A Word to the Younger Men

In one of his famous Essays, John Stuart Mill, the great Economist, made the following statement:

"We all desire to be well off, but few possess the effective desire of accumulation."

That is the point—to have both the wish and the WILL, to save money.

A Life Insurance Policy is the surest stimulus to save, and The Great-West Life Policies provide all the advantages of profitable investment, and safe protection on most favorable terms.

NEW SEED GRAIN LOAN SYSTEM

The system of supplying seed grain for needy settlers and of collecting therefor has this year been overhauled and a new system has been put into effect. At the instance of the minister of the interior a conference was held with the western provincial governments in the city of Regina, and as a result arrangements have been completed for the division of responsibilities as between the Dominion and provincial authorities.

The Canadian Bankers' Association has agreed to co-operate, and arrangements have been completed with the banks whereby loans can be made to needy settlers on unpatented Dominion lands. The rate of interest on these advances will not be more than seven per cent.

Application to be to Municipality

A settler needing assistance must apply to the secretary-treasurer of the municipality in which he resides, or if the district be unorganized, to the provincial officer of the department of municipal affairs.

The application having been verified by both the municipal and Dominion authorities, the bank makes the necessary loan, taking the usual seed grain security and a lien upon the unpatented entry. Payments are due on January 1.

The settler can make his own arrangement in regard to the purchase of seed, although if there is none available locally the Department of Agriculture is arranging for shipments to be sold to the farmers at cost.

The government guarantees the bank to the extent of principal and five per cent. interest only. Should the bank not collect the obligation, that is all it receives. On collections actually made by the banks the Government pays a commission of one per cent.

Saskatchewan Government Statement

In connection with the inauguration of the new seed grain loan system, the department of agriculture has issued a statement setting forth the considerations which have led to the new policy. The statement says in its closing paragraphs:

"Representatives of this department report that even in parts of south-west Saskatchewan ten or twelve years of age, there are many farms where the fallow is not plowed till on in July or even August, that it frequently is never harrowed till even later, while others make not even this pretense at summer-fallowing, having none at all. One might about as safely enter a western winter without fuel or shelter as a south-western summer without summer-fallow.

"Those who persist in taking such chances in the future must do it at their own risk and expense and not be encouraged to longer gamble with government seed in the hope of another 1915. West and south-west Saskatchewan should be, one year with another, if properly farmed, one of the finest and safest wheat growing areas of the west.

Proven Field Methods

"To one, however, who refuses to adopt the proven field methods of our successful farmers in this area, the scrap heap is his inevitable fate. To those who have again suffered loss of crop from drought this year, the above frank presentation of the situation may seem harsh and cruel, but it is undoubtedly in the interests of us all that it should be said, and the problem faced.

"In the case of many others who have also lost their crops this season from such largely non-preventable causes as frost and hail, it is gratifying to know that either a comfortable bank account or the diversified character of their farm operations have left them in such a position of independence as to be able to finance themselves at this time. The more we all aim and attain this enviable condition the sooner government seed grain on credit will become a thing of the past."

Take a turn around to the looking-glass once in a while. Do not be afraid or ashamed to look yourself in the face. If you find that you look fretted or out of fix, do something about it, and do it right off. It will make you a better man or woman.

Fine words butter no parsnips, but they certainly sweeten life.
