That this season's cut is to be reduced by fifty per cent. Their declarations are not causing any very great excitement, for they made the very same statement last year, and the year before, and reductions have been comparatively small. Moreover the men are going to the woods just as early as usual, and the crews are practically as large as they are in ordinary years. Again it is a fact that conditions are far more favorable this season than

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 25.—In the colice court this morning Police Mag-strate Masson sentenced Patrick Mcdo away with the slow system of truck-Hugh and Allen Stapley, two Grand Trunk car inspectors, employed in the local yards, to two years in the peni-tentiary on charges of entering and stealing grain and tobacco from sealed cars several days ago. The sentence came as a big surprise to the crowded court room, mostly of railroad men. The men are both married, with family The men are both married, with families, and are old employes of the road.
