ABOUT THE TARIFF.

Some fair idea has by this time been acquired of the new tariff, but the details will not be fully appreciated except by the light of experience. No one now supposes that the policy of protection has been abandoned. It can be proved both by the system of averages and by the actual enumeration of the changes that the revision is not more sweeping than that proposed by Mr. Foster in 1894. The changes in the iron and metal and wood schedule, which are the most important, are not so radical as those made years ago, which cost the late government the support of many manufacturers in the late election. Mr. Foster learned after he brought in his bill of 1894 that its effects on local industries would be more serious than had been supposed. Many of the propositions were modified in committee, and it is well for the industrial condition of the country to-day that they were.

Mr. Fielding's tariff is not yet law. It is only a bill. Ottawa is receiving visitors from all parts of the country asking for modifications. The government cannot refuse these men a hearing. It is probable that the requests for changes will not all be refused. Some of the government supporters have taken the responsibility of declaring that the tariff as introduced will stand. The Sun takes the responsibility of saying that the tariff as introduced will not stand. It will be modified on the request of the friends of the government. They are not saying much in public, but are beginning to make themselves heard in private. If the government had brought down an anti-protective tariff no one could complain because of the removal of protection on any one article. But since the finance minister has undertaken to let the tariff remain substantially as it is, any single industry which finds itself subject to unfair discrimination has a right to protest. The doctrine of equal rights will be presented with energy to ministers during the next few weeks.

THE TARIFF, THE POLICY AND THE PARTY.

The scene today at Ottawa is a repetition of the scene at the capital three years ago. The government is besieged by persons whom the new tariff will injure, and who seek to induce the ministers to alter the tariff bill. It is natural this should be the case. The bill does undoubtedly inflict great hardship on some interests, while many have their position more or less improved. Like Mr. Foster's bill of 1894, it is still a protective tariff in the main, but in some of its features protection is almost eliminated. Mr. Foster was obliged to make several changes in his bill of three years ago. He incurred some ridicule when he did so, but it is better to be laughed at than to destroy a useful industry. Subsequent history goes to show that the bill of 1894, after all the changes, went too far in removing duties from some classes of goods. There is nothing sacred about the present bill as it stands. Where it is proved to be unjust and injurious, the minister in charge ought to amend it in committee. Representatives of threatened industries are acting wisely when they go straight to the minister and to the members of their constituencies with their statement of the case. It is right to assume that the government does not desire to ruin any Canadian manufacturer or to crush out any particular industry. To the producers, therefore, we say: Do not stay at home and complain. Do not even be content with threatening to turn out the government. Give the government and yourself a chance.

Whether the policy of protection has or has not been adopted by the government it is still the policy of the liberal conservative party. If the other party has come round to the support of the national policy it will still be necessary for the national policy party to see that the principle is not weakened or by its new friends ruined.

If Mr. Laurier and his friends are, as Sir Richard Cartwright pretends, in opposition to the destruction of the national policy, there is so much more reason that the doctrine should be maintained by its old friends. Let this government do what it will, the course of the liberal conservative party is plain. It must not waver from the principles by which it has stood in the days of its greater prosperity, and which are sure to need its support in the future. We may condemn a party which has dealt treacherously and falsely. But we do not need will not condemn a policy which has always dealt honestly and generously with the Canadian people.

FOSTER AND CARTWRIGHT.

The Globe is not well pleased with Mr. Foster's speech. It says that instead of criticising the Fielding tariff Mr. Foster delivers a scrap book speech. This refers to Mr. Foster's proof that the ministers had individually and collectively broken their pledges solemnly made in their speeches, and that some of them had deliberately and repeatedly made public statements and declarations, on their responsibility as party leaders, which statements they knew to be false. It may appear to the Globe that this is a matter of no consequence. It may strike Mr. Ellis that a premier who secures power on a solemn pledge to do certain things and who proceeds to do exactly the things that he declared he would not do, should not be charged to his face with the crime he has committed, and should not be confronted with the proofs of his own dishonesty. But after all it is a public matter when public men show that they do not value their pledged word. After all a breach of public faith may be worthy of public attention, even when committed by a so-called liberal premier.

The Globe says that Mr. Foster's reply to the Fielding tariff is a charge that Sir Richard Cartwright appointed his son to office. This is not the case. Mr. Foster mentioned the appointment of Sir Richard's son in his criticism of Sir Richard's breach of public faith. When it is remembered that Sir Richard was in the habit of condemning Sir Leonard Tilley because of the appointment of a relative of Sir Leonard to office, it will be seen that it is quite in point to show how far Sir Richard had varied from the public faith. Mr. Foster's speech was rather severe, but not more so than the case deserved. To call it a violent speech would leave no adjective strong enough to apply to the language commonly used by Sir Richard in discussing previous budgets.

