EMGLISH NOBLEMEN ARRESTED IN LONDON CLUB

its at the Paris Expedition.

Trains, May 11.—A study of the universal appetitos, for the purpose of comparing the content of the purpose of the first of the purpose of the first of the purpose of the first truth is that the American constructive sense is superior to the European and the case of the first truth is that the American decorative sense is inferior to the European. The American has surpassed the European in mechanism, but the sense of beauty is still dull in the national breast. American artisanship, speaking broadly, when brought face to face with European artisanship is more intelligent in the application of means to ends and in directions of the purpose of labor. That is mess of method and economy of labor, but is mease of method and economy of labor, but is meased and almost illiterate in taste.

We have in our zones the raw material and descentials, with few exceptions, of nearly the eastire classification generally accepted as decorative manufactures in this exposition. Our pregress in their employment is shown to be, except in a few great departments, primitive and paltry. In fine artisanship, generally excepted, every total tastety of magnitude with a spring on the passing month is must us to share.

Her porcelains, furniture, metallic products, tapestries, carpets, paper hangings, velvets, silks, shawle and surecades constitute an impressive portion of her entire exhibit, to catalog which requires a large volume. While justify boasting of our rank as mechanics, othernists and electricians, we still pay transportation to England for our native furs, skins, leather and cotton, and are content to pay afterward a second transportation and the manufacturers' price as well as the custems' tax for the products into which our own raw masterials have been turned. Add to this the system of the coloral proximate estimate may be made of the colorsal penalty we pay with incomprehensible stupidity for failing to develop a sense of form, color and composition in our own youth. in our own youth.

London Clubs Raided.

LONDON, May 12.—The police made a raid on the Field Club at 2 o'clock this morning and found gambling roing on. Most of the players were engaged at baccarat and large sums were being staked. Twenty persons were arrested, among were the Earl of Dudley, Lord Lurgan whom were the Earl of Dudley, Lord Lurgan, Lord Paulet, Baron Ferrar and several French and Belgian noblemen. The prisoners were laken to the police station and bailed in £100 each. They are to appear in court to-morrow.

The police serzed £5000 in the rooms of the club. A raid was also made on the Adelphi Club, where a number of barristers and solicitors were gambling. All were taken to the police station and bail was in most cases refused.

It is hard for the clergy to please to heavy be please everybedy nowadays. A Boston woman complains that her pastor never looks at her when he preaches, but devotes all this attention to the sinners on the officer of the church. For this reason to the end of the church. For this reason to during April, as she says that his sermons do not have the moral effect on her which they ought is women were kill to have. On the other hand, a Chicago woman recently complained that her pastor invariably looked at her when he was preaching, especially when he denounced humbugs and hypocrites, and she wanted to know if it wasn't an outrage to treat respectable pew-holders in rage to treat respectable pew-holders in this way. When the Clergyman finally heard of her grievance he laughingly explained that he wasn't looking at the woman at all when she thought. It is reported that Si woman at all when she thought he was, but at a certain pillar behind her, the sight of which, for some mysterious reason, always seemed to clarify his thought.
