A word to the wise.—Being among the long list of public benefactors, we wish to call the attention of the College people to the fact that, as dark nights usually set in during anniversary week, it would be a good idea to have the approaches to the College marked by lights of some sort. Last year considerable in convenience, and some personal injury, was experienced owing to the darkness and consequent difficulty in keeping on the roads to and from the College.

Having recently imported a "Perfect-tone of the roads to and from the College." They are benefited letters.
