after by castor oil. This remedy is perfectly safe if the glass is finely pulverized. Another remidy is four grains of santonine with twenty grains of ialap, mixed into a bolus. and give on an empty stomach, in fact as all vermifuges should be.

The round worm is of a pale flesh color, five or six inches long and is generally found in knots of three to half a dozen at a time. These worms fr quently generate their oggs in their own bodies, and the microscope will disclose the parent full of its young. They stand next to the tape worm in the trouble they give, but generally yield readily to the remedies we have named.

The tape worm is frequently several feet in length, flat in form, with a small head having four mouths. The peculiarity of this worm is that every section of its body possesses the faculty of reproducing its species. The ova thrown out at every joint are almost infinits in number, and these readily communicate the pest to other dogs, especially in kennels where the most scrupulous neatness is not enforced. Naturally the tape worm proves most injurious to the health of the dog it in habits. It absorbs a great portion of the nourishment taken into the stomach, thereby preventing its sustaining the system; and beyond this it irritates the intestines in a serious manner. It defies the action of the ordinary vermifuges, but yields to areca nut generally, and in cases where it does not the best remedy is a bolus composed of twenty drops of the oil of male fern, fifteen grains of jalap and enough liquorico powder and water to mix the whole. Indian pink, calomel and spirits of turpentine are al mentioned by "Stonehenge" as powerful and effective expellants, but with the caution that all act sometimes projudiciously or fatally, and that they should not be given without a full knowledge of the risk, or by a competent practitioner.

The symptoms which denote the presence of worms are marked in character and rot easily mistaken by a careful observer. They are the same in all cases without regard to the kind of worm producing them, except that they differ in identity according to the degree of internal irritation, and hence as all or a party only, appear, the kind of worm may be determined by the exhibition. An unhealthy condition of the coat, the hair being devoid of gloss, dull and staring, is the first symptom; then follows in due order a ravenous appetite, with, in spite of the quantity eaten, a falling off in flesh; but, dry nose; dull spirits and offensive breath. The faeces are generally small and disconnected. Sometimes dry and crumbling, again lumpy and followed by frothy mucus.

The full list of symptoms seldom appears in cases where great quantities of round worm, or a tape worm is present.

Care must be taken to watch the dog during the application of remedies, for in accordance with the condition of the system will be the vermifages, and these, if improperly administered, may cause as bad results as the worms themselves.

THE NEWMARKET HOUGHTON RACE

The sporting critic of the London Times makes the following romarks respecting the victory of the American horse Bay Final in the Dullingham Handicap which was won on the Cesarewitch Course on Thursday, Oct. 29 :- The Dullingham Handicap was won after a dead heat by Mr. Sanford's Bay Final, by Lexington—Bay Leaf, from a fair field, but although every one was pleased at the success of the American stable, who have been most unfortunate this year, the performance was by no means a meritorious one. The English three-year-old colt Broadside, carrying 7st., was made favorite, the French La Conronse, 5 yrs. 9st., being next in demand, while among the outsiders in a field of nine runners the American four-year finish Bay Final appeared about to win in a ty-one pounds, and containing two undigested story of a Richmond hotel gasping for breath, similar to that of beef.

it first. So they rolled out a full barrel and Lucolu lifted one end on to one knee, and then the other end on the other knee, and thus balancing the barrel of whiskey, drank out of the bunghale. In a few days the "professional" came around. Greene struck the bet without any trouble. The man sucreased it to a hat apiece. Lincoln was called in and lifted the barrel and drank out of it, and Greene took the hat. It was rather a Chinese way for Mr. Laucoln, but Greene has sacredly kept his prom-

THE SALMON BREEDING ESTAB-LISHMENT ON THE NORTH-WEST MIRAMICHI.

A large quantity of salmon ova has been successfully laid down at the Dominion Government hatching establishment on the Northwest Miramichi River. Last year the reception and feeding dams were both injured, and after they were examined by Inspector Venning, the work of making the repairs was entrusted to Mr. Elson Tozer who, under the Inspector's personal direction, has made a satisfactory job, both dams being now strunch and tight and full of water.

On the 1st of September Overseer Hogan was instructed to employ men and obtain a lot of parent fish, but owing to the low water prevailing prior to the autumn rains, the fish were prevented from ascending the river, and efforts to procure them were, therefore, unsuccessful. At the first freshet the river rise fourfeet in twenty-fours hours, and as the water submerged the shore the dried leaves and parched debris deposited by the spring freshet floated down against the nets, which were thus converted into dams und swept away from their positions on the r below the Big Hole.

