

As I stand here today and gaze into the faces of those who leave Princeton for the university of the world, and as I recall the other great free institutions of learning and enlightenment on this continent, I know in my heart that there will be no betrayal of that great trust.

I thank you for the honour which, in my person, you have shown to my country, <sup>Mr. Chamberlain's letter to my husband</sup> and I bring to you and your fellow citizens greetings of brotherhood and gratitude from your neighbours. We are grateful for your friendship, and will always do our best to deserve it.

and may I be permitted to thank you as well for the honour you have done <sup>in the presence of both from his own land</sup> ~~me~~ <sup>on one side,</sup> by honouring our country by his royal presence.
The name of the great majestic prince Juliana of the Netherlands will always be a proud remembrance here for all time to come in the chapter of Canadian history what <sup>would</sup> ~~will~~ ~~record the~~ would be significant events of the present era, Canadian must be present indeed that today it has become a part of American history as well.
