TURKISH BLACK SALVE.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE HONORABLE THE EAST INDIA COMPANY.

THIS SALVE, prepared from the original Receipt, procured from a celebrated Turkish Hasim, (physician) of Smyrna, in Asia Minor, and which has obtained an unprecedented celebrity in Great Britain and the East Indies, from the astonishing Cures performed by it in both these countries, has lately been introduced into Montreal. As might be expected, its popularity has increased, and its use is becoming general among all classes. The contracted limits of an advertisement necessarily precludes entering into any adequate detail of its merits, but, for the information of the public, it is intended to publish, from time to time, such statements of cures as have or may occur. It has been used for the following complaints with the most complete success:—Such as Scrofula Glands, Broken Breasts, White Swellings, Whitlows, Scalds from Steamboat explosions, or other causes, Burns, Fever Sores, Scrofulous Sores, Sore Nipples, Carbuncles, Scald Head, Gun-shot Wounds, Bruises, Boils, Fistulas, Wens, Chilblains, Ulcerated and Common Sore Throats, and Bunions. If used in time, it will prevent or cure Cancers, also, Swellings arising from a blow on the Breast. Ring Worm, Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, Pains in the Chest, Palpitation of the Heart, Complaints in the Liver, Spine, Heart and Hip, Rushing of Blood to the Head, Swelled Face and Toothache. In fact it is impossible to enumerate half the complaints that have been cured by the application of this Salve.
Sold in Montreal by S. J. LYMAN & Co. Place d'Armes; SAVAGE & Co., Notre Dame Street; URQUHART & Co., Great St. James Street; W. LYMAN & Co. St. Paul Street, and in all the principal Cities in Canada.

FREDERICK R. STARR, Esq.,
General Agent for the B. N. A. Colonies.

THIS INSTITUTION offers to the Assured very many advantages, at quite as low a rate of Premium as guarantees safety to the Office.
Policies will hereafter be issued—the Assured entitled, whether at the payment of his first Premium, or at any future period, to borrow, upon interest, to the extent of one-half of the Annual Payments made, without any responsibility or guarantee, personal or otherwise, nor will the Policy (the only security) be required to be lodged with the Society, as each Loan will be endorsed thereon.
Under this new system, the value of each Policy will at all times be known, and the great objection to Life Assurance entirely removed, as the Assured can at any time present his Policy, and demand of the Society an immediate payment of one-half of the Annual Premiums paid thereon, thus giving to each Policy a known actual cash value.
Existing Policies will continue upon the former system, or may be converted into one of the new form.
As the Policies received from London are signed in Montreal, under special Power of Attorney from three of the Court of Directors in London, to the Local Board in this City, there is no Stamp Duty.
Applicants are not charged for the Medical examination.
The Assured has the right of paying his Premium within Thirty Days after it falls due, thereby preventing the forfeiture of his Policy, which would otherwise frequently occur.
The Society will, on satisfactory proof of the health of the party, receive the Premium within a year after its falling due.
By the establishment of the General Agency here, Risks are Accepted, Loans Granted, and Losses Paid by the Montreal Local Board, without referring to London.

THIS COMPANY, which has been established 30 years, commenced with a subscribed Capital of $3,000,000, and was the first, 20 years ago, to offer to the Public two Scales of Premium—the lower, to insure only a fixed amount; the higher, entitling the Insurers to a participation in the profits.

Advantages offered to Insurers.
Very low Rates of Premiums on Young Lives.
The security of a large realised and invested Capital.
Large Bonuses on Policies effected on the high Scale.
Prompt settlement of Losses.
The full value given for Policies when discontinued.
On Insurances for the Whole of Life: one-half of the Premiums, if desired, permitted to remain unpaid for the first seven years, as a Loan at interest, and then to be paid, or to remain as a permanent Loan, at the option of the Insurer.
Loans upon Policies for the Whole of Life, after payment of three Premiums, in proportion to the value of same.
The acceptance of Naval, Military, Climate, and Special Risks of all kinds, on payment of a commensurate Premium. Age admitted on the Policy when issued, if desired, on proof of date of birth.
Permission for the Lives assured to reside in any part of Europe, without extra premium or special license, and to, at and from California, at a small extra premium.
Insurances, if required immediately, may be effected any day between the hours of 10 and 4.
The Pamphlets published by this Company fully set forth the merits of Life Insurance; and copies thereof may be had, gratis, on application to the Agent, who is also prepared to furnish every information that intending Insurers may require.

LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY,
No. 1, Princess Street, Bank, London.

CAPITAL—ONE MILLION STERLING.

Empowered by Special Act of Parliament, 4 Vict., Chap. 9.

REDUCED RATES OF PREMIUM—HALF CREDIT RATES OF PREMIUM.

THE great and decided success which has attended this Institution, has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North America, to the ordinary European Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important benefits to Life Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company transacting business in Canada.
The Directors have also resolved to extend to British North America the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES of PREMIUM which have been so highly approved, and are so generally adopted by Policy Holders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to the Assured in the limits to which they may proceed by sea or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their Interest in their respective Policies.

