A GREAT RACE-HORSE. rican Trotter Becomes an En From the London Field.

Mr. Allan Cassels, who was cou Mr. Allan Cassels, who was counsel for Mrs. Burchan in her case against Patrick Boylan, said in court on Saturday morning that comments had been made that Mr. Osler had examined the plaintiff with severity. He ng read in the Field of May 29 a pleasing article on Arabs as hunters, I nave thought you might like to hear something anent the jumping powers of English and American-bred horses. I bought a gray with on a visit to the United States. He was very much knocked about, having run away with a buggy and kicked it to pieces. He looked all over a highly bred horse; he was 4 years old, and had been trained for trotting matches; but I did not give much money for him. I took him to one of the provinces and turned him out in a good grass field. 'I was away on a salmon-fishing tour some weeks, and when I returned I hardly knew my gray. He was one of the handsomest horses I ever saw-153, a game head and neck, splendid shoulders, and strong, clean legs, with great power be hind. great advantage over other material lies in the fact that it does not absorb moisture in the same sense as vegetable fibres do. Wool or woollen fabries remain just as bulky when wet as when dry, or rather, the difference in bulk is but slight compared with vege-table fibres when wet. This principle makes wool extremely valuable as an article of underclothing, as it will hold the perspiration from the body in the fibres wholen. We have be as sold-him. The Anti-Tobacconist Society will groan and be sore troubled in soul at the recert con-cession to the hated weed that has been made by the Field-Marshal Commanding-in-Chief of the British army. Instead of being absolutely forbidden to smoke in the streets, Tommy Atkins is now allowed to enjoy his pipe like other mortals in the public thoroughfares after o'clock in winter and after 6 o'clock in the summer. To the general public who hear of this restriction for the first time the order will make no difference; but to the private soldier the relaxation of the regulation will be regarded as a great boon, which far more than compensates him for the recent abrogation of his old privilege of wearing his hat in a court of justice.