The sweeping net was next resorted to, and after all possible exertions were made, by night and day, 141 fish were obtained – 78 males and 65 females. The preponder ance of male fish in the whole take of the season was a discouraging feature in the operations and, added to it, was the capture of 20 spent fish which, of course were immediately lib rated. An encouraging and significant feature of the op rations, however, was the fact that the fish taken this season are larger than those previously taken, two of them weighing about forty pounds each.

At the present time, the season for obtaining ova having closed, there are now laid down in the hatching house from 600,000 to 700,000 healthy eggs which have been suc cessfully impregnated and are in prime condition. The house and all connected with it is in first class order, and there, is a fine dition. head of good water. If no unforseen accident takes place, therefore, we may count on about 600,000 young salmon being hatched ont for the next season's distribution. The establishment is under the care of Mr. Isaac Shaesgreen, who has been connected with it since it was first opened and whose losses on the ova laid down last autumn did not reach 8 per cent.—Chatham (N. B.), Advance.

A MORNING AMONG THE MASCALONGE.

From the eastern border of the Muskoka district to the watershed of the Ottawa river, from the York branch of the Madawaka southwards to the edge of the from er settlement, on the borders of Lake Ontario, the same awe striking wildness, the same grandeur of vast space of in-finity—of monotony, if you will—is ever pres-

Of the three kinds of fish which form the staple food and sport of the inhabitants and sportsmen of this district f shall place the mas calonge first, partly on account of its being the subject of this paper, and partly from the fact of the great lake trout, its enperior in every way being not only more rarely found, but so retiring old Bay Final, handicapped at 6st. Slbs., was supported by a small stake at 10 to 1. At the Bucies Hull the weight told on La Courcuse, who was not preservered with, and Bay Final and Broadside were left to fight the struggle out. Rising the ascent to the bottom of the craft, and giving the coup degrace onarter is ab 'ntely (which, in such narrow quarter, is ab 'utely necessary), survey his lordly dimensions with mingled feelings of satisfaction and admiration, for he is more than twice the weight of average specimens of his kind—the head of the pike public road, and had two dogs with them, family. He differs little in appearance from the which entered an adjoining field, and, after last-named fish, being a trifle more silvery, and coursing it, hunted a rabbit into a ston dike, perhaps rather more underhung but in edible qualities it would be an insult to mention him in the same breath. The most veracious of his tribe, it is said that the very perch and sunfish are not safe from his savage fungs. The only pity is, it is next to impossible to rod-fish for An arquaintance of nune, who lived most of his time on the frontier of the lake country. was the only person I ever saw use a rod for their capture. For this purpose he had to be the top of the fence, had committed a trespaddled by a second party; so, though the satisfaction of playing them belonged to him, the whether Sinclair had committed a trespars ment of the capture belongeding reality to the by inserting his hand within the fence it was paddler, as the rod was only laid in the canoo whilst trolling. By the time the hooks are extricated from our fish's laws, the cance has drifted sideways through the narrow opening of the channel, into a new and larger lake, level coasted as the other, but islandless. Far away on the opposite coast, a thin line of smoke rising from the wood denotes the shanty wherein an ex-British officer has for the last twenty years expatriated him-self, and devoted himself to the paddle and rifle exclusively; and, I may add, a better compan-ion round a camp fire would be hard to find Turning homewards, we point the bow of our canoe toward what appears in the distance to be stretches of green meadow, but is in reality beds of wild rice, haunt of ducks and reed birds, and along whose edges we hope to pick up a fish. Nor are our hopes delusive, for we have scarce coasted them for one handred sards ere the unmistakable sensation that causes the paddle linstify to be rejected and the line seized makes itself manifest, and an average fish of 6 lbs. strains on the line. But, slas, fickle fortune : one more fatal spring, and the line falls slack in our hand. The tears, metaphorically speaking, shed for the loss are hardly dry, and scarce a shed for the loss are hardly dry, and scarce a to the water toward the fish. The boat A curious story comes from Paris. It is quarter of a mile has been put between us, and being very light, the struggles of the fish not so very long since a young man, well the spot where we caught the last glimpse of the made the situation perilous, and soveral dressed, and apparently rich, entered a clan tip of his tail, when our course is once again secured somewhat consoles us. Scarce five minutes clapse before we are fast in another fish, but a certain drag on the line shows us, on hauling up, our expeditions were well found-ad, and a plebeian-looking bass of 4 lbs., stretches

