

Fishermen! Here's the Boot for You-"EXCEL"!

"EXCEL"
Made 'All in One Piece'

"EXCEL" The Fishermen's Friend

All fishermen know from experience what happens to ordinary boots when used in fishing. You've seen how salt water seems to take the life out of rubber and how the uppers crack and the soles wear through in a surprisingly short time.

The "EXCEL" is a different and better kind of boot. It has been made especially to stand up under the unusually hard use a fisherman's boot gets.

The rubber and fabric in "EXCEL" boots are of the very highest quality. But it is the special method of curing, under tremendous pressure, that makes the "EXCEL" so wear-resisting. The pressure forces the layers of rubber and fabric together so that they are actually "one-piece", without losing the least bit of the life or resiliency of the rubber. Salt water has practically no effect on "EXCEL" boots. The UPPERS remain pliable and weatherproof, and resist the drying-out action of sun, heat and extreme cold far longer than other boots. Consequently they don't crack anywhere near so quickly. The SOLES are almost wear-proof, because they are made like an Auto Tire, with 8 plies of rubber and fabric welded by tremendous pressure into a "tire-tread" sole that rivals an automobile tire for toughness and durability.

strain. There is not a single feature but what has been proved necessary and desirable by tests of several years. Your own experience will tell you that a boot with these features simply must be a better boot.

Study this picture. Learn these features. Remember them when you compare "EXCEL" boots with ordinary boots. And remember, too, that very important point which the picture cannot show, namely, that "EXCEL" boots are cured under tremendous pressure, which leaves the rubber pliable, weatherproof and wear-resisting. It is only by the use of this tremendous pressure combined with highest quality materials that the best results are obtained.

Pliable Uppers. Weatherproof and Wear Resisting. Tough Tire Tread Soles. Made "All in One Piece."

"EXCEL" Boots are sold by all reliable dealers from Coast to Coast.

Father of Shipping.

ROMANTIC STORIES OF LLOYD'S.

From a London coffee-house keeper, Lloyd's, the headquarters of the world's shipping insurance, derives its name.

Towards the end of the seventeenth century those interested in shipping matters were accustomed to meet at a small coffee-house in Tower Street. This was kept by a man named Edward Lloyd, who subsequently removed to the corner of Abchurch Lane and Lombard Street.

In 1696 Lloyd started a newspaper, which gave a list of ships' arrivals and sailings. The newspaper, which he called 'Lloyd's List', succeeded until its founder published an article questioning a decision in the House of Lords.

Edward Lloyd was censured and his paper was suppressed. It was not until thirty years later that he was allowed to re-establish it. Since then 'Lloyd's List' has appeared regularly.

At Every Port.
The frequenters of Lloyd's coffee-house were not permitted to enjoy their monopoly of marine insurance for long, and in 1720 Parliament allowed two other companies to be established in London.

About one hundred years later there was a Parliamentary inquiry into the monopoly enjoyed by Lloyd's and these two companies. The House of Commons decided that Lloyd's had rendered such great service to the country by supplying the Government with information regarding maritime matters that it should retain its privileges.

Ten years later, however, an Act was passed by which marine insurance was thrown open, and since that time many other companies have been established.

Just Folks

MY COUNTRY.

I'd like to give my country all my best. To feel somehow that I have earned her smile. That she has found my little life worth while.

That I have never failed her in the test. Never held self above her interest. Or given ear to any traitor's glib. But have been steadfast to the farthest mile. And earned the right to sleep upon her breast.

Just as a mother smiles upon her son Who has not failed her teachings, and is glad When home he comes, with all his victories won.

That such a man was once her little lad. I hope my country to the end may be happy to own that she has mothered me.

Fashions and Fads.

One beautiful evening gown features two long-pointed trains of gold lace. Velvet and point-lace are used together to form a dinner gown of unusual charm.

The slim skirt of a black crepe maroon coat is embroidered in very coarse thread.

A tea gown of yellow chiffon over maize satin is trimmed with grey marabou.

Besides, every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and abundance.

What He Sought.
Apropos the Lord Mayor's banquet, a good story was once told by Mr. Alderman Roll.

It concerned a certain invited guest who some years back appeared in the banquet hall before any of the other guests had arrived, and was observed by the waiters to be going round the table testing the knives.

Asked if he was looking for something he replied: "Yes, I cut my mouth with a sharp knife last year, and this year I thought I would try and find a blunt one."

Unsolved "Scent" Puzzles.
"Rose by any other name would smell as sweet," says Juliet, but neither she nor anyone else has succeeded in giving a satisfactory definition of the rose's wonderful perfume.

The whole problem of scent is, in fact, one of the most baffling known to man.

Rats are fond of aniseed. Some animals are attracted by musk and other repellent by it. Cats like valerian. Why? These are only a few of the many questions to which no answers is forthcoming.

No one knows why some scent will last for years, while others fade in a short time, or why, again, the perfume of certain wild flowers are so overpowering.

When Judges Get Annoyed.

Only those behind the scenes in legal life know the strain on the nerves of counsel and judge entailed by a case with important issues.

One departed occupant of the Bench used to have his "knife into" several members of the Bar. The results were not edifying. There were squabbles which might easily have developed into feuds.

In the case of a judge long dead the feud on his side against counsel counsel used to be acknowledged quite candidly. Peacemakers who went with the olive-branch were sent back to the principals with the intimation that the judge hated them. He was quite a good judge, too, but his likes and dislikes got the better of him and retarded his promotion.

A Chancery judge who had the reputation of being upset on appeal more frequently than any other was equally the victim of these particular prejudices, which led him into conflicts with counsel and even witnesses.

From Briefs to Bookmakers.
"Playing to the gallery does not go down in this court," was a favourite saying of his. The result was that if you had a spare hour and desired a little amusement you could usually get it as spectator of a "rough and tumble" in the court.

At Ascot one day a Chancery "special," who was given to "cragging" with the judge in question, was asked why he had left his briefs to attend the races. "I have been turned out of two courts to-day," he replied, genially, "so I thought I would give a miss to the only other court where I was wanted."

Lord Esher could be pettish on occasions. Here is a story well known to the Bar.

Mr. Oswald was opening an appeal at some length. Lord Esher kept fidgeting in his chair. At last he burst out: "Really, Mr. Oswald, you might give judges credit for a little common sense."

"That, my lord," Oswald answered, winningly, "was the mistake I made in the court below."

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.
Here's an easy recipe for it, and you have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will give you a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup.

Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Interested in cards, and after the death of King Edward the pack was given to the Prince at his special request.

The best card player of the Royal Family is the Duke of York, who delights in auction bridge.

The Prince of Wales has received a gift of a wonderful pack of cards, sent to him by an intimate friend. They are hand-painted upon ivory, each of the Court cards being representative of a famous Royal personage. It would not be wise to mention the subjects selected for the "knave."

It is not likely that such a unique pack will ever be used in public; probably it will be locked away with another remarkable pack, once the property of King Edward. This set was presented by the ex-Kaiser, and was the work of a Berlin artist, who was reputed to have spent some months on the undertaking.

In this case the Court cards are represented by Kings, each face being composed of innumerable other faces—a really wonderful work of art. King George and Queen Mary are not
