CHICAGO—Wheat has had too much break to make it safe for short sellers and this is the reason no large short interest exists in the pit. Very many who are believers in wheat at this level are holding off for liquidation of high-priced wheat to come to an end.

Wheat—There was little news of importance on wheat during early session and professional traders continued their attack on values, being assisted by further heavy liquidation in July, resulting in the lowest prices recorded since the reaction from the high point started. Private cables told of an estimated loss in Germany, Hungary and Roumania of 175,000,000 bushels, and exporters at seaboard confirmed sales abroad of about 1,000,000 bushels, principally Manitobas, which had the effect of causing a halt in the downward trend, and turned attention for the time being from the purely speculative to the actual commercial side of the situation, and before the close there was a wild scramble to cover on the part of shorts and some buying, which indicated that the best support would again be accorded the cereal, We look for much higher prices.

Corn and Oats—Bearish traders raided the market early in an effort to start liquidation by some of the larger holders, but in this they were disappointed, the market recovering from the low point and scoring a good advance. We think coarse grains a purchase.

Melady & Co. had the following at the close:

Wheat—That which has been absent

Melady & Co. had the following at the close:

Wheat—That which has been absent from the market for some time past was in the shape of an excellent buying power from strong sources. Liverpool was lower and the number of cargoes off coast. Were depressing, but continental markets were higher and both the seaboard and the Northwest reported a big business done for export. A Kansas City miller predicted Kansas would not raise over 30,000,000 bushels. The Northwest furnished quite a lot of bull news and houses with Northwestern affiliations were the best buyers of futures. It was apparently baled out and the selling power exhausted. We think the selling power exhausted. We think the selling power exhausted. We think the selling has been overdone and that, the market has turned for a substantial advance.

Corn—Cables firm, receipts as expected, but market sold on early weakness in wheat and warmer weather over the belt, but recovered most of its break before close on a very good cash buying. Crop but recovered most of its break before close on a very good cash buying. Crop reports show very little improvement and the market shows a very firm undertone.

week will likely bring with it a further drop. It is a good thing for export trade that figures are going down, for up to the present time business transacted has been very small. Not a hundred packages have been shipped, which will give some idea as to the volume of the export trade. The whole trouble lies in the fact that prices are much too high to interest English buyers. The Old Country market is not by any means bare of butter, and importers have not necessarily to turn to the Canadian market, and they certainly will not be interested before prices here