Down goes the paddle, aut, a grasp the line, a magnificent fish of at least 1 des. loap three feet into the air, his sides fairly suining in the sun. Another leap or two, and we breathe freely, as he makes the running at a great pace for the open lake, towing cance and all after him; for with such tackle, we can afford to be sever. Our line is no silken thread, and ceremony would be out of place, though such a fish is worthy of a better late. We are very suon on even terms with him, and, after two or three futile attempts to dive under the cauce. our fingers are in his eyes, and with considerable trouble we deposit a tweive-pounds.

In compatricts.

The silence is so intense that for some time we hear the scarcely perceptible click of a paddle against the side of a canoe, before the author of it shoots round the corner in the shape of one of the local genii of the district. He paddles alongside does this interesting individual, and looks (though he does not mean it) as if his heel itched to be in your eye. He fumbles in the pocket of his capacious pantaloons in silence, and finally hands over to us a black bottle, with a grim nod Befuse not at your peril on such occasions, oh greenhorns wandering in the woods. It would certainly be unpleasant, and might be serious; he means well, even though the toes of his boots of minutely examined, might show traces of blood and hair.—The British rough uses his fists, the Yankee his ax-shooter, and the Canuck his tors, his heels and his teeth, the latter are undoubtedly the most formidable, so be civil, who lives near Gastenia. The fissit—for the bigo over a pole, about his tors, who have the most formidable, so be civil, who lives near Gastenia. The fissit—for the bigo over a pole, about his tors, his heels and his teeth, the latter are who lives near Gastenia. The fissit—for the bigo over a pole, about his tors, and the bigo over a pole, ab crowd of these honest toilers, the loss of nalf his stones, and sprinkled a space of ground skunk will walk into the open end, and when ear and a piece of his nose was his prompt to equal to a square rod. Mr. Hannah, who he gets past the middle the barrel will recover.

Ward. I have seen men advertised to extract saw the shower as it fell, says it was perfect. I upon the bottom, leaving the skunk a prorats' teeth with their own at country fairs. tussle between a Canuck handcuffed and a bulldog would be a very near thing, and would draw far larger audiences his hidgons body by the side of his more grace-

The sun rides high, and three or four miles he between us and camp; but, though it is county last Monday and brought a specimen; ness, early decay less 'man' -1, 1, 1, 1 only August, the heat would be nothing to those of the flesh with lim. A microscopic examination and a recipe that will cure you was that have watened horses in Broadway falling inclusion indicates that it rescuibles the flesh. This great remaily was discovered by a mission and county with limits of the flesh with the county that have watened horses it. Broadway falling of a cow, and a gentleman in town, who had ary in South America. Send a self-address stark naked with all windows open in the upper the temerity to taste it, says the taste is enveloped to the Rev. Joseph T. Iswam, State is story of a Richmond hotel gasping for breath, similar to that of beef.

250 cm. 46

word, and the spirits out in course in the second thinks it with while to penetrate these cate tudos during these months will find please to in tax t done some serge danien keep busy both his eyer and his gun, then he may wander, happy as a king and free as the air whither he will till the close of antumu comes. -- Amnia, in London Field.

THE GAME LAWS OF ENGLAND.

A remarkable " game case," involving a question of some importance, was treed at a Justice of Peace Court at Falkirk recently. Two miners, named McDonaid and Stuckar, were accused of tr-spassing, in pursuit of game, on lands the property of Mr. Forbes, of Callendar. From the ovidence, it appeared that the miners were walking along a built between the road and the field. Donald left the road, got upon the top of the dike, and watched the escape of the rabbit, while Sinclair stood on the roadside close to the dike, from which he removed some of the stones, and then secured the animal. was contended for the prosecution that Mowho thus remained masters of the situation land of the rabbit.

A JUDGE WHO LANDED HIS FISH UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

In the bay, just below Cape Vincent, Judge Emerson and his wife, of Ironton, Mo., were out in a very small boat trolling. With two hundred to three hundred feet of line out and wound around his hand, and and into the St. Lawrence. He held fast with only one fout inside the little boat, with head and arms stretched onf at full length subdue this monster, during which the conwas safely landed, smid the hearty plaudits of a crowd of anxious spectators.

ANOTHER FLESH SHOWER.

