Market Reports.

From Our Own Correspondent.

JAN. 10 .- For the past two weeks up to Saturday last there have been so many holidays that business in the lumber trade has been quite at a standstill, but now that the holiday season is over, some little improvement has been experienced in business during the past two days, and a good steady winter trade is now expected. There is some demand from Boston for ash lumbor and several shipments have been made to that city. Hardwood is making in the townships for which they have had a favorable winter so far, and stocks are expected to be full next seazon. Prices of all kinds of lumber in our market are steady and very firm as under. We quote prices in the yards :-

The severe cold weather during the past ten days or so, has caused quite a brisk demand for wood. Imports continue to be very limited, and there is very little stock in the city as compard with previous years, and as a consequence prices are high and likely to remain so till the opening of navigation. We quote ex cartage at the depot :-

TORONTO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

JAN. 10.- The close of theholiday season has given retail dealers a fresh start, and the yards are nearly all in full blast again, some with whom I have conversed state that they are as full with orders as during the summer months; lot that be as it may it is evident that there is little cauce for complaint on the score of dull trade at the time of writing this letter. I for one had entertained thuides that we had already sufficient, and to spare, of empty houses, but some people seem to think otherwise, and so it goes on, and our fair city continues to extend her boundaries, and the outlook for the coming season is conceded by all who have the oppor tunity of judging to be excellent. Some large factories are now in the course of erection and other important manufacturers are on the lookout for suitable sites on which to creet large buildings. It is by this means that our city may look forward confidently to a large increase in population during the next decade.

Another retail lumber firm has opened up at the west end of the city whose shingle reads T. & S. Baldwin, both trustworthy young men, and if industry can mild up a flourishing busi ness they are sure to succeed. With the opening of the new year there have been some important changes in the personal of well-known firms doing business here. One moinber of the i. m of Donogh, McCool & Oliver, wholerale lumber dealers, has retired, and the business is now continued by the first and last named, and doubless the remaining members of this firm are fully able to hold their own in the rac .or success. Another extensive building firm, that of Mr. Goo. Gall, has made the welcome addition of Mr. J. McCraken, formerly senior member of the firm of McCraken & Oliver, mber dealers, and I believe it is their inten tion to combine the lumber trade with that of building and factory work in general, and both members of this firm being men of long experisnee and sound judgment combined with busi noss tact and ample means they can hardly fail in building up a largely increasing business quotations, and no surplus of stocks on hand boyond present or immediate prospective requirements.

EOSTON.

Cotton Wool and Iron of Jan 6, says :- The tone of the market is steady, and everything seems to be in a healthy situation, with a good prospect as to future trade. At the same time the volume of business is limited just now to the supply of current wants, as parties are hardl, ready yet to start out in many operations for the new year.

CHICAGO.

The Northwestern Lumberman of Dec. 30, says Reports this week from nearly all points west of the lakes indicate an extremely moderate trade. At some points there is exarcely any thing being done. The large stocks on hand in all the leading market have made helders ans ions to soll, and willing to do so at liberal con This, together with the cessions in price. denomalization of freight rates, has led yard demand for the present is met. At the East the per "to drop from the clouds."

sortments at Now York and in the New England cities are quite full-not to that degree however, that will carry the yards many weeks, under a good export and local demand, without some replenishment by rail. The wholesale yards at Albany have been made ready for such a domand, and the dealers will wait with gentle anxiety to see it come. Some descriptions of white pine, it is thought, will advance at New York, but there is no prospect of an immediate change in prices, though it is expected that they will hold firm. Yellow pine on the seaboard is atill a drug. Spruce is in ample supply. Lath is quiet at firm prices, ranging from $2.40 to $2.50, and shingles are more active.

The stock on hand at Oswego is 210,000,000, as against 168,000,000 last year, and it has not appreciably decreased since the close of navigation. At Buffalo and Tonawand, while the supply is larger than it was last year at this time, business is considered fair and prospects good.

LONBON.

The Timber Trades Journal of Dec. 23, says: Even at the Baltic this week things were dull Certainly Messra. Churchill & Sim did not offer a very large assortment of unreserved goods in their catalogue, which partly accounts for the attendance being hardly up to the average. No doubt it was best not to put any heavy parcels on the market at this dull time, and when the year has turned we shall probably have unreserved goods plentiful enough as of yere. If the saleroom itself was not crowded, however, the avenues leading to it were thronged with all the loading men of the trade, and doubtless being the last said of the old year a great many were there out of currosity to hear how things went There were several of the reserved lots disposed of, amongst which a couple of lots of Montreal let bright plue regulars mot with a buyer at £23 5s. per Petersburg standard, also a lot of Gromoff's 1st white Petersburg plank was knocked down at £11 5s., by no means a bad figure, taking into consideration the preximity of the holidays and the natural disinclitation of the trade just now to add to their stocks; still there was plenty of room for improvement on the prices realized.

days, there is naturally a very marked indisposition to do business, and any transactions entered into now will be confined either to retail transactions wherein the buyers require something for immediate delivery, or for delivery when the incoming year is advanced. The general tone of the market is therefore dull, as usual at this time of the year, and few important transactions have taken place recently, as buyers are not inclined to buy any cargoes, unless at a very low figure; and, on the other hand, sellers are not pressing their cargoes upon the market, hoping the new year will bring in brighter prospects. The general depressed tone of the market has been intensified in a degree by the suspension of the firm of M esrs. Davies, Williams & Co., timber merchar of this city, with liabilities roughly stated at about £20,000, but nothing is as yet known of the probable amount of assets. The list of creditors is understood to include several foreign houses, who e represented directly or by their agents.

TYNE.

The Timber Trades Journal of Doc. 23, says: The near approach of the Christmas holidays combined with the stormy weather experienced during the last few days have offectually put a stop to all appearance of business, and there has been therefore literally nothing doing during the last seven days. A few ships have dropped in from a late and stormy passage, amongst which are two Quebec vessels with the usual assorted cargoes. One of the Gothenburg steamers has also arrived, but the deliveries are of the most meagre character.

GLASCOT.

The Timber Trades Journal of Dec. 23, says: The additions to Clyde stocks of wood since last writing have been unimportant, and at this time of the year the quantity of goods changing hands is of course very limited. As indicated in last week's note, there is a comparatively fair supply of wood on hand at present in the various depets for storage of timber with which this market is in immediate connection. Yorkhill yards, where the great bulk of the deals (Canadian and lower port) imported to Clyde are stored, have just now a well stocked appearance, although deliveries have been going on recently to a fair extent, the amount for November being 71,532 pieces, and since the beginning of December 35,719.

Most of the deals landed here have been per steamer, a small proportion only coming per sailing vessels. Of Canadian deals this year's import shows a considerable increase over 1881, while there is a large falling off this year compared with last in the number of Lower Port deals imported. Altogether the American deals imported to Clyde this year to date amount to 1,233,000 pieces, as compared with 1,315,500 pieces last year.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SHIPPING.

The Telegraph says: - We publish to-day a statement of the new vessels added to the registry books of this port during the year 1882; of the old vessels transierred to St. John from other ports during the year and of the vestels written off our books, whether in consequence of being wrocked, broken up or transferred to other ports. The last named list is a very formidable one, comprising ninety vessels and including some of our finest ships.
