status of F. D. Burke, secretary, who is suffering from disease, and the majority of the members. "Secretary Burke was not brought up on the carpet because he supported Sir John Beck in the last election," the president stated. "That idea is wrong. He was charged with breach of our constitution, using the name of the council for political purposes.

OTHER PROSPECTS

Leading negligently upon the rail at the municipal track this morning, Ald. William A. Wilson viewed the election outlook with growing interest. Ald. Wilson is going into the fight again, but the developments of the next few weeks will determine which of the civic offices he will seek.

"I would like to see Ald. Judd run for the mayoralty," he stated. "Not that he could make a better run through the city than I could, or that I am more entitled to the position than I am, but I would like to see him entered against the present mayor."

While it is practically established that the Labor forces will not oppose the mayor, there is still another factor to be considered, and that is the "headquarters" are still combing the underbrush for prospects. Many have been mentioned, but none appear enthusiastic about the proposal, and none have come forward to announce themselves.

SPORTS WERE A FEATURE OF CITY GAS CO. PICNIC

The annual picnic of the City Gas Company employees held at Springbank Park yesterday was far the most successful outing the staff have ever held. The attendance beat last year's record, and the sports program introduced at the 1922 picnic was one of the best that has been staged at the park this year.

though no appeal has been made by Greece for league intervention. The drastic character of the ultimatum caused considerable comment in diplomatic circles. This morning and the hope was expressed that Italy would be satisfied to suspend her demand for satisfaction until an inquiry could be made.

DEMAND SOLEMN FUNERAL.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 30.—Reuters's Rome correspondent says that the Italian demands of Greece include the following:—Solemn funeral shall be given the victims of the massacre in the Catholic cathedral in Athens in the presence of all members of the Greek government.

Honors are to be rendered to the Italian fleet by the Greek ships of war at the Piraeus, and to an Italian naval division which will be sent to that port, especially for the purpose. The Hellenic fleet is to fire salvoes of 21 guns, and while the salute is being given the Italian flag must be flown at the mastsheads of the Greek vessels.

This Is Dorothy Dix

She Is the Best-Loved Woman On the Continent and She Is Going To Write For The Advertiser.

Called the highest-paid newspaper woman in the world; her desk a professional— for thousands upon thousands of men and women all over the globe! Dorothy Dix is a unique figure in the world of newspaper writers.

Writes For Women.

"So I never writing for my sex the truth, as I have seen that the relationship of men and women. I called these articles the "Dorothy Dix" and women liked them. So for the last twenty years I have laughed and cried and sympathized with and jollied, and lampooned and advised, millions upon millions of my sisters with whom I have had heart-to-heart talks through the papers the world over."

Her Training.

This is the story Elizabeth Meriwether Giles, (for this is Dorothy Dix by her name) tells of her training for the intimate class of work which has made her world-famous.

A Personal Friend.

"To all these people I have tried to make Dorothy Dix a personal friend, who writes for me, always turns to me for sympathy and counsel; and so my desk has become a confessional at which men and women open their hearts to me. I have written for them what they would not tell their nearest and dearest, and at which they ask advice upon every subject under the sun."

Starts Journalism.

"Destiny—and I believe in Kismet as implicitly as any Mohammedan— put me into the house next door to Mrs. E. J. Nicholson, the great woman who owned and edited The New Orleans Picayune. I showed her my letters for $3, which I still believe to be the largest sum ever paid for any literary composition. Any way, my fate was sealed, for promptly "wished" myself on to the Picayune, and my newspaper career began."

London, Aug. 30.—Thousands of tons of German potatoes have been dumped on the English market, causing a serious loss to English growers. The dumping has forced the price of potatoes down to about $27.50 a ton, whereas the growers say they are able to get $30 a ton.

FISHING SCHOONER HENRY FORD LEADS GLOUCESTER RACE

Pick of U. S. Fleet Competes For the Lipton Trophy.

$1,000 CASH PRIZE

Associated Press Despatch. Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 30.—Three fast fishing schooners, the pick of the United States fleet, started this morning in the open fishermen's race for the Lipton and Prentiss cups, postponed from Monday because of fog. A fourth entry in the race, the Mayflower, of Boston, was tied up at her wharf, unable to compete because she arrived only yesterday from the Banks with 300,000 pounds of fish in her hold, her hull foul, and dragging a propeller, which must be unshipped before she can race.

Five-Mile Stretch.

The 31-mile course is a five-mile stretch from a line off Eastern Point, thence around a triangle seven miles on a side, and five miles to the finish buoy. Sir Thomas Lipton is the donor of the cup, which, with a cash prize of $1,000, will go to the winner.

Shortly before the start the breeze had dropped back to eight knots. The Shamrock was the first to cross the line, followed by the Ford and the Howard in that order. The official starting times were: Shamrock, 10:30:50; Ford, 10:31:20; Howard, 10:31:55.

The Howard Drove Up.

On the run to the second mark the Howard drew up alongside the Shamrock about 200 yards to leeward and a few minutes later had taken second place.
