DOCTOR'S LUCK .- A wealthy lady had a tickling in her throat, and thought that a bristle of her tooth brush had gone down and lodged in her gullet. Her throat daily grew worse. It was badly inflamed, and she seut for family doctor. He examined it she sent for family doctor. He examined it carefully, and finally assured her that nothing was the matter—it was a mere nervous delusion he said. Still her throat troubled her and she became so much alarmed that she was sure she would die. A friend suggested that she should call in Dr. Jones, a young man just commencing practice. She did not at first like the idea, but finally consented, and Dr. Jones was called. He was a perso of good address and polite manners. He looked carefully at her throat, asked her several questions as to the sensation at the seat of the malady, and finally announced that he thought he could relieve her. On his second visit he brought with him a very that he thought he could relieve her. On his second visit he brought with him a very delicate pair of forceps, into the teeth of of which he had secretly inserted a bristle taken from an ordinary tooth-brush. The rest can be imagined. The lady threw back her head; the forceps were introduced into her mouth; a prick—a loud screm! and 'twas all over; and the young physician with a smiling face, was holding up to the light, and inspecting with lively curiosity, the extracted bristle. The patient was in raptures. She immediately recovered her health and spirits, and went about everywhere sounding the praises of "her saviour" as she-persisted in calling the dexterous operator. So enthusiastic was her gratitude, she offered him her hand in marriage and her noble fortune. The fact that the young doctor was already married was an insuperable obstacle to this arrangement. But the lady's influence and her constant laudations.

Carding 24d; Fulling & Dressing 6 doctor was already married was an insupera-ble obstacle to this arrangement. But the lady's influence and her constant laudations of the physician, procured for him a lucrative practice. Thus by a harmless little deception, a very worthy physician suddenly became one of the most popular men of his profession in the city of Philedelphia.

PETER McDougall .- A Scottish drover from the north of the Tweed, gained a high reputation throughout the eastern countie for selling at high prices the beasts intrusted to him as a salesman. At Norwich and Earl Soham, at Bury and Ipswich, the story was the same—Peter Mc Dougall invariably cates of good moral character. got more per head for a lot than even his warmest admirers had calculated he would obtain. He managed his business so well that his brethern, unable to compete with him, came to a conclusion not altogether supported by the facts of the case, but flattering to their own self-love. Clearly Peter could only surpass them by such a long distance. through the agency of some charm or with's Cloth, to exchange for Wool. He will as secret. They hinted as much; and Peter on former occasions, give Cloth at Factory wisely accepted the suggestion, with a half-prices, and pay the highest factory price for assenting nod of cunning, and encouraged Wool in Cloth or Cash. his mates to believe in it. One day several of his brother drovers invited Peter to sup with them. He accepted the invitation, for he liked a good supper and plenty of hot grog at a friends expense. Indeed, of such D R. MORTON will be in Carleton Place, on Thursday, the 27th of this month, fare, like Sheridan with wine, he was ready where he may be consulted for one day only. to take any quantity. The supper was of hot steak pudding, made savory with pepper and onions Peter McDougall ate plentifully entertainers closed round him, and tried to worm out his secret-that was what they wanted all along. Laying down his pipe by his empty glass, and emitting from his gray eyes a light of strange humor, he said, dryly, "Ye'd knoo hoo it was I cam to mak sad good a sale o' my beastics? Weel, I ken it was joost this-I FUND A FULE!"

PRETTY GOOD .- A young fellow in Bos ham, and inquired the cost. "One dollar and a half," said the livery man. "That is cheap enough—I will go." When the young fellow returned, he was charged three dollars—one and a half for going to Dedham, and the same for coming back. It was the stabler's joke. The young man was angry; but he paid the bill. A few weeks afterwards he went to the same stable and inquired the damage for a horse and buggy to go to Salem. "Three dollars" answered the stable keeper. "Thats' too dear." "Very well we will call it two-fifty, then." started the young fellow to Salem. He came which will be found second to none as back next day in the train, and offered to Quality and Price. pay for the use of the vehicle.

BEES AT WAR.—An Ohio farmer who quite New and fresh from New York. keeps seventy swarms of Bees says that one day last summer, the whole of them commence ed a grand fight. They filled his house so that the family had to flee for safety, and they also filled the air, covering full an acre of ground. The fight lasted full three hours during which time no living thing could exist in the vicinity. They stung a large flock of Shanghae chickens, nearly all of which died, and persons passing along the road-side were oblidged to retreat to avoid their sting. A little after 6 o'clock, in the afternoon, quiet was restored, and the living bee returned to their hives, leaving the slain almost literally covering the ground. Two young swarms were entirely destroyed, and aside from the terrible slaughter of bees no other injury was done. Neither party was ctorious, and they only ceased on the approach of night, and from utter prostration.

An inmate of a mad-house being asked what brought him there, replied "a mere quibble of words sir. I said every body was mad, and every body said I was and the majority carried it.'
