The competitors are Clarence N. Goodspeed Penniac; Lorne A. Gibson, Marshfield, P. E. I.; Havelock Cheese and Butter Co.: C. F. Alward Edward Wheaton. Petitoodiac; W. W. Eveleigh, Sussex; Harry Hughes, Petitcodiac; S. L. Peters, and E. J. Peters. Queenstown;

Clifton N. Wilson, St. Andrews. Ripered cream will be supplied by the department and the churns are now in place. The competitors will line up for the start at half-past two and at the word will get to work. There will be some swift churning then as every one of the starters is an expert with a provincial reputation. When the butter is made it will be judged. The time taken in bringing the butter and the manner of churning will be taken into account as well as the quality of the butter, its texture and color.

The competition will be continued to day and Friday. A great deal of interest is taken in it as different sec tions of the province are backing their favorite butter makers.

HE DOES HIS WORK.

The superintendent of the agricultural department, S. L. Peters, is one of the familiar figures about the exhibition. For years he has been one of the very best workers in connection with the big show, and his interest in it is shown by the amount of time and labor he gave towards making his department a success. In his section of the exhibition one is always struck with the neatness of the display and taste shown in its arrangement. Mr. Peters, too, contributes largely of the products of his fields and has always been a good prize winner. This year he shows vegetables, fruit and butter and has a small exhibit in the stockyard. At Queenstown he has an authority. He works on the sound principle that it is better for the buy er and seller if the fruit is found to get better the farther down you go in bottom of the barrel. The fruit trade and the country need more men like S. L. Peters.

A TALK WITH MR. HODSON. If F. W. Hodson, dominion con sioner of live stock, could infuse into horse and cattle classes. In the after-noon the judges continued the work. his own enthusiasm and belief in the In addition to the outdoor show there future of stock growing, there would be a mighty change around here.

"There is no part of Canada," he large crowd lined the outside of the said to a Sun man yesterday morning, "where stock growing can be more successfully carried on than in these provinces, and there is no place where Newton A. Plenty of people said that it would not succeed, but now after over seventeer years of life the association has a membership of 2,000, and an annual income of $20,000. The outcome of such associations as these was the foundation of the maritime winter fair, and the interest in live stock is growing here. The next step is the introduction of auction sales. These have done much to arouse enthusiasm in the northwest territories and in Ontario.

"The people of Canada ought to remember that four-fifths of all the products of its fields goes as food to the cattle, and it is of interest to everybody, farmer, merchant, clergyman and all, that the price received from the stock should be a good one. "For sheep growing these provinces offer a special field. In both cattle and sheep raising there is less labor than in dairying, and the question of labor is getting to be an important one. The pasturage here is splendid, the hay fields are the equal of any, and the root crop is very uniform; and further, these provinces are the nearest to the markets of the world than any other. "So far as, pork raising is concerned, what is most needed is a packing establishment that should be situated in St. John. The co-operative system has not been found to work successfully. What is needed is to have some people come in and join with the local ment. Just at present two of the large Ontario concerns are looking for a place to locate. St. John will be considered. Pork packing is exceedingly profitable, and raising pork is growing to be one of the chief factors in the income of the farmer. For instance, in 1891 Ontario exported $600,000 worth on $12.-600,000 worth of high class stuff at big trade. The United States feature the fat back pig, but that does not command so large a price. There is a big field here for the maritime provinces."

The Attendance Thursday was spoi ed by the disagreeable weather, rath encing to fall about two o'clock and continuing during the afternoon. Had it not been for this the attendance would undoubtedly be a record breaker, but as it was the management can not complain. Correct returns will be found in another column.

A LITTLE TOO EARLY: Wednesday evening Prof. D. H. Knowlton, secretary of the Maine Pomological Society, concluded the judging of the fruit exhibit. In conversation with a reporter he said yesterday.

"It is too early to get an exhibit of good fruit and besides that this season is about three weeks later. Altogether the fruit growers labor under very great disadvantage this year in ndeavoring to put on a good exhibit. Despite these difficulties there is a very good display of well grown fruit. One or two exhibits are especially worthy of notice.

"George McAlpine's dislay is the best shown here this year and on the whole is better than the Nova Scotia exhibit I am very much gratified at this as i clearly shows that New Brunswick is capable of producing fruit that is equal to any raised in Nova Scotia. fruit in this exhibit is well grown and selected "A . R. Gorham has the second bes show in the county and general exhibits. His fruit too, is well grown and of good quality.

"A considerable improvement has been made of late in regard to the handling of fruit. Still there is room for considerable improvement. Specimens should have unbroken stems, be free from spot and worm, in their J. S. Sanborn, Lewiston Junction, Me., natural color, so as to show the bloom of the fruit, and of uniform size and "The counties are not well represented in the county exhibits. It is a very desirable thing that these classe should be filled. They show the resources and possibilities of the county esides adding a local interest to the exhibition.

"S. L. Peters makes a model superintendent. He has the exhibition well in hand, admirably arranged and cared

"The specimens of preserved fruit seemed especially good. I do not know whether it is due to the formula used in the preparation or to the care used in putting up the fruit. It probably is both." Prof. Knowlton left yesterday after-
