I am convinced that one secret of wo-man's comparative lack of success in man's companies lies in the fact of her Women are so easily wrought usaness. The least criticism anupon by trifles. The least criticism anupon them, and every little mole-hill noys them, and creat inthe mole-hill assumes the proportions of an Alpine peak. They expect the amenities of the peak. They expected the distinction of the drawing-room in the business office, and are ready to greet with a sharp tongue the appearance of any man who approaches their desk with his hat on, or works in their presence in his shirt works in Of course these remarks do not apply to all women who work in business appropriates; there are large-natured wocapacines, there are inter-natured wo-men filling spheres of usefulness to-day whose judgment and discretion equal that of any man who writes himself down as a success. I only write of the down as a success. The write of the sippant feather heads who fill positions more or less importance in the great work-s-day world, and bring their sex into disfavor by petty and womanish modes of doing business. Now there is a wast difference between womanliness and womanishness. You must preserve the latter and get rid of the former, my young woman friend, if you wish to make your calling, either as clerk, teacher, saleswoman or professional a success. Cultivate the one as you cultivate germium slips for your winter garden, but weed out the other as you weed out pussley from your strawberry patch. Do not expect parior amenities in business life. Expect and command respect wherever you go, but let the chivalrous observances go. Do not be indignant because aman questions you as to a business point, or rides with you in an elevator with his hat on; remember that you have passed out into a broad plane of universal equality when you enter a humes career, where the graceful and pretty observances of social life are overooked for want of time. The man who comes into your presence on a business errand with his hat on means no disrespect by so doing; he is simply recognizing you upon another and broader plane of equality, where the trifles of salon life are ignored and forgotten.—Chicago Heald.

A DANGER.

Do you know that notwithstanding the great danger of sun stroke during the recent hot days, there was no decrease in the sale of preparations to prevent perspiration?" said a drug clerk to a customer. "Now, consilering that a dry non-perspiring skin will lead to sun stroke quicker than any-hing else during such extremely hot weather as we had for a few days, it is really surprising that people will run the isk attendant upon stopping the per-piration. There are several effective preparations for this purpose and they are in large demand. Of course, where the perspiration is stopped, the temperature is increased and the skin is seriously injured. Women are the largest purchasers of these preparations, as is to be expected, but still men are by no means few who will sacrifice their health for appearance sake. I repeat that it is impossible to understand how people with common sense will subject themselves to such annovance and take such dangerous chances for the sake of having a dry

DORMANT MEMORY.

A curious instance of dormant memory in infancy took place in our family. My mother went on a visit to my grand-mother, who lived in London. She took waited on her as a maid. One day this murse brought the baby in a my mother's was carpeted all over. There he crept about and amused himself according to his lights. When my mother was dressed, a certain ring that she generally were was not to be found. Great search was made, but it was never produced, and, the visit over, they all went away and it was almost forgotten. Exactly a year after they again went to visit the grandfather. This baby was now one year and eleven months old. The same nurse took him into the same room, and my mother saw him, after looking about him deliberately walk up to a certain corner, turn a bit of the carpet back and produced the ring. He never gave any account of the matter, nor did he, so far as I know, remember it afterward, It seems most likely that he found the ring on the floor and hid it, as in a safe place, under a corner of the Brussels carpet where it was not naited. He probably forgot all about it till he saw the place again, and he was far too infantile at the the time it was missed to understand what the talk that went on was about, or to know what the search, which perhaps le did not notice, was for .- Irish

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

THE AUSTRALIAN ROOMERANG. The peculiarity of the boomerang is that, when thrown, it will return to the feet of the thrower. To bring about this result, the savage strikes an attitude which is singularly graceful. He always carries several weapons in his left hand. When he wants to make a throw he draws one out at random and fixes his eye on the object which he desires to hit. Then balancing the weapon for a moment in his dark hand, he springs a pace or two forward and launches it in the air with an angry

