

We are light diffusers. Even while we are pursuing our Collegiate Course we can diffuse light. In our contact with our fellow men, we can let them see that we are diffusers of that light which Christ speaks of when He said "That was the true light which lighteth every man coming into the world."

A word as to light reflectors: In order that we reflect God aright we must keep near to Christ. Just as the reflector of the natural light must be close to the lamp, so Christ, being our Lamp, and we being close to Him, shall reflect His light—His life—in our walk and conversation.

"O send out thy light and thy truth; let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles. Then will I go unto the altar of God, unto God my exceeding joy: and upon the harp will I praise Thee, O God, my God." Ps. xliii. 3-4.

WHAT NEED WE?—This question often occurs to a student's mind in his thoughtful hours. His needs are numerous and varied. He needs physical, mental and spiritual health; close application to his many studies; courage in meeting difficulties; a buoyant, hopeful spirit; an eye to see the bright side of things when much around him seems dark and discouraging. It is well for us occasionally to realize our needs. A true sense of them will lead us to seek that we may find. What are some of the things we as a body of Christian students need? The following, though it by no means exhausts the list, may be included among them: A closer walk with God; more frequent gazing at the Lamb of God who taketh away our sins; a firmer reliance on God's Spirit, more of His indwelling presence; a stronger sense of our individual responsibility to God, a larger share of the spirit of our Great Master; a more conscious realization of God's nearness to us at all times; a desire to know more of God's truth; unhesitating acceptance of and submission to His truth when known; a reverent manner in discussing spiritual matters; less reserve in talking of what the Lord hath done for our souls; a holier hatred of sin; larger sympathy for those out of Christ; some means whereby we can utilize our varied experiences in mission fields for our common good; greater mutual confidence; more thought and often less talk; learning from reverses as well as successes. Most will admit these needs are real and not imaginary. They can be supplied. Let us be more with God in thought and prayer; cease unprofitable ways; learn better ones. Each needy student can thus help to raise the tone of our college life.
