The astonished bridegroom exclaimed :

"Sir you mis ake, we came to be married."
"Well," replied Davis, "if you insist I will marry you, but believe me my friends, you had much better be buried.'

The most striking mustration of the saying " that the pith of a lady's letter is the postscript," which we ever heard of, was that furnished with a printed copy of the fore- of a young lady who having gone to India and writing home to her friends, concluded wing words :-