Away flies the boomerang like a thing of life, bounding hither and thither after its prey, and, whether it strikes it or not, comes sailing back to the feet of the

The boomerange rarely measures over wo feet five inches along the curve. It is two feet from tip to tip, three inches wide in the middle, and diminishes gradually toward the tips. It is composed of the wood of the native gum tree, which is heavy, hard, and tough enough to sustain a powerful shock without breaking, for ing, the weapon is grasped at the handle. where there are usually a number of knife-cuts, which give the native a firm hold, and the flat side is always kept downwards. Boomerangs are powerful weapons, and fly with great force. One traveller relates that he once saw a dog cut nearly in two by a boomerang as it fell, and that a brass spur was cut off the heel of a horseman by one of these curious weapons in its flight.

The very largest game of Australia is killed with the boomerang. Cormorants are brought down from the trees along the rivers, and a boomerang plays havoc in a flock of water fowl. Australian boys learn to use the national weapon early in life. They have little ones for their sports, and a favorite amusement among the native villages is hurling it at pigs and geese. As the boys grow older they exchange their toy boomerangs for ones of regulation size, and become experts in them in a short time. In short, there is no stranger weapon the world over than the boomerang of the Australian savage.

PET CROWS.

Crows make very amusing pets for spirit of devilrty and besides that they can be taught to talk more distinctly

It is a common idea among the country people that they will not talk unless their tongues are cut at a certain tender age. Be that as it may, I have heard crows talk excellently that never had their tongues cut, and some whose tongues are cut never will talk at all. I always take my chances without cutting, and out of nearly a dozen that I have owned only two proved void of a bump of language.

To be sure of having a good, affectionate crow, take him from the nest as soon after hatching as you can find him. If he is the first of the brood hatched, all the better. How are you to tell that? Why, if you find one baby crow and four eggs in the nest, does not that settle the question beyond dispute? Name him as soon as you get home. It is a good plan to have a family consultation on the subject, for a rechristening is fatal to the proper education of your callow charge. Always call him by name when you feed him. He will learn his name before he knows what feathers are, and respond to it whenever he hears it uttered.

Feed until half fledged on meal and water-regular "chicken dough"-and if any "chicken sickness" comes on consult the "chicken doctor." In other words, the young crow must be raised on about the same diet as a young chicken. reed plenty and feed often. A crow's nest is the best thing to keep him in during his infantile days. If you haven't one make a substitute. As he grows in strength and is able to travel bout a little he needs more variety in his food, but be careful he does not swallow anything that is very salt. Dump a nandful of gravel down his mouth occasionally and give him minnows and frogs once in awhile. Swallowing his first live frog seems to give a young crow a most agreeable new sensation. Do not be in a hurry about making him bathe.

He will wash himself whenever it is necessary, and if taken and plunged into cold water while the pinfeathers are full of blood it may cause him to literally "catch his death o' cold." As soon as he is well on the wing his language lessons should begin. Shut him up in a darkened room when well fed, and begin by whispering the word or phrase you wish him to learn. If he seems to listen, repeat it a little louder, and continue until he either grows restless or goes to sleep. It will he but a few minutes. Repeat the same lesson and nothing else every time you visit him or pass within hearing for a week or ten days, and if your crow doesn't talk in that time he probably never will.

Generally they will begin to practice to themselves the first or second day of their imprisonment, but once a word or phrase is learned others will quickly follow. If really talented you can make your crow appear to answer any question. For instance, call his name gently and add "What" in a loud, emphatic tone. Soon, when his name is called, he will respond "What" with just the same emphasis and inflection that he has heard you give. Then, again, if you say "It's dinner-time" whenever you feed him some day he will walk into the house hungry and gravely announce "It's dinner time."

As he grows in years and knowledge your crow will develop a variety of thievish and amusing tricks too numerous to mention. He will cultivate the the boomerang sometimes encounters some very hard substances. In threwmosity towards others. He will attend you part way whenever you leave home and, if your hours of return are regular, will probably meet you at the same spot and welcome you exuberantly. Canadian Treasury Bills in London.