"Round him rush the people crying, 'Tell us all, oh, tell us true! Where are they who went to battle, Randolph, Murray, sworn to you? Where are they, our brothers, children? Have they met the English foe? Why art thou alone, unfollowed? Is it weal, or is it woe?' Like a corpse the grisly warrior looks from out his helm of steel; But no word he speaks in answer, only with his armed heel Chides his weary steed, and onward up the city streets they ride; Fathers, sisters, mothers, children, shrieking, praying by his side. 'By the God that made thee, Randolph! tell us what mischance hath come;' Then he lifts his riven banner, and the asker's voice is dumb."

I.
'Tis good to sing of chivalries old
The honor and renown;
To tell how truth and loyalty
Have stived an earthly crown,
But theirs is best, if on the day
When higher shouts are given—
When man's device and man's decree
Usurp the word of Heaven—
We dare forget the noblest names
Of those who vanquished death,
To keep unstained from sire to sons,
Our freedom and our faith!

II.
We bend the knee and bow the head
Upon the Christmas morn,
In token that, for sinful men,
The Saviour, Christ, was born.
Nor less, unto the faithful heart,
That time must hallowed be,
On which our Lord and Master died
In anguish on the tree;
And Easter brings its holy hymn,
Its triumph o'er the grave,
When He, the dead, arose in might,
Omnipotent to save.

III.
We worship as our fathers did,
In this our English home,
Not asking grace from mortal man,
Nor craving leave from Rome.
Once more the warning note is heard,
The hour of strife is near—
What seeks he with his mitred pomp,
That sunk Italian, here?
What sought they in the former days,
When last that mission came?
The will, the craft, the creed of Rome
Remain for aye the same!

IV.
Woe, woe to those who dared to dream
That England might be free;
That Papal power and Papal rule
Were banished o'er the sea;
That he who sate in Peter's chair,
Had lost the will to harm,
Was powerless as a withered crone,
Who works by spell and charm!
Woe, woe to those who dared deny
The Round him rush the people crying, 'Tell us all, oh, Pontiff's sway!
His red right arm is bared in wrath,
To smite, and burn, and slay!

V.
Light up, light up the ready fires!
Sound trumpet, fife and drum!
Give welcome meet to him who brings
The sovereign hosts of Rome.
No humble barefoot messenger—
No sandalled monk is he;
A stately Priest—a Cardinal—
Proclaims the Pope's decree.
And see! upon her Royal knees
The Queen of England falls,
In homage to a mightier Prince,
Within her father's halls!

VI.
'Tis done. Fair England! bow thy head,
And mourn the degeneracy
Will gladly let thee in?
The stain is still upon thy brow,
The guilt is on thy hand;
For thou hast dared to worship God,
Against the Pope's command.
And thou hast scoffed at saint and shrine,
Denied the Queen of Heaven,
And opened up with impious hands
The Holy Book unshriven.

VII.
For this, and for thy stubborn will
In daring to be free,
A fearful penance must be done
Ere guilt shall pass from thee.
The prophets of the new-born faith,
The leaders of the blind—
Arise, and take them in the midst—
Leave not a man behind!
In London's streets and Oxford's courts
A solemn fast proclaim,
And let the sins of England's Church
Be purged away by flame.

VIII.
In order long, the monkish throng
Wind through the Oxford street,
With up-drawn cowls, and folded hands,
And slow and noiseless feet.
Before their train the Crucifix
Is borne in state on high,
And banners with the arms wave,
And crosiers glitter by!
With spangled image, star-beeowned,
And gilded pyx they come,
To lay once more on English necks
The hateful yoke of Rome.

IX.
Then spake out aged Latimer!—
"I larry by the stake,
Not trusting to my own weak heart,
But for the Saviour's sake.
Why speak of life or death to me,
Where days are but a span?
Our crown is yonder, everywhere
Be strong, be bold, play the man.
God helping, such a torch this day
We'll light on English land,
That Rome and all her Cardinals
Shall have of that the broad'st!"

X.
"Aye, for the Church reclaims her own;
To her all power is given—
The faggot and the sword on earth—
The keys of hell and heaven.
To sweep the heretics away,
'Tis thus the Church commends—
What means that wailing in the crowd?
Why wring they so their hands?
Why do the idle women shriek—
The men why frown they so?
Left up the host, and let them kneel,
As onwards still we go."

XI.
The host was raised—they knelt not yet—
Nor English knee was bowed,
Till Latimer and Ridley came,
Each in his penance-shroud.
Then bent the throng on either side,
Then knelt both sire and dame
And thousand voices, choked with sobs,
Invoked the martyr's name.
No chanted hymn could drown the cry,
No tramp, nor clash of steel—
O England! in that piteous hour,
Was this thy sole appeal?

XII.
What more? That cry arose on high;
'Twas heard, where all is calm,
By Him who, for the martyr's pang,
Vouchsafes the martyr's palm;
By Him who needs no human arm
To work his righteous will—
"The Lord is in his holy place,
Let all the earth be still."
They said he—they who gave the doom,
In that most awful name—
And if they spoke in blasphemy,
So shall they die in shame!