TARIFF BLEMISHES.

For eighteen years this journal has supported the national policy and the doctrine of protection to home industries. Whatever it may think of the morals of the ministers who break their contracts and retain the general features of the system, it does not now propose to condemn the policy when introduced by its opponents. Rather does it rejoice that even the enemy praises the system that it has fought so long and so unfairly.

The preferential features of the tariff so far as they favor the British Empire are sure of the support of this journal, which has long argued for such tariff preferences. But the preferential clause of this tariff does not meet the requirements. It prefers Great Britain to the United States, but not to other European countries. It does not prefer Australia, New Zealand, the British West Indies, Newfoundland or India. Foreign countries like Germany are not only placed on a level with Great Britain but worse than that, they may be given privileges which are denied to our fellow subjects in the British colonies.

Another serious defect is the failure of the government to secure any corresponding advantage for the concessions made. We are offering the best terms possible to countries who give us nothing in return. We are even offering them to countries which give other nations better terms than they give us.

Says the Hamilton Spectator: "In his famous Montreal speech Laurier told the piano makers present that he was going to give them free raw material, and he enumerated iron and coal oil as being two of the piano makers' raw materials from which the duty was to be removed. Well, he has reduced coal oil a cent a gallon, and if the piano maker can find any place to put it, he will be ahead that much. But when it comes to such real raw material as wire, the piano maker finds that the duty on his raw material has been increased. But then Mr. Laurier is a fine speaker."

Hon. Mr. Patterson in the course of his speech in the house yesterday, extended an invitation to aggrieved people to come to Ottawa and demand changes in the new tariff. The minister is cutting out much work for his colleagues. If the government will give due consideration to every well-founded complaint, many weeks must elapse ere parliament puts the bill through its final stage.

The death occurred at three o'clock on 28th ult. of Mrs. Sterling H. Barker, after a brief illness, wife of S. H. Barker, the well known proprietor of the Ben Lomond house.

The injuries received by C. B. Lockhart, M. P. P., have resulted more seriously than was at first anticipated. He is now confined to the house by a severe attack of pleurisy, which will delay his recovery for some weeks.

Messrs. Connolly's tug Eureka, bound from Picton for Philadelphia, with two crews in tow, put into Vineyard Haven on the 27th with one crew. She had gone there for coal, and was pumped out by the str. Susie D., and the Eureka then proceeded with her tow.

The Canada Railway News Company have been awarded the contract for supplying newspapers and other news of the whole of the Intercolonial system. This arrangement will be satisfactory to the newspapers of this city, as all dealings with the Canada Railway News Co. have been very satisfactory.

Capt. Edgett writes the Sun from Hillsboro that the tug New City was not ashore in Bennett's Creek, as reported in Saturday's paper. The New City, he says, takes in her fresh water at Bennett's Creek, remaining over a tide. The tug was there for coal, and she had gone there for coal, and was pumped out by the str. Susie D., and the Eureka then proceeded with her tow.

The Harvey creamery, situated four miles from Harvey Station, was burned to the ground on Saturday morning, says the Fredericton Herald. Now that the winter port business is over for this season, it may not be out of place to state that the representatives of the several steamship companies which have conducted the business between St. John and the United Kingdom have expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the manner in which the Ship Laborers' Union performed their work. The laborers, they report, worked well, and the union stuck strictly to the agreement made at the opening of the season.

During a recent archeological exploration in the upper Nile, a pot of current jelly was discovered in a stone closet about thirty feet below the surface. The jelly was in a good state of preservation, and the hieroglyphs on the lid of the jar indicated that it was 3,000 years old.

Mrs. Abigail Boopscock of Goodsburg, Ky., asks for a legal separation from her husband, Gamaliel Boopscock, on the ground that he humiliated her by ornamenting with red ribbon a mince pie she had baked, and used it as a weight to keep the front gate closed.

BOSTON LETTER.

The Times Improve Very Slowly Over the Line.

No Special Feature in the Lumber Market—Business Not Very Active.

Canned Lobsters are Scarce—Trade in Other Fish Lines Dull.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Boston, April 24.—Spring in this state is pretty well advanced. The leaves on the trees are appearing, and the weather is generally fine and warm, although there are occasional showers every few days. The baseball cranks and bicyclists are at the height of their glory. Both sports seem to have as many patrons as ever.