LONDON, June 27.—The Canadian Govrnment has placed treasury bills in the London market sufficient to offset recent withdrawals of savings bank deposits. The bills are to run twelve months. OBITUARY.

The death is announced of Mr. John Gahagan, of Quinville, P.Q. The deceased was born in the County of Mayo, Ireland, in 1812, and came to Canada when quite a young boy, establishing himself in the County of Ottawa. The funeral took place on Thursday last from his late residence to the Gatineau Point Church, where a requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Champagne, P.P., assisted by Rev. Father Cousineau, P.P., of Sarsfield. The deceased leaves one son, Mr. M. Gahagan, who resides on the old homestead. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. Burke, Richard Burke, Patrick McDermott, Jas. McDermott, Francis Burns and M. Mc-Nulty. The funeral was one of the largest seen in that part of the country for some time.

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. Patrick Brennan of Eganville, Renrew, Ont., one of the most respected residents in that locality. The deceased was a native of County Kerry, Ireland, and came to this country in 1859. He was the father of Mr. Timothy Brennan, who was a student at the Ottawa University some years ago. His tuneral was very largely attended, among those present being Dr. Dowlin, M.M.P., T. R. Donovan, Jas. McDermott, Jas. Gorman, Ed. Helferty, Morgan McGrath, John Foy, Jos. Bonsfield, E. Levy, Patrick Furlong, John McGrath, Thos. Gorman, N. Bulger, Jere-miah O'Neill, P.C. Donegan, John Foley, J. McKernan, John Casey, W. Searson, John McCann, T. Corley, J. Kelly, J. Conahan, Jas. Brazilian Attractions.

CHICAGO, June 28.-A young Irishman named Francis Yourell has, he says, just escaped from the clutches of an immigration agency in Brazil. Four months ago Yourell was working as a laborer on a larm near Dublin. Attracted by prom-ises posted around the neighborhood in which he lived he decided to take ship for Brazil. The showy posters promised a free pasage and free farms and Yourell and 13 companions jumped at what they regarded the opportunity of their lives. The fourteen Irishmen started from Liverpool, March 11th, on the steamship Arcania. The ship touched at two obscure French ports, where 100 more passengers were taken on and at Lisbon, where 400 Portuguese were brought on board, making 1,300 passengers, all told. After 24 days sail from Liverpool the Arcania arrived at an out-of-the-way scaport in Brazil.

From the time the passengers landed on Brazilian ground they were subjected to treatment, according to Yourell's statement, which no Christian ever suffered before they were thrown into dense woods, where Russians and Italians were dying with yellow fever, beaten and starved almost to death, and yet some of the unfortunates were cast into prison for complaining. The promises about free farms was found to be a sham and humbug. The object of the immigration agency was to get workmen for the coffee planters, who find it difficult to get enough hands owing to the prevaence of yellow fever and other diseases. After weeks of hardship and privation Yourell and three others escaped from Sentos on the ship Bancroy as firemen, bound for Santiago. From Santiago Yourell sailed to Baltimore in the Ban-

Dickens, in "Oliver Twist," is commonly supposed to have killed "Bumbledom" for ever. But however effective his sarcastic exposure may have been in England, there seems ample and painful proof that the evil tendencies of the Bumble family still live and with great force and power on this side of the Atlantic. The public charities of the United States appear to be much in need of some Dickens to lay bare their mis-management and hold it up to the anger and derision of humanity. The New York Catholic Review has the following burning article in its last issue :-

