The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WHAT dull, when you do not know what gives its loveliness of form to the lily, its depth of color to the violet, its fragrance to the rose; when you do not know in what consists the venom of the adder any more than you can imitate the glad movements of the dove. What dull, when earth, air and water are all alike mysteries to you, and when as you stretch out your hand you do not touch anything the properties of which you have mastered, while all the time nature is inviting you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her and to be blessed by her! Go away, man; learn something, understand something; do something, and let me hear no more of your dullness!"

I was reminded of that quotation the other day when, while waiting in an intelligence office to interview a prospective mail, I drifted into conversation with the woman beside me.

She was a fine looking woman, evidently about sixty if you judged her by her casual mention of married children, and numerous grandchildren, but not a day over fifty if you judged from her fresh cheerful appearance and her alert manner.

The thing that impressed me about her and reminded me of the quotation was what she said when I asked her if she had been waiting long.

"Why, it's about an hour," she said, "but it doesn't seem half so long. Most of my friends think that hunting up a mail is not too busy, I actually enjoy sitting in an intelligence office. It's so interesting to study the people who come in. Why, it's really as good as a matinee to me."

At ninety, if she lives—and I hope she does, for the world needs more like her—that woman will be happy, and still a good companion, both for herself and other people.

Sir Arthur says there are so many tantalizing, defiant mysteries, so many invitations to thought and speculation in nature, that no one has a right to be dull. Seems to me there are even more delightful mysteries, even more alluring invitations to thought and speculation in the world of men and women about one.

The reason that woman looked fifty instead of sixty was undoubtedly because she had accepted those invitations and had been too busy and too interested to grow old.

An intelligence office, a trolley car, a shop, a hotel lobby, a business office—all these can be as absorbing as a drama or as tedious as a dictionary. It just depends on you. Which will you have then?

Daily Hints for the Cook

BIRD'S NEST PUDDING.

Six or seven cored and pared apples; put in a buttered dish. Mix five teaspoons of flour, one teaspoon salt. Wet it to a smooth paste with cold milk, and add yolks of three eggs, well beaten, then whites of three eggs and more milk, using one pint in all. Pour over the apples and bake one hour. Serve at once.

SPANISH RICE.

Eight to ten slices of bacon fried until brown and crisp, one onion sliced and put in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by restoring the constitution and assuring nature in doing its work. Catarrh has much to do with it. For One Hundred Dollars will give you a full and complete list of testimonials. Address R. J. CHENEY CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CREAM PIE.

Heat pint milk, add half cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, yolks of two eggs, Cook but do not burn. Take from stove and flavor. Have crust baked and add above. Spread on top beaten whites sweetened. Brown in oven.

COCOANUT CAKES.

Two cups coconut, one cup confectioner's sugar, whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth, two tablespoons flour. Stir all together, make in little cakes and bake on buttered paper on greased pan in slow oven until a golden brown.

TO WARM OVER.

"Then this," asked the rejected suitor, "is absolutely final?" "Quite," was the calm reply. "I return your letters!" "Yes," please," answered the young man. "There's some very good material in them I can use again."

in same pan with bacon. Fry a golden brown. Add two cups cold boiled rice and one can of peas, and mix thoroughly with the onion and bacon, breaking the bacon into small pieces. Heat thoroughly and serve at once. One can use tomatoes if liked, instead of peas.

DATE PUDDING.

Soak half cup of rice over night. In the morning add three-quarters cup sugar, pinch salt, one pound of stoned dates, stirring often at first. Serve cold. Nice with whipped cream.

OBITUARY

William McAvity

William McAvity, for forty-five years associated with the firm of T. McAvity & Sons, and supervisor of the manufacturing branch of the business, died at his home, Sydney street, at about 8 o'clock last evening after a lingering illness.

Seven years ago while he, in company with Mrs. McAvity, was returning from New York, where they had gone to be present at one of the international yacht races for the America's cup, he was taken ill, suffering from a stroke of paralysis.

Since that time he was unable to be about except to move about his room and go for a drive occasionally. It was only during the last three months, however, that he was confined to his bed. Up to the last he was able to recognize those about his bedside and the end came peacefully.

Deceased was born April 29, 1846, and was married December 26th, 1868, to Annie Sawyer Collins, of Boston, who survives him. He was a son of Thomas McAvity, the founder of the McAvity firm, and leaves four brothers and four sisters. The brothers are Thomas, John A., George and Stephen S. McAvity, and the sisters are Mrs. W. O. Stewart, Montreal, and Mrs. E. N. S. Stewart, Mrs. F. V. Bland and Mrs. G. H. Flood, of this city.

In his kindly way he delighted to have his friends call and see him, throughout the years that he was prevented from going among them, and took much enjoyment talking over the old times with which he was very familiar. He bore his illness with great fortitude and patience and it was fitting that the end should have been peaceful. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon with service at the house at 2 1/2.

He was an enthusiastic yachtsman in years gone by and was one of the charter members of the St. John Yacht Club, now the Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club, and continued his membership up to the time of his death. Of a most genial disposition he was popular among the yachtsmen who will remember him as one of the jolliest in the cruises of early yachting times on the river.

His apprenticeship in some of the large est Boston machine shops served him well in his forty-five years' direction of the large manufacturing end of T. McAvity & Sons' business, as he was an expert machinist.

He took a keen interest in the working man, being a staunch friend of the laboring class and among them he numbered many friends and admirers.

ministry without portfolio up to February, 1903. He was a Liberal in politics.

Oscar Hanson

The death of Oscar Hanson occurred at his home, in LePaux, on Thursday in the 82d year of his age. He was at one time interested in shipping and shipbuilding in St. John. He is survived by four daughters and three sons.

Hon. Charles L. Snow

Hon. Charles L. Snow, a former mayor of Bangor, died suddenly yesterday afternoon.

SWEET INNOCENCE.

A pretty, rosy-cheeked country girl entered the large department store. It was bargain day, and the crowd was greater than usual. She had wandered about from floor to floor a little bewildered at the magnitude of the establishment—the largest she had ever seen. Seeing her, a shopwalker approached and said: "Is there anybody waiting on you?" "Yes, sir," said the girl, blushing to the roots of her flaxen hair. "He's outside; he won't come in."

Hon. Geo. F. Hill

St. Stephen, N. B., Oct. 21.—Hon. George F. Hill, ex-M. P., and at one time speaker of the local house, died at his home here this evening. Mr. Hill, who has been out of politics for some time, had led a quiet life during the last few years. He was in failing health for weeks, and his death was not unexpected. He is survived by three brothers—Arthur, Edgar and Henry E.

Deceased was the son of Hon. George S. Hill, of the state of Maine, who came to New Brunswick in his infancy and served in the New Brunswick assembly and legislative council for thirty-two years and in the government of New Brunswick. His mother was descended from English Puritans, and was born at Stephen Hill, in the town of New Brunswick, in 1854 and in the same year went into mercantile pursuits, retiring in 1882. He was official assignee for Charlotte county, 1869-1878, and a member of the legislature for twenty-five years, fifteen years in the legislature, and ten in the legislative council. He was elected to the assembly in 1885, defeated in 1890, and elected again in 1895, remaining in the legislature until appointed a member of the legislative council in 1892. He was president of the legislative council from 1887 until the dissolution of that branch in 1892. He was again returned to the legislature in 1895, and was re-elected at the general elections 1890 and 1903. He was speaker of the assembly, which office he resigned Aug. 31, 1900.