Times are improving slowly, although business in many places is still far from prosperous. The cotton mills are still running on short time, but the agreement which was made to curtail production early in the year expires April 30. It may possibly be renewed, as the market is still in an unsatisfactory condition. The discovery of a shortage of over $2,500,000 in the accounts of the Columbia and Bennett cotton corporations of New Bedford and the placing of their affairs in the hands of receivers, has injured business there greatly. Three other corporations are also in financial difficulties. Fall River also felt the effects of the crash, several banks there holding hundreds of thousands of dollars of the paper of the corporation. The books of the Bennett and Columbia mills were badly kept, and gross frauds were perpetrated upon the stockholders. President Hadley, who was also treasurer of both corporations, died yesterday, after eight years' illness, and his death was hastened by the revelations.

The big new union station, which will be used by the New York, New Haven and Hartford road, the New York and New England, the Old Colony and Boston and Albany railroads, is being constructed here, and is giving employment to hundreds of people. The station will cost over $2,000,000, and will be one of the largest depots in the world. It will exceed in size the Northern Union station, which is used by the Boston and Maine system, and the Newburg road.

Hon. Dr. Borden, Mr. Laurier's minister of militia, who has been recuperating here, will be in Ottawa before very long, he having recovered from the effects of the Dorchester wreck. He says his visit to Uncle Sam's domain has done him great good, and he expects to show up in the house in his old time. During his stay in Scotland, and long before polling day, he predicted an over-whelming liberal victory. Since he came to this country he visited Philadelphia, New York and other points.

From the first of December last to April 10 the sheep were shipped from Portland 5,400 Canadian cattle, 1,530 Canadian sheep and 2,203 horses. It is estimated that 20,000 head of live stock, American and Canadian, will be the limit of the season's shipments there, thus easily breaking all records.

A number of local sporting men have secured tickets for the Lavigne-Connolly match at New York, next Friday night. It is predicted "Biddle" will give the "Kid" the hardest battle of his life.

Mrs. Kate Osgood of this city, and others, are working in conjunction with Halifax people to obtain part of the alleged Crowell fortune in England. It is said the mayor of Bristol is coming to Halifax about June 1st to investigate the claims of the supposed heirs on this side.

Daniel McDonald, formerly of Canada, N. S., fell off a wheel at Gloucester recently and was drowned.

The Canada Atlantic and Plant line has suspended communication from here to Halifax from the 20th to the 27th. The steamer Halifax, which has been undergoing repairs, will then go out on the line.

An effort is being made to have the affairs of the Lubec, Me., savings bank wound up, it being claimed that the bank is not in the best possible condition.

E. G. Evans of the Central railway, W. B. Ross of Halifax, and C. B. Dunham of Casco, were in the city this week.

Mrs. Wm. H. Cary, formerly of Halifax, died in Dorchester this week, aged 26 years.

There is no special feature in the local lumber trade at present. Business has not been as good as expected, and the general demand is only fair. Prices as a rule, however, hold firm, and all dealers expect a better business next month. Spruce boards are in very good demand, and considerable eastern lumber is arriving. Spruce boards also are firm with prices inclining upward. Heavy orders have been sent to the shingle mills on the Miramichi, on the Restigouche and other places in New Brunswick in order to have stock here before the tariff bill becomes a law. The retroactive clause of the bill, which would put the new duties into operation from April 1, is practically a dead letter, and will be promptly killed by that sometimes dignified and august body, the senate of the United States. Quotations here are as follows:

to 20; laths, 16-8-in., $2 to 2.10; 11-2-in., $1.50 to 2; 4-ft. extra clapboards, $3.75; second clear, $2.50; shingles, $1.25 to 1.50.

Hemlock, etc.—Eastern planed and butted hemlock boards, $11; random, $9.50 to 10; rough boards, $9.50; extra standard cedar shingles, $2.50 to 2.60; clear, $2.10 to 2.25; second clear, $1.65; extra No. 1, $1.25.

Pine—Eastern pine, stock, coarse No. 2, $16 to 17; refuse, $13; extra, $9 to 9.50; rough edge stock, box boards, etc., $3.50 to 9.50; extra clapboards, $4.50; clear, $4.00; second clear, $3.50; matched boards, $16 to 22.

