GOWER ST. CHURCH.—Rev. Dr. Rogers preached again very acceptably at Gower Street Church last night to a very large congregation. Mrs. Wakefield sang Pennyroyal's "Crossing the Bar" with great feeling at the conclusion.

Sneak Thieves.

Last week a policeman from the town. On board of every craft went down; He boarded every "berry boat" With a circular on which they wrote— Sneak thieves.

His cheeks were pale, his waist was slim. The wage he gets it troubles him; It falls to make him smart or strong; But still this was part of his song— Sneak thieves.

He warned each skipper, stout and bold. To watch and guard their hard-earned gold. To keep an envious eye each day. For, said he, perhaps they'll drop your way— Sneak thieves.

The sturdy men from Notre Dame, They smiled and said we know the game; He told the Western men, so stout. The warning rang from mouth to mouth— Sneak thieves.

Next day a sailor cut a shine. On board the craft A. B. Morine. The crew they grabbed him unaware. The policeman's words rang in their ears— Sneak thieves.

They split his coat tails fore and aft. They fired him from on board the craft. His face they painted black and red. Now in his sleep he shouts 'tis said— Sneak thieves.

Solway Returns.

The s.s. Solway returned from Labrador at 1:30 this morning. Capt. Parsons left here on the 6th October and went north to Davis' Inlet, having had beautiful weather the whole trip north. Returning the weather was summer like, except during one day. The ship brought up a load of whale oil from Hawke's Harbor which is being discharged at Shea & Co's wharf. The Solway called at Harbor Grace, Carbonara and Brigus and landed the crews of Jerrett, McKrae and Hisecock. A very enjoyable concert was had on the way south Saturday evening while crossing Bonavista Bay, under the leadership of Mr. Jerrett. The programme, which included many of the old favorite songs, was successfully carried out. The passengers voted the trip as one of the most pleasant they ever made and all highly appreciated the many kind acts done by Mr. Grills, the chief steward, and his assistants to render the trip enjoyable.

Church Lads' Brigade.

Yesterday at 9.30 the C. L. B. mustered in full force and paraded to Divine Service at St. Michael's Church, where the Chaplain, Rev. J. Brinton, officiated and also preached a very eloquent sermon on the Holy Communion. The battalion, which was headed by its fine band under Capt. Snow, presented a very pleasing appearance and hundreds of citizens reviewed the companies as they paraded through the streets. The commanding officers were Lt.-Col. Rendell and Capt. Adjt. Goodridge, and the line of march was across LeMarchant Road to Church, down Casey Street to Water Street, up McBride's Hill, down Duckworth Street to King's Road and by way of Military Road back to the Armoury.

Understated the Area.

We find that we understated the total area of land which it was proposed that Councillor Martin should give up under the Casey Street Widening scheme. He was to give up two parcels of land 200 square feet for the new street, and 195 square feet to be transferred to Mr. Cooney. He was to give up therefore 395 square feet altogether, and of course his house property. In return he was to get 195 square feet from Cooney and a monetary consideration.

FANCY FAIR.—Rev. Fr. Curran's people will have a Fancy Fair and Concert at Pouch Cove on the 23rd and 24th of November. The first day will be given exclusively to the Fair, and on the second evening there will be a dramatic entertainment and concert. Messrs. L. C. Murphy and J. O'Grady will give the one-act play—"Those Who Wait," after which there will be a concert.

MIRNARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAIN-BUFF.

Sidewalk Sketches.

By H. L. RANN.

THE GAS METER.

The gas meter is a neat household utensil which descends in a straight line from the main gas pipes and the Forty Thieves. Careful research has demonstrated that the inventor of this device was a charter member of a church which was so crooked that it had to employ a one-armed elder to pass the collection box. The only man who can lay a gas meter on its back and take its pulse without offering up a fervent prayer for forgiveness is a sin-hardened employe of a soulless corporation whose favorite hymn is "A Charge to Keep I Have." A meter which is hiltier broke and sharp shod can spring a leak in a bulging bank account faster than father can dam it with profanity and wheat margins. We don't know of anything that will corrupt the morals of a law-abiding citizen quicker than a gas meter which takes the bits in its teeth and runs faster than a sheared shepherd dog who sits down with careless grace on a male bumble bee. A meter which has been wound up by an embittered plumber with a chatte mortgage on his bedroom furniture can gouge more coin out of a hopeful breadwinner than he can earn by trying to back up the cash register. The man who takes the word of a gas meter which has been installed without the presence of a notary public is credulous enough to believe that Josiah held the patent rights of an emergency brake on the solar system. After a sportive husband has gone up against the returns from a meter which trips itself faster than a stout girl on roller skates, he will look out of loaded dice in the eye with calm and trustful mien. The only way to beat this device is to join the board of directors.