The phonomenon of fleah falling from a cloudless sky, says the Charleston News, ocundonbtedly the most formidable, so be civil, who lives near Gastenia. The fiesti-for on the bugo over a pole, about seven included and drink anything anywhere. A friend of such it certainly is—fell for several minutes, lugar, with open and brought down to the mide once drew a revolver in self defence on a descending somewhat in the manner of half-ground, and hast put in the notion. saw the shower as it fell, says it was perfect. upon the bottom, leaving the skunk a proly clear at the time, and that there was nothing unusual visible in the sky at the place of fully. the singular occurrence. Mr. R. Frank Clark, of Chester, returned from Gaston orrespond indiscretions of the certain from tounty last Monday and brought a specimen best does loss man't -1. I. I.

sassume, comes out on the dried fles, the pr coss is fluidled, and they are then quired, for storing. On being conveyed to the premises of the exporting merchant, they are first 'colled,' or assorted, into four different kinds, known as Merchantable. Washess Washes and hun or looken Madeira, West India, and Dun, or broken beit. The first is the best quality; the second a grade lower; the third is intended for the stomach of regroes; and the four which is incapable of keeping, is used at home. The cod went to hat countries is packed by screw power into small casks called drums; that which goes to the Mede-rranean is usually exported in bulk. We ship large quantities of dried codiish to Brazil, and there is liardly an inhabit I corner of that vast simplet where the Non foundland cod is not to be found, being car ned on the backs of mules from the sea coast into the most distant provinces of the interior. The negroes of the West Indian welcome it as a grateful addition to their vegetable diet. To all parts of the Mediter ranean it finds its way-Italians, Grooks. and Sicilians equally reliabling the produce of our sea harvest. The Spaniards and Portu Donald, having left the road and gone upon guests are our best customers, and all over the top of the fence, had committed a tree- the sunny pennsula, the 'bacic' have been a standing cish since the days of Cerantes who makes special mention of our cod in Don Quixoto under that name. In Great left to the court to say. On behalf of the Britain and the United States we have thou-miners it was urged that they were not guilty cands of customers. In the warmer regions of entering or being upon lands in pursuit of the earth, however, the people seem to game as set forth in the complaint, an i that mayo a special liking for the dried and salted there must be actual personal entrance to cod, and to them it is an almost indispensible lands before a contravention of the stat the lands before a contravention of the stat to was committed. The court took this Brazii, Spain, and Italy are opened up by view of the matter and acquitted the accused, railways and other means of transit, the greater becomes the demand for cod, as the cost is lessened. Roman Catholic countries are our best customers, and Newfoundlanders have no reason to with for the abolition of Lent or a reduction in the number of fast days appointed by the Roman Catholic church. The advancing prices of fresh ments of all kinds in various countries is also rapidiy increasing the demand for cod, and has considerably subsuced its value. Twelve or fourteen years ago the average price of fish while on his feet adjusting a seat, a terrible was from twelve to finen shillings per quivering on his line threw him off his bulance tai. It is now exactly double that price."

DEATH IN ALGAMING-HOUSE.

A curious story comes from Paris. It is boats instantly pushed out to assist, but by ideatine gaming hones. He was maring at the aid of his wife, who is something of a trents-et-quarante, and had already won a sailor, and the Judge's squatic qualities, he little pile of gold. "Red wins," presently regained the boat. Meantime the fish, which said the banker, and proceeded to hand over proved to be a thirty-six pound maskinonge, a hundred napoleons to the unknown one was jumping saveral feet into the air and for the stakes were high. But the stranger anon plunging to the bottom of the rive. made no attempt to take the gold, and rethrowing the spray high and wide in his wild turned no answer to turee or four question contortions. It took more than an hour to put to him in reference to the game. His eyes remained fixed on the red, while his test was watched by dozens of excited persons features assumed a ghasily palaness. A on shore and in boats. However, by going player touched his arm—he was doad. Then on shore, judicial firmness finally triumpared the banker coldly withdrow the hundred in over fish force, and this monster of the deep poleons, observing that the play was in the unture of a reciprocal contract, which could only be entered into between parties bette of whom were capable of contracting, and tuerefore never between a live man and a dead one. The cause of death was heart di-ease, and the official report was soon drawn up in proper form. It contained no sort a

A TEM FOR DAUNES-A parrel balance i

A CARD -Toall who are suffering from t . -1, 1 , I · •