

CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER.

SACKVILLE, N. B., SEPT. 11, 1884.

CUMBERLAND POLITICS AND JOGGINS RAILWAY.

The Halifax Herald disavows our assumption that it is opposed to the construction of the Joggins Railway and pledges itself (if we understand its utterances) that the promoters of that important work will receive more liberal treatment from a Conservative than it will from the present Liberal administration of Nova Scotia. This is well as far as it goes and we shall now expect to see the Herald back up its words by securing and giving publication to the pledges of the local Conservatives, who are endeavoring to get the Joggins Railway specifically committed themselves to promote the work. When this is done, the Joggins Railway people, having presumably secured the pledges of both parties can safely let politics rest. As long as Mr. Tolson, M. P., continued in the Local House, the promoters could rely upon him as a proved friend of the enterprise, one whose influence with his party could be depended on, and his removal renders the people of the district doubly anxious that the influence of Cumberland in the Local Assembly should not be so destroyed as to delay the work. The pledge of the Conservative party to aid the project will do much to remove this fear.

The Herald says "it did not expect that a journal holding the relation to the Liberal-Conservative party that the Post has professed to hold" should advocate Mr. Phipps' election by acclamation.

The Herald in indulging in this reflection has forgotten the fundamental doctrine of the Liberal-Conservative party—a principle that lies at the basis of all good government, viz: "With the party and by the party for the country." The country first is not the end, but the means, the instrument through which not only free responsible government is worked out but far-reaching administrative and legislative achievements attained. The Liberal-Conservative party of Canada has never hesitated when the goal could be more readily reached to throw down party boundaries and "cross lots." The organization of the party in the beginning was a patriotic attempt to secure a public end, by the complete obliteration of existing party lines, from which arose the coalesced Liberal-Conservative party. When the party was in opposition (1873-9) Sir John did not allow his party feeling to prevent his going across the floor more than once to aid his opponent, Mr. Mackenzie, to carry and perfect public measures that he deemed of pressing public necessity, though he thereby rendered Mr. Mackenzie's position vastly more impregnable. When the inner history of the great Liberal-Conservative leader's public services is written in the future, it will be found, that acting strictly within the magnanimous spirit of the party motto, he has stepped in to save the reputation of the great opposition when the loss of it would entail discredit on the country. It is this high-minded and patriotic sentiment of always placing country before party that has conferred on him a public confidence for a period of time unexampled in Canadian history—and probably in that of any other country.

Our proposition to let Mr. Phipps go unopposed was based on the supposition that the Local Government was reformed with Mr. Fielding as Premier and Mr. Phipps as Attorney-General was pledged in advance to subsidize the work, but now the Local Government cannot and will not aid the Joggins Railway and challenges the Chronicle and the Premier, Hon. Mr. Fielding, to deny it. The challenge of the Herald has not been accepted by the Chronicle; on the contrary the Chronicle is profoundly silent and does not appear to know anything about it. It is about time for the Chronicle to wake up, and show what the Local Government proposes to do about it. The worst inferences will be drawn from the Chronicle's continued silence.

The immensity of railroad interests in the United States is strikingly shown by the statement that for several years past they have been "expanding upon railways one million dollars for every working day in the year." In 1883 there were built 6,091 miles of railway, and it was not much of a year for railway-building either, the average for some years previously being in the vicinity of 10,000. "Up to the close of the same year the number of miles of railway in operation footed up to 121,591, enough to encircle the world five times. The aggregate of share capital and liabilities for funded and floating debts of all this railway road was $7,436,471,311, the actual cost in money being, however, very little more than half this amount. The gross earnings amounted to over $825,000,000 and the net earnings to about $337,000,000, or 9 per cent. on the capital really invested. To realize this there had to be carried 400,000,000 tons of goods, and 312,000,000 passengers, the New York elevated railways being left out of the account. Pennsylvania contributed more than a quarter of the goods-traffic, sending by rail for greater or less distances 2 1/2 tons for every man, woman, and child within her borders. In the passenger traffic, however, Massachusetts took the lead with 53,000,000 of passengers, Pennsylvania coming next with 50,000,000.