Banker Huron Here.

The banker Huron, Capt. W. Martin, Jr., arrived here from New Bedford yesterday. She fished at Whit Bears on the Labrador for five weeks where she secured the good fare of 600 qts., and has to date over 1,800 qts. for 9 dories. She found fish very plentiful while down the coast, but the weather during the latter part of the stay was cold and stormy. Capt. Martin is sick and his son took charge of the vessel while on the trip. The crew will make good wages. The vessel is at Bowring's wharf, has her Labrador catch on board and 600 qts. belonging to Mr. Blundon. She will lay up here until next summer.

Wedding Bells.

FAOUR-DANIEL.
A pretty wedding took place at the Deanery, St. Patrick's, last night when Mr. Simon Faour, who keeps a store on Water Street West, was united in the sacred bonds of matrimony to Miss Amelia Daniel. Both are natives of Syria. Mr. Faour being very popular in St. John's where he has resided for several years past. Rev. J. McDermott officiated, and the bride was attired in a handsome costume of silk was assisted by Mrs. C. Sapp, while the groom was attended by Kalem Noah, Esq. When the nuptial knot had been tied, the newly wedded pair and a number of friends drove to their future residence, Water Street, where a sumptuous wedding supper was served, a very pleasant time spent and the health of the bride and groom heartily honored. Both received many valuable presents. The Telegram wishes Mr. and Mrs. Faour many happy years in the matrimonial state.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 22.
News has leaked out of a sensational incident which occurred off Portsmouth when the battleship Hindustan, on which the Prince of Wales is serving, was struck by a shot from H.M.S. Colossus while engaged in target practice. The Hindustan was stationed near the target to note the effect of the firing, when a shell from the Colossus plunged aboard. Being plugged, it was harmless after falling, but narrowly missed a seaman. The Prince was below at the time.

Who Wants to Be a Prince.

Soft Jobs Offered by Willy Advertisers.
The bogus advertiser—the man who fleeces the public by specious advertisements, offering hundreds a year for little work and no qualifications—has long been with us. Periodically his tricks are exposed in the Law Courts, but he usually reappears in some new guise and with a more ingenious scheme for gulping the public and emptying their pockets. One of his latest dodges is to advertise in Continental papers offering a princely title—of course, to a man of means. The following advertisement, for instance, has appeared at intervals in German papers for the last two or three years:

"Princely family is desirous of adopting a young man, not more than thirty-eight years of age; of whom the title of Prince will be conferred. Replies to be addressed, but only by very wealthy applicants, personally to the office of this paper."

Princess Looking for a Husband.
Evidently the game of catching the wealthy parvenu with this bait is a very profitable business. Judging by the fact that the advertisements also frequently appears in American Journals. Sometimes there is a variation, and the advertisement runs as follows:

"Princess, young, beautiful, fond of gay life, is driven to look for a husband by this means owing to the solitude of her life in the country. Only very rich candidates need apply."

The average man, of course, merely smiles at such an advertisement; but those who understand the eagerness with which a certain class of wealthy people avail themselves of every opportunity of securing a title know that such advertisements never fail to bring in replies.

Another Trick.

Frequently one sees offered made by ladies and gentlemen of position to introduce young men and women into the best society. The majority of these offers are doubtless quite genuine, but a case came to light about six months ago which shows the danger of such lures.

In a certain paper an advertisement appeared offering to take in, as paying guest at a nice country house, a young man of means who wished to get into good society. A young Frenchman replied to the advertisement, and although the terms seemed exorbitant he willingly paid them, as the advertiser seemed in such a good social position. After a while, however, the latter began to borrow money and win large sums from his proteges at cards, and at the end of six months, decamped, having fleeced the young fellow of between four and five thousand pounds.

Schooner Towed In.
Yesterday morning the schooner Jessie M. Capt. Kirby, of Burin, was towed into port from Griquet by the tug Ingraham and dropped in the stream of Bennett's wharf. It will be remembered that the schooner was caught in the big storm of a couple of weeks ago while coming from the Labrador fishing grounds, had both the foremast and mainmast carried away below the cross trees and received a deal of other damage. The sails and rigging were cut away and under improvised sails she was worked up to Griquet. The Jessie M. has on board about 500 qts. of codfish which will likely be put on board another schooner and sent to Burin while she is undergoing repairs here.
