Germany Hysterical Over Dirigible Incident.

Berlin, April 4.—With the safe return of the Zeppelin airship to Metz, Germany is breathing freely again, and perhaps Europe has cause to share in the general relief.

The sanest sections of the press and public are manifesting masterly composure over the awkward incident, but in less controlled quarters, where patriotism is a disease, a state of mind bordering on hysteria prevails. In these quarters it is regarded as an irreparable national disaster, and it is declared that all the jealously guarded national secrets on which Germany pinned her hopes of retaining the supremacy of the air have been handed to her supreme enemy "on a silver plate."

The Tagliche Rundschau, which regards itself as the official organ of the big air fleet party, lashes itself into hysterical fury worthy of a British suffragette. It demands that the officers of the airship be court-martialed. It says they ought to have blown up the ship and all on board rather than take the risk of giving its priceless secrets to France. The paper says it imagines that France will gain so much benefit by the knowledge it obtained that the long-sought day of reckoning cannot be much longer

The paint work on the airship was scribbled all over with "Vive la France," "A bas Allemagne," "Bon jour Guillaume," and similar caligraphic eruptions of wit of the irreverent populace of Toronto, April 5 .- Further investigation into the tenders and contract for the high tension transmission line of the hydro-electric power commission in the Niagara district was continued before the public accounts committee of the Legislature yesterday. Mr. F. H. McGuigan, of the McGuigan Construction Company, was again on the stand, and persisted in his statement that he had been actually robbed by the prov-

Examined by Mr. Rowell, the contractor reported that he had been unable to find the agreement between nimself and Mr. Muralt, by which the ment from the fact that the commistender of the latter was withdrawn on the understanding that the portion included in the Muralt tender would be sublet to that firm. "I do not care to answer any question in that direction at all."

To Mr. McGarry, Mr. McGuigan said outside of the Muralt tender he had no knowledge whatever about the figures of the other tenders at the time his own figures were put in. He went over again the details of claim of $412,000, and declared that he was entitled to a large part of it. "You say the hydro-electric power commission got the better of you in that settlement," asked Mr. McGarry with reference to the payment of $89,-

"They not only got the better of me but they absolutely robbed me." Considerable cross-firing occurred between the Opposition leader and Mr. McGarry with regard to the produc tion of the agreement between Guigan and Muralt for the withdrawal latter's tender and the return of the check. Mr. McGuigan persisted that the commission knew nothing of the arrangement. Mr. McGarry ook the view that this was a private agreement and had no relation to the investigation before the committee.
