

GERMANY AND POWER

Frederick William, The Crown Prince
This is No. 9 of a Series of Ten Articles Written For The Times
By W. FRANK HATHEWAY.

The emperor's son Frederick, whose army reached the Meuse in June, is in many ways a chip of the old block. He was born at Potsdam in 1892 and has gradually become a thorough militarist. His career was rapid from colonel of the Death's Head Hussars in 1911 to commander of an army in 1914. An ardent sportsman, he was not in his youth a fighter in the military sense. His note book says: "This pleasure, in the struggle itself, alone, is really not what attracts us sportsmen out into the woods. The great book of beautiful nature opens willingly before the real huntsman. Nature speaks with ever varying, ever powerful voice to us lonely stalking huntsmen and sings to us the song of songs of the Creator."

England would not aid her to get the port of Agadir on the west coast of Africa.

This violent political speech won the heart of the Crown Prince. Later on to show his changed feeling for England, he sent a congratulatory telegram to Col. Frobenius, whose book was an attack on Great Britain. Again in April, 1918, he telegraphed Prof. Buchholz, endorsing a fiery speech lately made by him. Thus the nature-loving prince of earlier days had been quickly changed into the commander calling for war. About this same time a man named Wm. Lunniss wrote a reasoned but violent attack on militarism. This book, "The Human Slaughter-house," showed in lurid pictures the savagery of war. The edition ran up to 200,000. The author received the thanks of the peace conference. The Crown Prince smiled through a military magazine, and at once became famous in Germany. In it he says of a drill cavalry charge: "If it were only in earnest, and adds, "the sacred duty to maintain the army and fleet always at the highest degree of readiness to strike."

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost. Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands, each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! it is harmless.

CONTROL OF THE WIRES

Washington, July 6.—The joint resolution authorizing the president to take over and operate until the end of the war all telegraph, telephone, cable and radio systems in the United States was passed tonight by the house. It now goes to the senate, but indications were that action on it there would be deferred until after the mid-summer recess, planned to begin the end of this week. The vote was 221 to 4. The four members voting in the negative are all Republicans.

DEMONSTRATION AND TALK ON CONSERVATION

The first of a series of demonstrations and talks on food conservation and kindred subjects, which had been arranged by the Housewives' League under the supervision of Mrs. Richard Hooper, was held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Union street, yesterday afternoon. If it can be taken as a sample of what the series will be, the available seats for the demonstration were eagerly sought after. Miss Mary Bryson Hart, who is assisting the league with its work this summer, gave a thoroughly practical and delightful talk on what the housewife could do with the by-products of beef; Miss Gladys Baxter demonstrated skillfully the best methods of making some seasonal salads, and Mrs. Hooper gave an interesting talk on general aspects of food conservation.

The amount of space available in the Y. W. C. A. rooms limits the number who can attend the demonstrations to about twenty-five. There was no unoccupied seat there yesterday afternoon and all present were grateful for having had the privilege of attending.

Young Man: How can you serve your country? Fight, if you may, but if that privilege be denied you, you can still serve effectively and honorably in that great army of skilled workers without which Canadian industry would be helpless. You need technical training. Ask or write for information.—The International Correspondence Schools, No. 8 Sydney street, St. John, N. B.