XIII.
To death—to death! The stake is near,
The faggots piled around;
The men-at-arms have made their ring,
The spearmen take their ground;
The torches, reeking in the sun,
Send up their heavy fume;
And by the pile the torturer
Is waiting for the doom.
With earnest eye and steadfast step,
Approach the martyrs twain—
"Our cross?" they said—then kissed the stake,
And bowed them to the chain.

XIV.
Short be the pang!—Not yet, not yet!
The Tempter lingers near—
Some parts not with her victims so;
A Priest is at their ear;
"Life—life and pardon!—say the word,
Why still so stubborn be?
Do homage to our Lord the Pope—
One word, and you are free!
O brothers! yield ye even now—
Speak but a single name—
Salvation lies not in the flame;
Why die in raging flame?"

XV.
Then spake out aged Latimer!—
"I larry by the stake,
Not trusting to my own weak heart,
But for the Saviour's sake.
Why speak of life or death to me,
Where days are but a span?
Our crown is yonder, everywhere
Be strong, be bold, play the man.
Be strong, be bold, play the man,
God helping, such a torch this day
We'll light on English land,
That Rome and all her Cardinals
Shall have of that the broad'st!"

XVI.
They died. O ask not how they died!
May never witness tell,
That once again on English ground
Such martyrs fell.
The Crown, and for the Christian head
Even in his deadliest rage,
Who knows when to unsheath or sheathe
The Sword of Heaven in wage,
Have human fire from day of flame,
Who claimed the Christian name,
When flame the Ministers of Christ,
Were writhing in the flame!

XVII.
Burial of Rome! and dust that claims
Who shed the martyr's tear!
The bridal smile upon thy lips,
The flush upon thy brow—
The cup of sorcery in thy hand,
Still in the same array,
As when our fathers, in their wrath,
Dashed it and thee away!
Not by the sabre of the sainted,
Who died beneath thy hand,
Thou shalt not dare an abider as thine
One foot of English land!

XVIII.
The echo of thy creed shall make
The light still higher burn—
A blaze shall rise from Cranmer's grave,
And martyred Ridley's urn!
A blaze which they who own thy power,
Shall stand aghast to see—
A blaze that in your infamy
Shall show both them and thee!
Yes! send thy Cardinals again—
Once more array thy powers—
Their watchword is, The Pope of Rome—
The Word of God, be ours!

A Visit to the Studio of Schwanthaler.

A correspondent of one of the London journals, gives a long account of a recent visit to the studio of Ludwig Schwanthaler, one of the most eminent of the German Sculptors, which is not without interest. He lives in Munich. The writer to whom we allude, after describing the retired and quiet street in which the Artist lives, continues:

"The little court-yard of Schwanthaler's studio is especially quiet, and the gravel is thickly sprinkled with small woods. The folding doors of the studio open,—and as we step into the long gallery, before us rise, relieving themselves against a dull red wall, the colossal figures of the Hermann-Schlacht—or 'Battle of Arminius'—the frieze for the northern pediment of the Valhalla at Ratisbon. Hermann, in his winged helmet, grasps his terrific sword, pausing for a moment in his slaughter; his strong feet press the reeds and mosses of the morass, like the feet of a destroying angel,—his matted locks are blown back from his relentless brows, and he gazes down upon the fallen and struggling foes around him. On one hand are the Roman combatants,—on the other, a bard, a female seer, with loosened hair wreathed with oak-leaves and face raised with a wild visionary look about it, and Hermann's old dying father, Hermann's wife, an Amazonian woman, bending over him. We stand in the very heart of the old German world,—are transported to those mighty forest, inhabited by a Titanic race, and by fabulous dragons. We are among beings of an elder world, large of limb, and of perfect proportion. They have had space and time to develope themselves in those primeval forests. They are not savages; it is not mere physical strength and beauty that they possess. They are endowed with a strange intellectual beauty and power that make the gazer breathless. With the grandeur and simplicity and power of the antique, the Sculptor has united a fresh element—the wild mysterious poetry belonging only to the mythology of the North.—His gods are not Jupiters and Apollos—but Thors and Odins. There are a mystery and a grand undeveloped intellectuality about them, which kindle the soul as does the rude, jagged peak of an alp, or the sound of thunder,—or like the sight of the sea, or of a vast plain.

"This wonderful group of the Hermann-Schlacht stretches along one side of the gallery. At one end stand casts from three figures in the Bohemian Valhalla; one of which—Wenzel—is peculiarly beautiful,—and from the almost feminine character of the countenance turned towards heaven in an inspiration of intense love, and from the rich mediæval costume in which the figure is clothed, might readily be mistaken for Joan of Arc. The entrance to the gallery is guarded by two stern old fellows, Huss and Ziska,—also from the Bohemian Valhalla.

"It would be too long a business to attempt to particularise one-tenth of the statues which enrich this wonderful studio. The gallery of which I have spoken, a corresponding gallery on the opposite side of the court-yard, and a lesser one, connecting the two, and where lowers the astounding head of the awful 'Bavaria,'