The dry and herring are scarce, and unchanged prices, and the boxed fish continue in about the same position, a steady demand prevailing. Sardines are firmer, and somewhat higher prices are asked. Canned lobsters are very firm, and are very scarce. Live lobsters are also scarce and very firm. Codfish are easier, and old mackerel are dull. The fresh fish trade is very flat at present. New eastern salmon sell for 50 cents per pound. Quotations at first hands are as follows:

Fresh fish—Market cod, $2 to 2.50 per 100 lbs.; large cod, $2.50 to 3; steak cod, $3 to 3.50; haddock, $3 to 3.25; large hake, $1.50 to 2; medium, $1 to 1.50; pollock, $1.50 to 2; steak, $2.50 to 3; fresh mackerel, 20c per lb.; white halibut, 15c; gray, 12c; chicken, 14c; New eastern salmon, 50c; frozen, 10c; fresh Oregon, 13 to 20c; shad, 28 to 30c; bucks, 15c; live lobsters, 12c; boiled do., 14c.

Salt fish—Extra No. 1 mackerel, $21 to 24 per bbl.; No. 1, $15 to 19; small more, No. 2, $9; small No. 2, $11; large No. 2, $10; shore and Georges cod, $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; large dry bank, $4.37 to 4.50; medium, $3.50 to 3.75; large pickled bank, $3.75 to 4.25; medium, $3.25; pollock, $3 to 3.25; hake, $2.25 to 2.75; haddock, $2.25; medium box herring, new, 12 to 15c; old, 10 to 12c.

News in and Around Benton—Easter Services.

Benton, April 20.—A public Easter service was held on Sunday evening in the Methodist church, under the auspices of the "Sarah Hart" Mission Band. The Baptist Missionary society held their annual service Monday evening, which also proved a decided success. The floral displays in both churches were tasteful and appropriate, and the special music highly appreciated. Both services were largely attended and the offerings generous.

A few days ago a house in Springfield, owned by Ansel Franklin, and occupied by George Anderson, caught fire and burned to the ground. Most of the furniture was saved.

A. H. Sawyer, who is retiring from business here, has during the past two weeks been selling out his stock of dry goods and groceries. The Sawyer mill, which has changed into other hands, will not saw any lumber this summer. James Murchie & Sons having purchased the amount of logs on hand, will saw them at the lower end of the mill. In consequence of moving their families from here, Murchie's mill, which has been idle during the winter, with the exception of some shingle sawing, has again opened up and is working at full blast.

ST. ANDREWS.

St. Andrews, April 26.—The funeral of the late Dr. S. T. Gove was held here yesterday under the auspices of St. Mark's lodge, No. 5, F. & A. M. Grand Master Julius T. Whitlock, with eighteen of the brethren from St. Stephen were present. They with the brethren of St. Mark formed the most imposing Masonic funeral procession seen in the shrine town for years. The Masons, with the regularity of a military band, followed the last token of respect to the memory of the deceased, filled All Saints' Church to its utmost capacity. At the conclusion of the church service the Masonic service was read by the worshipful grand master. Immediately after the return from the cemetery the St. Stephen Masons returned to their home by the Argus. In consequence of the prohibition by a gripe of the Rev. A. Mahon, pastor of Greenock church, service was conducted yesterday by Rev. Mr. Holly of Milltown, N. B.

Rev. Arthur Lockhart of the eastern Maine conference, at present in session at Calais, Me., occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church here yesterday. The friends have a kindly remembrance of Mr. Lockhart since the time he was a student under and assistant to the Rev. C. Pitblado while minister of this circuit.

Judge McLeod Thursday morning delivered a verbal judgment dismissing, with costs, the application to rescind the order extending the time for hearing the election petition against Col. Domville. Mr. P. Judge McLeod was very decided in his opinion that Mr. McKeown, acting as Mr. Domville's counsel, had power to consent to the extension, and he declared the extension of time was properly made and should not be rescinded. A written judgment will be given next week, and it is understood, an appeal will be taken. The result of the decision is that the petition against Col. Domville will go to trial at the date set in August.

Physician's Prescription for Cure of Weakness in Men.

When a man has suffered for many years with a weakness that blights his life and robs him of all that really makes life worth living; when after years of doctoring with all sorts of patent medicines and alleged specialties, he discovers a remedy that brings back to him the power and physical energy that seemed to him lost forever, he naturally feels generous. He wants his fellow-men to know about it. He feels that his mission on earth is to lift out of bondage men who are today battling with a shattered nervous system, just as he did; men, who by their own secret follies, suffering a mental torture that words cannot adequately describe.