Asiatic cholera is spreading in Italy with great rapidity; 800 fresh cases occurred on 9th at Naples alone.

EVILS OF TEMPERANCE.

The Federal Council of Switzerland is evidently composed of humorists of a high order, though it is probable that their humor would not suit commend itself to ardent supporters of the Scott Act. Some time ago the various cantons of the Republic sent up petitions asking for legislation against the liquor traffic. Figures were given showing that not only was more alcohol consumed in Switzerland than in any other country in Europe, but that moreover its consumption was rapidly increasing, bringing in its train a proportionate increase in mental disease, misery, and want. In reply to these petitions the sapient fathers of the Council have just sent to the Assembly a lengthy report embodying an alleged official enquiry into the merits and demerits of the traffic complained of. The conclusions arrived at may be gathered from the following sentences: "The practice of social drinking of spirituous liquors brings a cheerful temper into society, effaces the traces of daily labor, opens the heart to other impressions, and is intimately associated with the development of public life. The public house fosters intellectual activity, and is a remedy against misanthropy, egotism, and narrowness of ideas, and extravagance of imagination." Extraordinary, however, though these utterances may seem, they are fully rivalled by some of the deliverances of the Anti-Scott-Act Advocates, published in Seaford, Ont. According to this valuable organ "enforced total abstinence makes men lazy, vicious, sensual, and, as a consequence, fosters every species of secret immorality." It also "destroys the peace and quietness of neighbors." It promotes "forgeries, seductions, divorces, stealing, embezzlement, child-murder, extravagance, pride, lust, impurity, cant, and hypocrisy." As moreover it "is contrary to the teaching of the Bible, it will have a tendency to make young people infidels and unbelievers, and thereby injure their immortal souls." This is just too delicious for anything, the man who can put intemperance away beside the Bible as an evangelist agency and can brand the temperance-lecturer as a propagator of infidelity has in him a fervor of imagination that one who is not all unworthy to have within his borders. He should migrate to the "gorgeous East" and there let his unbridled genius have full scope in composing an appendix to the Arabian Nights.

TEMPERANCE AND POLITICS.

(Summer Junketers.)

(Hon. A. W. McLellan has been visiting the North-West.)

—Sir Leonard Tilley left St. John for Ottawa on Tuesday night.

—Mr. Grant Duff has been appointed British ambassador to Berlin.

—Valentine Baker will leave London shortly for Egypt, where he will be unofficially attached to Gen. Wolesey's staff.

—The members of the British Association have Lieutenant Greely a complimentary lunch at Windsor hotel, Montreal.

—Hon. Charles James Folger, Secretary of the Treasury, died suddenly last Thursday at his home in Geneva, N. Y., aged sixty-six.

—Thomas Hughes, the founder of the colony at Rugby, Tenn., has arrived there from England. He will institute a college in the colony.

—The report that Duncan McIntyre has purchased the Toronto Globe stock held by Nelson of Edinburgh is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

TEMPERANCE AND POLITICS.

(Summer Junketers.)

(Hon. A. W. McLellan has been visiting the North-West.)

—Sir Leonard Tilley left St. John for Ottawa on Tuesday night.

—Mr. Grant Duff has been appointed British ambassador to Berlin.

—Valentine Baker will leave London shortly for Egypt, where he will be unofficially attached to Gen. Wolesey's staff.

—The members of the British Association have Lieutenant Greely a complimentary lunch at Windsor hotel, Montreal.

—Hon. Charles James Folger, Secretary of the Treasury, died suddenly last Thursday at his home in Geneva, N. Y., aged sixty-six.

—Thomas Hughes, the founder of the colony at Rugby, Tenn., has arrived there from England. He will institute a college in the colony.

—The report that Duncan McIntyre has purchased the Toronto Globe stock held by Nelson of Edinburgh is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.

—The report that the Duke of Devonshire has been elected to the office of Lord President of the Council is untrue.