

work. Here we need to be governed by a large and enlightened wisdom. We are suffering from the oppressions of corporations. Manufacturers combine against us, and owing to circumstances by which we are surrounded, we perhaps do not understand at present just the best and most business-like method of remedying the evil. We need then to carefully study and mature our plans before we begin to act. We talk over among ourselves what we desire to do, and compare opinions as to the best methods of arriving at results. Having perfected our plans, we should be more than careful that we carry out in good faith and in a business-like way all agreements and contracts.
