Prominent Sporting Man Arrested in Windsor, for Theft, Early Sunday Morning.

POLICE TELL A STRANGE STORY

Claim That He Has Two Wives, One in England and Another in Hamilton.

Windsor, Oct. 27.—Thomas Clement, a well-known man about town, prominent in the ranks of Windsor society, and a certain acquaintance among cricketers and sporting men generally, was arrested at 1 o'clock this morning and locked up nominally on a charge of theft. Clement was caught just as he was about to enter a hardware store on Sandwich-street. To the clever detective work of Officer Reid, who has been watching the man for months, is due the credit of the capture.

Under a serious charge, the police promise, will confront Clement when the theft case has been settled. Altho masquerading as an unmarried man, Clement is known, the police say, to have at least two wives living. One resides at No. 9 Almsworth-road, W. Croydon, England, while the other is a Hamilton woman whose name is Miss Jeanie Trout. The Englishman he married some 15 years ago. He has two daughters by this marriage, both of whom will live with their mother and are 15 and 16 years old respectively. By his Hamilton wife he had a son, now nearly 11 years of age. This is the story told by the police.

Letters found on him show that he also enjoyed a close friendship with a Toronto woman, who resides on Parliament-street. These letters are all couched in terms of endearment and are addressed simply "Mas" and are full of affectionate expressions towards Clement. One letter from "Mas" asks for money to buy clothes and another a few days later shows that Clement sent her $25.

The Hamilton woman's letter are addressed to Clement at Detroit, Michigan, showing that he was keeping her in ignorance of his address, and that he was in the city of Detroit, where he is being closely watched. The affair has created a sensation here.

What Le Soleil Would Do If It Were Member for Quebec Would Ask Sir Wilfrid to Help Its Compatriots.

WOULD INAUGURATE WINTER SERVICE

Also See That Regiment Get Better Quarters—Finds Quebec Badly Treated.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Le Soleil of Quebec, the government organ, says: "If we were member of the House of Commons for the district of Quebec we would telegraph at once to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, asking him to appoint one of our compatriots to the position of Chief Justice of the Northwest Territories, replacing the late Judge Rouleau. We are ready to admit that the circumstances have greatly changed since the appointment of Judge Rouleau. At that time the French-Canadians were in the majority, while to-day they are but a feeble minority in the Northwest. The majority, however, even so much that it should not take advantage of this evolution to prevent one of our own from being replaced by one of our own. In making this appeal we are not importing Sir Wilfrid, we are only asking him."

"If we were member of the House of Commons, from the district of Quebec, we would telegraph Sir Wilfrid to inaugurate a winter service this winter between Quebec and the Lower St. Lawrence. The opinion is so unanimous on this point that the government would not be blamed even if the enterprise was not crowned with complete success."
