Retreating to the countryside the revolutionaries attacked and captured sam Shul, thirty miles west of Canto i, and murdered the prefect. The troops were put to flight, and the rebels moved on to Wen Chow and Woo Chow, both of which towns they took after slight resistance.

vicercy of Canton, who took refuge on a gunboot after his palace was burned Wednesday night, has ordered troops to parsue the rebels in the country. The authorities appear from latest advices to be in control at ntcn. The gates of the city are closed, and no one is allowed to enter.
A vigorous round-up of suspects is being made. Seven gunboats are anci-ored off the city.

The uprising began with a plot against the throne by anti-Manchus, who went to Canton in great numbers from Hongkong. Their object was betrayed and the revolutionary movement was prematurely begun following an attempt to arrest the leaders. Successfully coped with in Canton, the olutionaries appear to be abandon ing that city and concentrating their attacks on the towns to the north and west. There are 30,000 troops in the capital of the province, and upon the loyalty of these the hope of the government depends. Many of the troops have proved their faithfulness, and this appears to have influenced the greater body, suspected of disloy-sity, to still obey the commands of