The world has come to look at such sufferers in a different light from former days. It now regards them as unfortunate, not criminal. They have lacked moral courage. They may be victims of inherited passion, or they may have acquired secret habits from evil associates. But whatever may have been the incentive that caused a man to degrade his being, and isolate himself from society, he needs a friend. He needs the right hand of fellowship and good cheer. It is wrong to denounce him for his folly, and it is equally useless to give him advice. He must have the hungry man's bread, not the stone. offered him. This is why I send the prescription which I have made among men, free to anyone who writes for it. I know the suffering that a man has to go through, therefore, send the prescription securely sealed in a plain envelope, without marks to show where to send it. Thousands of men have written me, to say how glad they were to get this prescription, and every mail brings encouraging reports of successful cases of physical debility cured, and emaciated parts restored to natural strength.

Now, my friend, do not sit and wonder how I can afford to give away this valuable recipe, but write for it today. It is free to all, and I want every man to have it. Address, in the fullest confidence, THOMAS SLATER, Box 182, Kalamazoo, Mich.

WEDDING BELLS.

At 7.30 o'clock on the 27th ult. St. Paul's (Valley) church was the scene of a happy event, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Lillian Climo, second daughter of J. S. Climo, the Princess street photographer, to Otto C. Reinecke, of the Canadian Drug Co. A large number of the contracting parties' many friends gathered to witness the ceremony. The only invited guests were the relatives of the bride and groom, who were unattended. Rev. A. G. H. Dicker tied the nuptial knot, after which the newly married couple left on the L. S. S. Co.'s steamer Cumberland for a two weeks' trip to Boston and New York. Upon returning to this city Mr. and Mrs. Reinecke will take up their residence on St. Paul street. The high esteem in which the contracting couple is held was testified to by the large number of wedding gifts they received. The travellers and staff of the Canadian Drug Co. presented Mr. Reinecke with a handsome marble clock, while the office clerks gave him a beautiful chair.

The marriage took place at Woodbury, New Jersey, on Monday last, of John J. McCaffrey, the popular and well known clerk of the Hotel DuRoi, to Miss Mary Leonard Smith, youngest daughter of the late Robert F. Smith of this city. The happy friends of the young couple will join the Sun in extending congratulations.

(From the Daily of April 28th.)

Yesterday afternoon Rev. Fletcher Kirk, formerly of St. John, but now of Montana, was wedded to Miss Clara Williams, until recently a teacher in the Indian school. Rev. Mr. Penne performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by many of the friends of the bride and groom. The bride was attired in a travelling dress and hat of blue, and carried a pretty bunch of white roses. After the wedding a reception was held and later the young couple left on the C. P. R. express for their future home in Montana. The bride received from her friends many pretty presents, among which were a number of silver spoons from the Women's Missionary society of the Portland Methodist church, of which she had been secretary for some time. Her friends in the school also sent beautiful remembrances.

In the Cathedral at five o'clock yesterday afternoon the marriage of Miss Mamie Morrison, daughter of William Morrison of Brussels street, and Wm. Kiley, who is now a journeyman plumber, was performed by Rev. Francis McMurray. The bride, becomingly attired in a gown of navy blue and white, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of roses, was attended by Miss Celia McDonald, who was similarly dressed. Mr. D. Sweeney supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's father. The presents are numerous and beautiful.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of James R. Ferguson, of Grand street, his daughter, Miss Helen Louise Ferguson, being united in marriage to Frank Skinner, of Messrs. Skinner, LeBlanc & Co. Only the relatives of the family were present, and there were no invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner left for Montreal, and will make a tour of the principal Canadian cities. They received many handsome presents.

A very pretty wedding took place at six o'clock yesterday morning in St. James' church, when Rev. A. D. Dendiney presided. The bride, Miss Margaret Jessie Vall, daughter of Mrs. Robert Vall, to John A. Davidson. The bride wore a very pretty navy blue travelling suit. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left on the train for a honeymoon trip to Boston. Among the many presents received by the bride was a handsome onyx lamp and stand from the choir of St. James' church, of which she was a prominent member.

An elderly friend of the family was calling at the Clamagor trial of one of the daughters. He asked, "Well, Miss Fannie, what have you done for the good of the church during the past year?" "I've done more than all the rest of the girls put together," "Why, what have you done?" "Haven't you heard? Why, I've promised to marry the new rector after Easter."—New York World.

Speaking of Mr. McCarthy, that gentleman made his first appearance in the house for this session when the budget came down. He has disappeared, but is said to be satisfied with the favored nation clauses of the treaty.