"The death of a poor woman a few days ago through the heartlessness of state charity officials, and the charges of the Sun against these officials, because of numerous other instances of inhumanity, bring up prominently before the public the whole question of State interference in certain matters. It may be put down is a practical principle that the charity of State institutions is a travesty on that virtue. From the physicians in charge to the meanest scullion in these institutions, all are, with exceptions not worth mentioning, as officially insolent and cruel in their treatment of poor patients as they are permitted to be. The stories that have been told of the American poor-house, orphan asylum, insane asylum, and hospital are shameful enough and numerous enough to indidate the character of these institutions and to condemn them utterly; and it is not to be questioned that if these places could be well investigated there would be sufficient justification found to change their management. The instances of irresponsible and conscienceless physicians passing sentence of death on a patient like Mrs. Freeman, amputating legs, arms, fingers, with complete disregard of a patient's chances to preserve these members by care and nursing, and playing any other tricks that bad temper, laziness, indifference and ignorance sug-gest are very numerous. State charity s not only a failure, it is an abomination. Whatever the erratic may think of the union of Church and State in other matters, in this it is imperative that both should work in harmony, the State supplying the funds, and Christianity supplying true vocations for nursing the sick, and caring for the helpless. Humanitarian humbugs have long ago demonstrated that while they can write books on charity, they cannot run an hospital on any other than a moneymaking basis."

The O'Gorman Mahane

The O'Gorman Mahon, who died

The O'Gorman Mahon, who died and the 16th inst., was one of the most high resque figures in public life. He can eighty-eight years old, and had been identified with his country's cause for more than sixty, years. A follower of O'Connell in the fight for Catholine mean cipation, he also devoted himself with sommuch zeal to the cause of Repeal that the Government annulled his election to Parliament in 1830, and whan the was radian elected to the same body he was refused his seat until has by seamitted in 1847. He served with distinction in Bolivia, Chili, Costa, Rica, and Brazil, attaining at one time, it is, said, the chief command of the army and navy in one of those republics. On the Continent he was even better known, having the entree of every court, and being the entree of every court, and being the entree of every court, and wants famous for his wit, courage and manly beauty. He was, in short, the typical Irish gentleman— not the bastard imitation who calls himself a West Briton and rejoices in his lack of patriotism. His itle of The O'Gorman was derived. through his mother, the only daughter of the head of that family. No man in our time has borne the princely Ixish title with more becoming grace or honor. The O'Gorman Mahon sided with the majority of the Irish Parliamentary party in the recent division, and his death leaves a vacancy in Carlow which will probably be tilled by a successor of the same principles; but it will be long ere the British Parliament holds another such gallant and striking personality as his.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

As a rule, a person who has a good appetite has good health. But how. many there are who enjoy nothing they eat, and sit down to they meals only as an unpleasent duty. Nature's antidotes for this condition are so happily combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla that it soon restores good digestion, creates an appetite, and renovates and vitalizes the blood so that the beneficial effect of good food is imparted to the whole body. Truly hun-ger is the best sauce, and Hood's Sarsaparilla induces hunger.

Jamalca Does Not Want Reciprocity. Sir Henry Arthur Blake, governor of Jamaica, who is in London writes to the Times to contradict a cable dispatch from New York stating that Jamaica was anxious for reciprocity with the United States and asserting that the inhabitants of that island were holding ublic meetings to advocate reciprecity. The acting colonial secretary at Jamaica has cabled to the governor that no such meetings have been held and that every statement made in the New York dispatch is untrue. Governor Blake says that the merchants and people of Jamaica are anxious to extend their trade in any and every direction, but that Jamaica is not prepared to concede differential duties to the United States.

Unbearable Pain.

DEAR SIRS,-I suffered for three days very severely from summer complaint, and could get no relief, but kept getting worse till the pain was almost unbearable, and I was very weak. After everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. The first dose gave relief, and it did not fail to cure me. WN. T. GLYNN, Wilfred, Ont.

There are so many things wrong and difficult in the world that no man can be great unless he gives up thinking much about pleasure or rewards, and gets strength to endure what is hard and painful.

Every tissue of the body, every nerve bone and muscle is made stronger and more healthy by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The more one lives the more one learns to act toward people as if they were inanimate objects-namely, to do what you can for them, and utterly disregard whether they are grateful or not.

One often loses the spirit of humility by being excessive in the outward act. The beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.
