

LUMBER INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THE BALTIMORE FIRE.

The Toledo Fire & Marine Insurance Company of Sandusky, Ohio, announces that it suffered no loss in the Baltimore conflagration.

The Lumber Underwriters of 66 Broadway, New York, will lose only one small line, the amount of the policy affected being only $1,200. There is food for thought in the fact that at this time, when the large general insurance companies are anxiously summing up their millions of losses in the great conflagration, the lumber insurance companies are practically without loss. The lumber insurance companies maintain that there is no conflagration hazard in their business. They insure only widely scattered lumber and mill risks, and in the few places where two yards adjoin, or where there is a "lumber district," they carefully limit their lines. If North Tonawanda or the Chicago lumber district or similar districts should be swept by fire, the losses of these companies would not be excessive.
