> Picture In Disguise. Many and strange have been the vicissitudes of some of the world's greatest pictures, and a fine painting which now graces Lord Leigh's residence in Warwickshire has an interesting history. This remarkable picture, which for some years consisted of a painting of flowers, was pronounced by an art dealer to be merely a mask for some other picture, and on his receiving permission he gradually cleaned off the flowers, discovering underneath a very fine portrait of Charles I., by Vandyke It is supposed that the portrait was thus disguised in order to save it from destruction by the Roundheads at the time of the commonwealth.

Where We Are Unclean. We are most particular about cleanliness in our houses-many servants must keep them swept and garnish for us-and about cleanliness in our food, eating only of first class materials, daintily prepared. But with all this delicacy of habit the most greasy savage is seraph clean compared to us in the matter of air. He breathes pure air rich in oxygen. We get together in vast herds, defile the air with all manner of disagreeable and revolting matter, including disease germs, and then contentedly breathe it.-Charlotte Perkins Gilman in Good Housekeep-

Doctors and Celibacy. There was once a time when doctors were doomed to celibacy. It was at the conclusion of the mediaeval period. when medicine was in the hands of the monks. In France the habit of celibacy persisted long after the practice of nedicine had passed into lay hands. For two or three centuries the doctors protested, but in vain. The matter was finally laid before the pope and toward the end of the fifteenth century the vow was abolished. Two Points of View. "I think," said an exasperated old deacon as he slowly elevated himself from the pavement to a perpendicular, "the full grown man who throws an orange peel on the sidewalk is no Christian." "Well," said a bystander, "what do you think of an orange peel that throws a full grown man on the sidewalk?" Justified. "I wish they'd invent a new expression occasionally," said Top as he perused the account of a recent wedding. "It's always 'the blushing' bride." "Well," replied Mrs. Top, "when you consider what sort of husbands most girls have to marry you can't wonder at their blushing." After the Consultation. "Well, Drs. Brown and Smith are going to operate upon old Gotrox." "Is the operation necessary?" "Why, yes; Brown has a note coming due, and Smith wants an automobile."

The Leek. "Say, waiter, this plate must be cracked; the table is wet." "No, sir; there's a leek in the soup."

COUGH AND LUNG

"PSYCHINE" differs radically from the old fogey medicines. It is compounded on new and advanced methods of curing disease, otherwise it would be just like scores of others, ROUBLE without any exceptional merits. But "Psychine" possesses virtues of healing, that no other preparation in the world does. There never has been in the history of medicine, such a truly remarkable remedy, for the prompt and complete cure of obstinate coughs and lung trouble. There is nothing else just like it, or nothing else one half so good. Thousands of men and women readily and enthusiastically give testimony to prove the statement.

PSYCHINE BUILT ME UP

Linden, N. S., June 7th, 1904. "I cannot speak too highly for your excellent-I may say invaluable-remedy for weakness of throat, lungs or declining conditions. My brother, mother, and sister died of consumption, and I suppose I inherited a tendency in this direction, but, thank God, through the use of PSYCHINE I to-day enjoy good health. I suffered for some two years from a distressing, obstinate cough and weak lungs. I used PSYCHINE and OXOMULSION, and they built me right up. My lungs are now strong and I enjoy splendid health. Yours truly,

"ELLA M. COVE."

The high-pressure cylinder is | piston type for all cylinders, and measure five, seven, and nine thirty-seconds of a inch in diameter. The shaft, the cranks, and crank-pins are all turned from one piece of steel, which in itself is a rather neat piece of work. The eccentrics are split, and are exactminiature duplicates of those used on engines actually in service. The smallness of the studs and nuts used to hold down cylinder covers is almost incredible. The nuts used in the construction of the model are for the most part a fraction less than 1-16 of a inch in diameter; and each is perfectly hexagonal in shape. The studs are a little less than 1-32 of a inch in diameter, and are threaded at both ends, one end screwing into the machine, and the other receiving the nuts. The crossheads are made of steel, and are fitted with brass ( shoes that can be taken up whenever wear occures. The steam pipe is 1.8 of a inch in diameter, and the exhaust is 3-19 of an inch in diameter. The maker may well claim for this model that it is the smallest triple-expansion engine in the world. To appreciate its diminutive perfection at its true worth, it must be seen in actual operation.
